Ecosystems And Human Wellbeing Multiscale Assessments Findings Of The Subglobal Assessments Working Group:

Ecosystems and Human Well-Being Millennium Ecosystem Assessment (Program). Sub-global Assessments Working Group, 2005-12-14 One of the major innovations of the Millennium Ecosystem Assessment is the incorporation of local and regional assessments 33 in all in a global portrait of the planet's health It is the first global assessment of ecosystems to include not only a diversity of ecosystems but to draw on a wide range of cultural orientations and intellectual traditions including those of indigenous peoples The Sub global Assessments Working Group integrated information from multiple sources and found that biophysical factors such as land use change climate change and variability pollution and invasive species have a significant effect on human well being across cultures For example in places where there are no other social safety nets diminished human well being tends to increase immediate dependence on ecosystem services which can damage the capacity of those local ecosystems which in turn appears to increase the probability of natural disaster or conflict Representing the baseline and framework for ongoing assessments of ecosystem and human well being on a variety of scales around the world Multiscale Assessments provides students researchers and policy makers with the most comprehensive methodology for assessing ecosystems at local national and regional scales

Ecosystems and Human Well-being Carlos Corvalán, Simon Hales, Anthony J. McMichael, Millennium Ecosystem Assessment (Program), World Health Organization, 2005 Approximately 60% of the benefits that the global ecosystem provides to support life on Earth such as fresh water clean air and a relatively stable climate are being degraded or used unsustainably In the report scientists warn that harmful consequences of this degradation to human health are already being felt and could grow significantly worse over the next 50 years

Ecosystems and Human Well-Being Neville Ash, 2010-04-05 The Millennium Ecosystem Assessment MA is the most extensive study ever of the linkages between the world's ecosystems and human well being It is one of the most important conservation initiatives ever undertaken and the ecosystem services paradigm on which it is based provides the standard for practice This manual supplies the specific tools that practitioners of the paradigm need in order to extend their work into the future The manual is a stand alone how to guide to conducting assessments of the impacts on humans of ecosystem changes It builds on the experiences and lessons learned from the MA global and sub global assessment initiatives with chapters written by well known participants in those initiatives It also includes insights gained from service focused assessment activities since the completion of the MA in 2005

Ecosystems and Human Well-being, 2005 Of the MA conceptual framework Overview of the MA sub global assessments Linking ecosystem services and human well being in the sub global assessments The multiscale approach Using multiple knowledge systems in sub global assessments benefits and challenges Assessment process Drivers of ecosystem change Condition and trends of ecosystem services and biodiversity Responses to ecosystem changes and their impacts on human well being lessons from sub global assessments Sub global

Marine and Coastal Ecosystems and Human Well-being Claire Brown,United Nations Environment Programme. Division of Early Warning and Assessment,2006 This report is a synthesis of the findings of the MA on marine and coastal ecosystems taken from the global and sub global assessments This synthesis report sets out to provide answers to a series of questions that all stakeholders not just decision makers may ask what is at stake what is the current status of marine and coastal ecosystems why should we care if we lose marine and coastal ecosystems and what can be done to ensure that marine and coastal ecosystems and services are conserved

Adaptive Management of Social-Ecological Systems Craig R. Allen,Ahjond S. Garmestani,2015-04-25 Adaptive management is an approach to managing social ecological systems that fosters learning about the systems being managed and remains at the forefront of environmental management nearly 40 years after its original conception Adaptive management persists because it allows action despite uncertainty and uncertainty is reduced when learning occurs during the management process Often termed learning by doing the allure of this management approach has entrenched the concept widely in agency direction and statutory mandates across the globe This exceptional volume is a collection of essays on the past present and future of adaptive management written by prominent authors with long experience in developing implementing and assessing adaptive management Moving forward the book provides policymakers managers and scientists a powerful tool for managing for resilience in the face of uncertainty

Biodiversity in Environmental Assessment Roel Slootweg,2010 First of its kind and unique in its blend of theoretical and practical approaches for mainstreaming biodiversity in impact assessment

Environmental Governance Gabriela Kütting,Ronnie Lipschutz,2012-08-21 This edited collection makes a highly significant critical contribution to the field of environmental politics It argues that the international level institutionalist approach to global environmental politics has run its course employed solely by powerful actors in order to orchestrate and manipulate local communities within a continuing hegemonic system The outstanding international line up of contributors to this volume explore the real advances that are being made in the areas where the local and global intersect and how power fits into the equation They explore the relationship between governance power and knowledge using power as the main analytical tool The contributors adopt a variety of approaches and perspectives some starting from the local level and shifting upward to the global and some using a global perspective that narrows down to the local Some chapters explore specific case studies and others employ a more conceptual framework but all of them bring a new dimension to the relationship between power and knowledge in environmental governance Power here is explored in all its guises from relational to structural power An important and timely exploration of a topic at the forefront of global debate Environmental Governance is essential reading for all students of global environmental politics international political economy and international relations

Sustainable Development and Environmental Management Corrado Clini, Ignazio Musu, Maria Lodovica Gullino, 2010-06-29 This book stems from a four year experience of a Training Programme addressing members of several Chinese governmental Institutions which given the moment of extremely intense and fast development of their country consider the issues of environment and sustainable growth among the foremost priorities In particular they expressed the need and will to develop policy and management tools that could lead to a strategy of sustainable growth from an economic social and environmental point of view The Programme turned out to be a success it involved up to June 2007 more than 2000 trainees from almost all the Provinces of China precisely because the forces that answered those needs are extremely diverse as to include the academia national and local governments public institutions private companies and international agencies Following this feature the book's contributors have been selected among more than 300 professors researchers policy makers and entrepreneurs involved in the Training activities thus offering different approaches to the key questions of environmental management

Restoring Natural Capital James Aronson, Suzanne J. Milton, James N. Blignaut, 2012-09-26 How can environmental degradation be stopped How can it be reversed And how can the damage already done be repaired The authors of this volume argue that a two pronged approach is needed reducing demand for ecosystem goods and services and better management of them coupled with an increase in supply through environmental restoration Restoring Natural Capital brings together economists and ecologists theoreticians practitioners policy makers and scientists from the developed and developing worlds to consider the costs and benefits of repairing ecosystem goods and services in natural and socioecological systems It examines the business and practice of restoring natural capital and seeks to establish common ground between economists and ecologists with respect to the restoration of degraded ecosystems and landscapes and the still broader task of restoring natural capital The book focuses on developing strategies that can achieve the best outcomes in the shortest amount of time as it considers conceptual and theoretical issues from both an economic and ecological perspective examines specific strategies to foster the restoration of natural capital and offers a synthesis and a vision of the way forward Nineteen case studies from around the world illustrate challenges and achievements in setting targets refining approaches to finding and implementing restoration projects and using restoration of natural capital as an economic opportunity Throughout contributors make the case that the restoration of natural capital requires close collaboration among scientists from across disciplines as well as local people and when successfully executed represents a practical realistic and essential tool for achieving lasting sustainable development

Global Environment Outlook 4 United Nations Environment Programme,2007 The fourth report in the Global Environment Outlook series provides a comprehensive scientifically credible policy relevant and up to date assessment of and outlook for the state of the global environment Environment for development is the GEO 4 underlying theme and the report pays special attention to the role and impact of the environment on human well being as well as to the use of environmental valuation as a tool for decision making GEO 4 s 2007 publication date marks the half way point for the Millennium Development Goals The environment as well as being the subject of MDG 7 is also a thread that runs through all the goals Includes Errata

Developing Eco-Cities Through Policy, Planning, and Innovation: Can It Really Work? Management Association, Information Resources,2019-07-05 The worldwide consumption of resources is causing environmental damage at a rate that cannot be sustained Apart from the resulting environmental and health problems this trend could threaten economic growth due to rapidly decreasing natural resources and costly solutions The public sector has a responsibility to stimulate the marketplace in favor of the provision of more resource efficient and less polluting goods services and works in order to support environmental and wider sustainable development objectives Developing Eco Cities Through Policy Planning and Innovation Can It Really Work examines the economic political social and environmental objectives essential to the planning and support of future communities Highlighting a range of topics such as environmental sustainability waste management and green cities this publication is an ideal reference source for environmental engineers environmentalists city development planners urban planners technology developers policymakers industrialists academicians and researchers interested in solving environmental issues

Ecosystem Services Mark Everard,2021-12-30 Revised and fully updated this textbook provides a detailed yet accessible introduction to the key aspects of ecosystem services Ecosystem services is one of the most powerful guiding principles for ecology biodiversity conservation and the management of natural resources It provides the basis of assessing the multiple values and services that ecosystems can provide to humankind including diverse issues such as carbon sequestration flood control crop pollination and aesthetic and cultural services The second edition of Ecosystem Services Key Issues has been fully revised and updated to address policy and scientific developments as well as new and emerging issues such as nature based solutions zoonotic diseases and environmental justice It includes new and updated case studies from across the world and each chapter contains further reading learning objectives and discussion questions to aid student learning The book details the historical roots of ecosystem services in the second half of the twentieth century through initiatives such as the Millennium Ecosystem Assessment The Common International Classification of Ecosystem Services CICES and the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals It shows how ecosystem goods and services can be categorised and valued in economic as well as non monetary terms while also highlighting some of the difficulties and limitations of valuation techniques The author describes how themes such as systems thinking social ecological resilience and natural capital relate to ecosystem services and how these can contribute to more sustainable and equitable development This book will be essential reading for students and scholars of ecosystem services ecology environmental science biodiversity conservation environmental economics natural resource management and sustainable development It will also be of use to professionals and policymakers who are looking to integrate ecosystems and their services into their decision making processes Sustainable Agriculture Reviews 30 Olivier Réchauchère, Antonio Bispo, Benoît Gabrielle, David Makowski, 2018-12-04 The originality of this book is to review and characterize the current body of scientific publications that describe the complete causal sequence from reorganization of agricultural production to land use changes LUC and the resulting environmental impacts The chapters examine both the range of territorial reorganizations leading to LUC and the range of associated environmental impacts considered in the literature including GHG emissions atmospheric pollution biodiversity impacts water resources and soil quality Achieving Environmental Security P. H. Liotta, 2010 Ecosystem services and human welfare W G Kepner Sustainable Forest Management Julio J. Diez, Beatriz Martín-García, 2012-04-11 The concept of forest sustainability dates from centuries ago although the understanding of sustainable forest management SFM as an instrument that harmonizes ecological and socio economic concerns is relatively new The change in perspective occurred at the beginning of the 1990s in response to an increased awareness of the deterioration of the environment in particular of the alarming loss of forest resources The book collects original case studies from 12 different countries in four continents Africa America Asia and Europe These studies represent a wide variation of experiences from developing and developed countries and should clarify the current status of SFM worldwide and the problems associated with its implementation
