Kafka's Social Discourse Mark E. Blum, 2011-05-12 Franz Kafka is among the most significant 20th century voices to examine the absurdity and terror posed for the individual by what his contemporary Max Weber termed the iron cage of society Ferdinand Tönnies had defined the problem of finding community within society for Kafka and his peers in his 1887 book Gemeinschaft und Gesellschaft Kafka took up this issue by focusing upon the social discourse of human relationships In this book Mark E Blum examines Kafka's three novels Amerika The Trial and The Castle in their exploration of how community is formed or eroded in the interpersonal relations of its protagonists Critical literature has recognized Kafka's ability to narrate the gestural moment of alienation or communion This social discourse was augmented however by a dimension virtually no commentator has recognized Kafka's conversation with past and present authors Kafka encoded authors and their texts representing every century of the evolution of modernism and its societal problems from Bunyan and Defoe through Pope and Lessing to Fontane and Thomas Mann The inter-textual conversation Kafka conducted can enable us to appreciate the profound human problem of realizing community within society Cultural historians as well as literary critics will be enriched by the evidence of these encoded cultural conversations Kafka's Imperial Messenger may finally be heard in the full history of his emanations Kafka encoded not only past authors but painters as well Kafka had been known as a graphic artist in his youth and was informed by expressionism and cubism as he matured Kafka's encodings of literature as well as fine art are not solely of the work to which he refers but the community of authors or painters and their success or failure of community Kafka's encodings were meant as an extra-textual readings for astute readers but also as a lesson to his fellow authors whom he held accountable in his correspondence as cultural messengers

Barbarism and Its Discontents Maria

Boletsi,2013-01-30 Barbarism and civilization form one of the oldest and most rigid oppositions in Western history According to this dichotomy barbarism functions as the negative standard through which civilization fosters its self definition and superiority by labeling others barbarians Since the 1990s and especially since 9 11 these terms have become increasingly popular in Western political and cultural rhetoric a rhetoric that divides the world into forces of good and evil This study intervenes in this recent trend and interrogates contemporary and historical uses of barbarism arguing that barbarism also has a disruptive insurgent potential Boletsi recasts barbarism as a productive concept finding that it is a common thread in works of literature art and theory By dislodging barbarism from its conventional contexts this book reclaims barbarism s edge and proposes it as a useful theoretical tool

Lambent Traces Stanley Corngold, 2009-01-10 On the night of September 22 1912 Franz Kafka wrote his story The Judgment which came out of him like a regular birth This act of creation struck him as an unmistakable sign of his literary destiny Thereafter the search of many of his characters for the Law for a home for artistic fulfillment can be understood as a figure for Kafka's own search to reproduce the ecstasy of a single night In Lambent Traces Franz Kafka the preeminent American critic and translator of Franz Kafka traces the implications of Kafka's literary breakthrough Kafka's first concern was not his responsibility to his culture but to his fate as literature which he pursued by exploring the limits of the human At the same time he kept his transcendental longings sober by noting with incomparable irony their virtual impossibility At times Kafka's passion for personal transcendence as a writer entered into a torturous and witty conflict with his desire for another sort of transcendence one driven by a modern Gnosticism This struggle prompted him continually to scrutinize different kinds of mediation such as confessional writing the dream the media the idea of marriage skepticism asceticism and the imitation of death Lambent Traces Franz Kafka concludes with a reconstruction and critique of the approaches to Kafka by such major critics as Adorno Gilman and Deleuze and Guattari

The Conflagration of Community J. Hillis Miller, 2011-08-01 After Auschwitz to write even a single poem is barbaric The Conflagration of Community challenges Theodor Adorno's famous statement about aesthetic production after the Holocaust arguing for the possibility of literature to bear witness to extreme collective and personal experiences J Hillis Miller masterfully considers how novels about the Holocaust relate to fictions written before and after it and uses theories of community from Jean Luc Nancy and Derrida to explore the dissolution of community bonds in its wake Miller juxtaposes readings of books about the Holocaust Keneally's Schindler's List McEwan's Black Dogs Spiegelman's Maus and Kertsz's Fatelessness with Kafka's novels and Morrison's Beloved asking what it means to think of texts as acts of testimony Throughout Miller questions the resonance between the difficulty of imagining understanding or remembering Auschwitz a difficulty so often a theme in records of the Holocaust and the exasperating resistance to clear conclusive interpretation of these novels The Conflagration of Community is an eloquent study of literature's value to fathoming the unfathomable
