Great River Review Spring Summer 2001:

Naming the Stars Joyce Sutphen, 2003-04-01 From an award winning poet a major new gathering of poems that employ the sonnet form No Place Like Home Linda M. Hasselstrom, 2010-08-28 In No Place Like Home Linda Hasselstrom ponders the changing nature of community in the modern West where old family ranches are being turned into subdivisions and historic towns are evolving into mean congested cities Her scrutiny like her life moves back and forth between her ranch on the South Dakota prairie and her house in an old neighborhood at the edge of downtown Cheyenne Wyoming The vignettes that form the foundation of her consideration are drawn from the communities she has known during her life in the West reflecting on how they have grown thrived failed and changed and highlighting the people and decisions that shaped them Hasselstrom's ruminations are both intensely personal and universal She laments the disappearance of the old prairie ranches and the rural sense of community and mutual responsibility that sustained them but she also discovers that a spirit of community can be found in unlikely places and among unlikely people The book defines her idea of how a true community should work and the kind of place she wants to live in Her voice is unique and honest both compassionate and cranky full of love for the harsh hauntingly beautiful short grass prairie that is her home and rich in understanding of the intricacies of the natural world around her and the infinite potentials of human commitment hope and greed For anyone curious about the state of the contemporary West Hasselstrom offers a report from the front where nature and human aspirations are often at odds and where the concepts of community and mutual responsibility are being redefined In Reach Pamela Carter

The Thin Tear In The Fabric Of Space Douglas Trevor, 2005-10-01 The Thin Tear in the Fabric of Space gathers stories about coping with grief trying to love people who have died and more broadly leaving old versions of the self behind sometimes by choice and sometimes out of necessity In each of the nine stories Douglas Trevor's characters are forced to face uncomfortable realities For Elena Gavrushnekov in the title story that means admitting after the death of her beloved that she still longs for contact with other human bodies For Peter in Central Square it is realizing that like his deceased father before him he is drinking himself to death Unable to confront his incapacitated mother and the memory of the plane crash that killed his father Edwin Morris in Saint Francis in Flint is compelled to acknowledge that his saintly aspirations are not what they appear to be while Sharon Mackaney in The Surprising Weight of the Body's Organs struggles with uncontrollable outbursts of rage in the wake of her young son's death In moments of great pain and loss when self expression seems impossible and terribly useless the characters in these stories nonetheless discover the tenderness of others In The River the narrator finds that the friendship he has forged with a French girl with whom he can only just communicate has bred intense almost intuitive compassion while in Fellowship of the Bereaved the disconsolate brother of the deceased sister who occupies the empty center of the story uncovers not only anger in his parents but also empathy and humor As these characters persevere in their own lives they do so mindful of and humanized by the experiences of having seen people they know and love slip unexpectedly into the thin tear in the fabric of space that quiet chasm that so resolutely separates the living from the dead
