R. L. Fletcher,2015-06-25 Excerpt from The Great War 1914 1918 A Brief Sketch Soit but I should not like to stand in the shoes of such men when Liber scriptus proferetur in quo totum continetur unde mundus judicetur There may even be a new war with the old enemy reborn from the agonies of hapless Russia and in alliance with her worst elements and such a war would undoubtedly rob us of some of the fruits of our recent victory But it can never and nothing can ever rob us of the deeds which Britain and France have done in the war that began in 1914 That war the war it must ever be to us old people some of whom lost in it all that made life worth living is over It ended on November 11 1918 I grant that it ended as the months that have since elapsed have proved a little too soon It was a pity that Marshal Foch was not allowed to have his battle that the armistice was granted before the southern arm of his giant pincers could close upon the Rhine from Lorraine and before Germany had been made to suffer at least some fraction of what her insensate arrogance and cruelty made the rest of Europe suffer But with that also I am not concerned it is not within the sphere of operations which I planned for this little book About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

The National Roll of the Great War, 1914-1918, 2001 History of the Great War, 1914-1918 Carlton J. H. Hayes, 2017-06-05 Self interest was the dominant note of the years immediately preceding the outbreak of the Great War In economics and in politics among individuals social classes and nations flourished a self interest that tended more and more to degenerate into mere cynical selfishness There was no international organization There was no general authority for the determination of disputes and for the regulation of world interests There were at the opening of the twentieth century some fifty states in theory absolutely independent sovereign and equal In fact the fifty were very unequal and even the strongest among them was not strong enough to maintain its independence should the others unite against it Yet each proceeded to act on the assumption in most cases that it was self sufficient and that its own self interest was its supreme guide Carlton J H Hayes

The Great War, 1914-1918 Gustave Niox, 1921 Victory Must be Ours Laurence Moyer, 1995 This unusual and incisive account chronicles Germany in World War I from the viewpoint of soldiers who fought the battles and civilians who endured the ever increasing trauma of escalating casualties widespread shortages and declining conditions of living It relates how Germany attempted to cope with a massive blockade the scope of which had not been seen since the days of Napoleon thus forcing

German authorities to adopt a series of sometimes innovative sometimes brutal measures all of which rested on the underlying premise that victory a clear cut victory could be the only acceptable option Victory Must Be Ours explores the Germany which in 1914 took a precipitous leap into darkness It explores the ingredients which made the Great War perhaps the single most fateful event of the Twentieth Century setting in motion the most bloody conflict of all time World War II BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved
