Danielle Green PhD,2019-01-14 Perhaps every soul enters the world knowing that it is unalterably corded to an invisible realm but in adapting to physical form forgets until the veil is momentarily lifted and reveals a mystical call that beckons us to awaken to the real story of existence our unseen bond to this larger reality and the personal destiny imprinted on the soul In a deeply personal and probing exploration of communications with the spiritual world Dr Danielle Green relies on personal experiences gained from her own messages as well as findings from over thirty years of research and documentation of mystical calls to carefully examine messages from beyond and guide others to understanding their own communications with the invisible realm Dr Green explores what it means to receive a mystical call how one follows or refuses the call and how such experiences impact one's perceptions beliefs attitudes physiology and ultimately destiny A Magnificent Obsession is the most documented report of mystical calls from around the world and offers a historical religious spiritual evolutionary and psychological perspective to understand this life determining phenomenon   Sportuality Jeanne Hess,2012-03-30

Looking for God in All the Spaces Jerica Thompson, 2025-06-25 Looking for God in All the Spaces is a deeply personal spiritual memoir that chronicles one woman's journey through the unraveling of certainty the pain of betrayal and the courageous search for a more expansive understanding of the Divine Raised in a high control Christian environment the author once found comfort in obedience structure and the assurance that righteousness would be rewarded But when her marriage collapsed and her faith no longer brought peace she was forced to confront the cracks in her theology and in herself This book is not a how to guide nor is it an attack on religion It is a tender invitation into the liminal space between no longer and not yet With poetic vulnerability and unflinching honesty the author explores themes of religious trauma spiritual identity moral conditioning and sacred curiosity She weaves together personal stories etymology psychology and interfaith wisdom to illuminate how indoctrination shame and fear disconnect us not only from God but from our truest selves Drawing on metaphors like Kintsugi the Japanese art of repairing broken pottery with gold she redefines healing as the process of reclaiming wholeness not perfection Along the way she examines the emotional weight of obedience the fragility of conditional belonging and the human longing to be both known and free As she wanders through the wilderness of doubt and into a broader spiritual landscape the author encounters new perspectives from Hebrew Israelite teachings to Buddhist and Yogic philosophies Ultimately she finds herself not farther from God but closer to a God of her understanding One who doesn't demand performance but invites presence One who meets us not only in sacred spaces but in the sacredness of every space For anyone questioning the faith they were given grieving the loss of certainty or trying to reconcile their spirituality with their lived experience Looking for God in All the Spaces is a compassionate companion a reminder that you are not lost you are becoming
