Head Injured Men Fifteen Years Later Arthur Earl Walker, Franco Erculei, 1969 Indexes to the Epilepsy Accessions of the Epilepsy Information System J. Kiffin Penry, 1978 Rehabilitation of the Brain-Damaged Adult Gerald Goldstein, Leslie Ruthven, 2013-03-07

Basic Issues in Rehabilitation of the Brain Damaged Definitions Because of the vagueness surrounding the term brain damage it is necessary at the outset to define the population to which this book may have some application Although it is usual to speak of the brain damaged patient in a general way the conditions referred to cover a variety of specific disorders In this book we will be discussing only individuals who become brain damaged as adults We will be addressing ourselves specifically to adults who have sustained demonstrable structural brain damage Those conditions in which brain dysfunction is a possible etiological agent such as a number of functional psychiatric disorders will not be considered Thus the entire topic of mental retardation and early life brain damage will not be treated here nor the many problems associated with minimal brain damage syndromes in school age children Modern psychiatric thinking has tended to blur the distinction between the so called functional and organic disorders of Shagass Gershon Friedhoff 1977 but we would add here to the view that the patient with structural brain damage continues to present relatively unique assessment and treatment problems Furthermore the emphasis of this book will be placed on individuals with nonprogressive chronic brain damage

Principles of Neuropsychological Rehabilitation George P. Prigatano, 1999-07-08 Without guiding principles clinicians can easily get lost in the maze of problems that a brain damaged patient presents This book underlines the importance of patients subjective experience of brain disease or injury and the frustration and confusion they undergo It shows that the symptom picture is a mixture of premorbid cognitive and personal characteristics with the neuropsychological changes directly associated with brain pathology By closely observing the patient's behavior the clinician can teach him or her about the direct and indirect effects of brain damage The book provides guidelines both for the remediation of higher cerebral disturbances and the management of patients interpersonal problems It presents a new perspective on disorders of self awareness and recovery as well as deterioration phenomena after brain injury It will be an invaluable resource for psychologists neurologists and psychiatrists involved in neuropsychological rehabilitation

By Man Shall His Blood Be Shed Edward Feser,Joseph Bessette,2017-05-10 The Catholic Church has in recent decades been associated with political efforts to eliminate the death penalty It was not always so This timely work reviews and explains the Catholic Tradition regarding the death penalty demonstrating that it is not inherently evil and that it can be reserved as a just form of punishment in certain cases Drawing upon a wealth of philosophical scriptural theological and social scientific arguments the authors explain the perennial teaching of the Church that capital punishment can in principle be legitimate not only to protect society from immediate physical danger but also to administer retributive justice and to deter capital crimes The authors also show how some recent statements of Church leaders in opposition to the death penalty are prudential judgments rather than dogma They reaffirm that Catholics may in good conscience disagree about the application of the death penalty Some arguments against the death penalty falsely suggest that there has been a rupture in the Church s traditional teaching and thereby inadvertently cast doubt on the reliability of the Magisterium Yet as the authors demonstrate the Church s traditional teaching is a safeguard to society because the just use of the death penalty can be used to protect the lives of the innocent inculcate a horror of murder and affirm the dignity of human beings as free and rational creatures who must be held responsible for their actions By Man Shall His Blood Be Shed challenges contemporary Catholics to engage with Scripture Tradition natural law and the actual social scientific evidence in order to undertake a thoughtful analysis of the current debate about the death penalty
