Eight Days A Week:

Eight Days A Week Graham Hutchins, 2004 For a memorable week in June 1964 the Beatles toured New Zealand giving concerts in the four main centres and changing life as we knew it for ever For teenagers of the time it was the most exciting week of their lives Teachers were ignored and parents defied as thousands of young people devised ingenious ways of seeing their idols For this book Graham Hutchins has interviewed dozens of people who were directly affected by the visit from fans who attended the concerts and people who accompanied the Beatles on tour to contemporary musicians and John Lennon s Kiwi relations The visit of the Fab Four is remembered through the reminiscences of these eyewitnesses and through a mass of photographs and memorabilia that illustrate the text The author also assesses the long term impact the Beatles made on New Zealand music and on society at large Full of memories and nostalgia this is the ideal souvenir of one of the most remarkable weeks in New Zealand s history

AIDS Narratives Steven F. Kruger, 2013-10-28 This is the first book length study of the rich fiction that has emerged from the AIDS crisis Examining first the ways in which scientific discourse on AIDS has reflected ideologies of gender and sexuality such as the construction of AIDS as a disease of gay men part of a battle over masculinity and thus largely excluding women with AIDS from public attention the book considers how such discourses have shaped narrative understandings of AIDS On the one hand AIDS is seen as an invariably fatal weakening of an individual s bodily defenses a depiction often used to reconfirm an identification between disease and a weak and vulnerable gayness On the other hand AIDS is understood in terms of an epidemic attributable to gay immorality or unnaturalness The fiction of AIDS depends upon these two narratives with one major subgenre of AIDS novel presenting narratives of personal illness decline and death and a second focusing on epidemic spread These novels also question the narrative structures upon which they depend intervening particularly against the homophobia of those structures though also sometimes reinforcing it
