Great Court And The British Museum:

The Great Court and the British Museum Robert Anderson, Robert Geoffrey William Anderson, 2000 As one of the world's greatest museums approaches its 250th anniversary the British Museum has undertaken a massive development programme largely facilitated by the removal of the British Library from Bloomsbury The Great Court commissioned by the British Museum from Norman Foster and Partners following a prestigious architectural competition is at the centre of plans to position the Museum for the new millennium and to present it as a great new civic space A 6100 square metre glass canopy will cover the new cultural plaza that has been designed around the dome of the famous Round Reading Room A link between the Museum's important architectural history and building design of the future the Great Court project is destined to be one of the great architectural sights of Europe

The Great Court and the British Museum Robert Geoffrey William Anderson, 2005-01-01 At the 250th anniversary the British Museum undertook a huge redevelopment programme largely facilitated by the removal of the British Library from its midst Lord Foster's Great Court is at the centre of the positioning of the Museum for the new millennium creating at the same time a new civic space A vast glass canopy curves over a specially created piazza with the dome of the famous round Reading Room at its centre Lying at the heart of the Museum the Great Court forges a link between the Museum's important architectural history and a 21st century concept of building design on the grand scale The Great Court explores the creation of this unique urban room the impetus and background of the project the architectural competition the complex design and construction process and the very role of the Museum itself Publisher description

The Great Court at the British Museum Ken Powell, 2005 The latest addition to Art Spaces series profiles one of the most famous and prestigious buildings in the world The two acre square enclosed by a spectacular glass roof transforms the Museum's inner courtyard into the largest covered public square in Europe

The Great Court at the British Museum Norman Foster, Deyan Sudjic, 2011 KEYNOTE From initial sketches to final project this book documents the reinvention of the British Museum's Great Court One of the world's greatest institutions of learning and art the British Museum sees nearly six million visitors annually Yet until Norman Foster's remarkable transformation of its courtyard the enormous rambling structure was like a city without a park Numerous photographs reveal the court from a variety of perspectives and show the cutting edge technology of the spectacular glazed canopy that shelters what is now the largest covered public space in Europe Involving the magnificent restoration of the Reading Room the creation of new galleries for African art and a range of educational resources the Great Court project was a herald of the British Museum's wider transformation The project and this book illuminate Foster Partners' holistic and ingenious approach to contemporary design

AUTHOR Deyan Sudjic is director of London's Design Museum He writes frequently about architecture ILLUSTRATIONS 90 colour

New Glass Architecture Brent Richards, Gilbert Dennis, 2006-01-01 A timely look at the ways in which glass is utilized in some of today's most beautiful and experimental building designs. For centuries glass has provoked fascination with its properties as a versatile material that permits light to enter buildings in spectacular ways. Much of modern architecture has been conceived by using glass to create increasingly minimal structures to promote the notion of lightweight construction solutions and to allow maximum daylight into buildings. New Glass Architecture showcases the changing ways that aesthetics and methods for using glass have been developing since the 1990s. The book begins with an introduction that traces the history of key moments in glass architecture from the stained glass windows of Chartres Cathedral to the Crystal Palace of 1851 and early constructions by John Soane, Bruno Taut, Le Corbusier and Mies van der Rohe. Author Brent Richards explains the importance of glass artists in the second half of the 20th century and describes developments in glass technology over the last twenty years. Beautifully illustrated with newly commissioned photographs by Dennis Gilbert, the book features twenty-five case studies of recent glass constructions from around the world by such leading architects as Foster and Partners, Frank Gehry, Herzog & de Meuron, Steven Holl, Toyo Ito Associates, Jean Nouvel, Rafael Viñoly and Peter Zumthor. Each building is illustrated in full color and accompanied by detailed drawings. New Glass Architecture features these buildings and more: Chapel of Ignatius, Seattle; Cond Nast Caf, New York; DZ Bank, Berlin; Kimmel Center for the Performing Arts, Philadelphia; Kunsthaus Graz, Austria; Laban Dance Centre, London; Torre Agbar, Barcelona.

Widespan Roof Structures Michael Barnes, Michael Dickson, 2000. Presents world thinking on the design and construction of large covered spaces. This book aims to offer insights into many of the innovative construction design projects. It explores the advances within stressed membrane roofing, atria and glass structures with a focus on international developments. It also addresses the problems of construction.

richly illustrated and engaging volume      Structure As Architecture Andrew Charleson, 2014-07-11

Structure as Architecture presents a comprehensive analysis of the indispensable role of structure in architecture. An exploration as well as a celebration of structure, the book draws on a series of design studies and case study examples to illustrate how structure can be employed to realize a wide range of concepts in contemporary architecture. By examining design principles that relate to both architecture and structural engineering, Andrew Charleson provides new insights into the relationship between both the technical and aesthetic aspects of architecture. Now in its second edition, the text has been extensively revised and updated throughout. Features include:

- A brand new chapter on hidden structure adding to the material on exposed structures
- Two new chapters on using structure to realise common architectural concepts through a combination of precedents and creative design
- Over 50 new case studies from across the globe
- Easy to understand diagrams and a highly visual design to aid understanding and accessibility
- More than two hundred case studies of contemporary buildings from countries such as the UK, the US, France, Germany, Spain, Hong Kong, Australia, and Japan illustrate how a thorough integration of structure adds layers of richness and enhances the realisation of architectural design concepts.
