Real World Economics Edward Fullbrook, 2007 Economics is extremely sick It is so locked in its past that nearly all of its introductory textbooks are modelled on one that appeared in 1948 The discipline cannot continue in its autistic state much longer This book takes you to the heart of a fiery and many faceted debate It is comprised of 66 articles that have been selected based on their importance to the reform movement and for their accessibility to the general reader Real economic problems concern real people so their analysis must be made intelligible to an educated general public if real democracy is to function All economists must learn to live without the belief that there is only one right way of describing and explaining reality This requires economists to begin the development of an ethos of honesty regarding the limitations of their chosen approaches

Rethinking Economics Stuart Birks,2014-08-27 This brief responds to the criticism that mainstream economics is currently facing due to its heavy reliance on models and narrow range of quantitative research techniques It takes a broader view identifying issues that are also relevant for heterodox and pluralist approaches to economics By acknowledging that the world of theory is not the same as the reality that we are trying to understand the brief focuses on three paths that generally receive little attention These are from theory to the real world from theory to empirical analysis and from empirical results to policy application Each path highlights a range of related concerns and qualifications and the focus on these transitions provides a strong basis for critical evaluation of analyses and potentially more realistic results and recommendations It also provides a framework for synthesizing information from alternative schools of thought and across disciplines In addition the importance of framing and rhetoric is demonstrated The brief addresses philosophical and methodological issues using a clear non technical approach that can be easily understood by a non specialist audience The Coming First World Debt Crisis

A. Pettifor,2006-10-02 In this book Ann Pettifor examines the issues of debt affecting the first world or OECD countries looking at the history politics and ethics of the coming debt crisis and exploring the implications of high international indebtedness for governments corporations households individuals and the ecosystem Good Citizenship in America

Rethinking the Theory of Money, Credit, and Macroeconomics John Smithin,2018-09-15 This book provides a comprehensive re working of the basic principles of monetary macroeconomics in an alternative monetary model AMM of economic growth the business cycle inflation and income distribution These principles differ considerably from those advanced in the standard macroeconomics literature and in textbooks However the latter have been demonstrably unsuccessful in the promotion of usable macroeconomic policy advice for the past several years actually decades A different approach is needed In particular the new approach takes seriously the vital role of credit creation and endogenous money in capitalism It does not imagine that all of the difficult questions of economic policy making may be resolved within a paradigm that conceptualizes economic activity as merely a question of barter exchange The result is a blueprint for a set of growth friendly macroeconomic policies which will promote full employment financial stability and higher real wages essentially for the benefit of the long suffering middle and working classes rather for the chamber of commerce and financial interests

The Pelican, 1928 Making Wonderful Martin Tweedale, 2023-03-13 In Making Wonderful Martin M Tweedale tells how an ideology in the West energized an economic expansion that has led to ecological disaster He takes us back to the rise of cities and autocratic rulers analyzing how respect for custom and tradition gave way to the dominance of top down rational planning and organization Then in response came a highly attractive myth of an eventual future rid of all of humankind's ills one in which life would be made wonderful Originating in Zoroastrianism and through Jewish apocalyptic works flowing into early Christianity this myth produced utopian beliefs that set the West apart from the other civilizations Tweedale shows how these beliefs became popular among Western elites in the early modern period and eventually resulted in the distinctly Western doctrine of progress This doctrine an almost religious faith in the capacity of science and technology to improve human life released economic expansion from traditional constraints and has led to our current environmental emergency Exploring sources from philosophy religion and the history of ideas Making Wonderful is for all readers who are intellectually curious about the roots of our eco catastrophe Reporting on
