The Poetics of National and Racial Identity in Nineteenth-Century American Literature

John D. Kerker, 2003-12-11 John D. Kerker's study examines the literary history of racial and national identity in nineteenth century America. Kerker argues that writers such as DuBois, Lanier, Simms, and Scott used poetic effects to assert the distinctiveness of certain groups in a diffuse social landscape. Kerker explores poetry's formal properties, its sound effects, as they intersect with the issues of race and nation. He shows how formal effects ranging from meter and rhythm to alliteration and melody provide these writers with evidence of a collective identity, whether national or racial. Through this shared reliance on formal literary effects, national and racial identities, Kerker shows, are related elements of a single literary history. This is the story of how poetic effects helped to define national identities in Anglo America as a step toward helping to define racial identities within the United States. This highly original study will command a wide audience of Americanists.

Spirit in the Dark

Josef Sorett, 2016 While many of the most significant black intellectual movements of the second half of the twentieth century have been perceived as secular, Josef Sorett demonstrates in this book that religion was actually a fertile, fluid, and formidable force within these movements. Spirit in the Dark examines how African American literary visions were animated and organized by religion and spirituality from the New Negro Renaissance of the 1920s to the Black Arts movement of the 1960s.

Dem Dry Bones

Luke A. Powery, 2012-12-01 In an age when the so-called prosperity gospel holds sway in many Christian communities or the good news of Christ is reduced to feel-good bromides, it would seem that death has little place in contemporary preaching. Embracing the vision of the valley of dry bones in Ezekiel 37 as a metaphor for preaching in the Spirit, acclaimed homiletician Luke Powery asserts that death is the context for all preaching. In fact, the Spirit leads preachers to the context of death each Sunday in order to proclaim a word of life that ultimately breathes hope into people's lives. Yet many preachers avoid death because they are at a loss of what to say about it and do not realize its vital connection to the substance of Christian hope. As a result, the church is too often left with sermons that are fundamentally devoid of hope. Dem Dry Bones aims to remedy some of the theological and homiletical shortcomings in contemporary preaching by looking closely at the African American spirituals tradition. Through this study, Powery demonstrates how to preach in the Spirit so that proclaiming death becomes an avenue toward hope. In short, no death, no hope.

To Wake the Nations

Eric J. Sundquist, 1993 Sundquist presents a major reevaluation of the formative years of American literature, 1830-1930, that shows how white and black literature constitute a single interwoven tradition. By examining African America's contested relation to the intellectual and literary forms of white culture, he reconstructs American literary tradition.

A Most Valuable Medium

Richard Bauman, Patrick Feaster, 2023-03-14 Between 1895 and 1920 the United States saw a sharp increase in commercial sound recording, the first mass medium of home entertainment. As companies sought to discover what kinds of records would appeal to consumers, they turned to performance forms already familiar to contemporary audiences: sales pitches, oratory, sermons, and stories. In A Most Valuable Medium Richard Bauman explores the practical problems that producers and performers confronted when adapting familiar oral genres to this innovative medium of sound recording He also examines how audiences responded to these modified and commoditized presentations Featuring audio examples throughout and offering a novel look at the early history of sound recording A Most Valuable Medium reveals how this new technology effected monumental change in the ways we receive information The Missionary Herald at Home and Abroad ,1929 Leaving the South Mary

Weeks-Baxter,2018-12-05 Millions of Southerners left the South in the twentieth century in a mass migration that has in many ways woven the fabric of American society on cultural political and economic levels Because the movements of Southerners and people in general are controlled not only by physical boundaries marked on a map but also by narratives that define movement narrative is central in building and sustaining borders and in breaking them down In Leaving the South Border Crossing Narratives and the Remaking of Southern Identity author Mary Weeks Baxter analyzes narratives by and about those who left the South and how those narratives have remade what it means to be southern Drawing from a broad range of narratives including literature newspaper articles art and music Weeks Baxter outlines how these displacement narratives challenged concepts of Southern nationhood and redefined Southern identity Close attention is paid to how depictions of the South particularly in the media and popular culture prompted Southerners to leave the region and changed perceptions of Southerners to outsiders as well as how Southerners saw themselves Through an examination of narrative Weeks Baxter reveals the profound effect gender race and class have on the nature of the migrant s journey the adjustment of the migrant and the ultimate decision of the migrant either to stay put or return home and she connects the history of border crossings to the issues being considered in today s national landscape Rural America ,1928 The Country Life Bulletin ,1927 *The Cambridge Companion to J.
