The photograph shows a body of water, possibly a lake or a wide river, with a dark, silhouetted shoreline in the distance under a light sky. The overall aesthetic is scholarly and historical.

From all of this it becomes clear moreover how powerfully Thomas's work speaks in the contemporary moment of environmental and climate breakdown. Thomas's prose seeks constantly to articulate a relationship of absolute interdependence between human beings and the natural world. His writing is so exploratory and original because Thomas seeks to address the problematic reality that interdependence: this truth of humanity's place in natural world is perceptible to Western eyes only as mystery.

The Concise Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature George Watson, The New Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature: Volume 4, 1900-1950 George Watson, I. R. Willison, 1972-12-07. More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 4 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature. The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis, articulation and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition. The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available and to re-shape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries.

The Problem of Consciousness in Modern Poetry Hugh Underhill, 1992-07-31. Modernist aesthetics have been identified with a sense of cultural crisis defined by its distance from an ideal of unified consciousness. This original study examines the struggle toward that ideal of unitary subjective experience in modern British and Irish poetry from Hardy to Ted Hughes. Hugh Underhill argues that the poetry's emphasis on inner states underrepresents the extent to which the crisis is in fact socio-historically determined.

Wilson,2015-05-21 This is the extraordinary life of a poetic genius Along with Sassoon and Wilfred Owen Edward Thomas is by any reckoning a major first world war poet A war poet is not one who chooses to commemorate or celebrate a war but one who reacts against having a war thrust upon him His great friend Robert Frost wrote his poetry is so very brave so unconsciously brave Apart from a most illuminating understanding of his poetry Dr Wilson shows how Thomas life alone makes for absorbing reading his early marriage his dependence on laudanum his friendships with Joseph Conrad Edward Garnett Rupert Brooke and Hilaire Belloc among others The novelist Eleanor Farjeon entered into a curious menage a trois with him and his wife He died in France in 1917 on the first day of the Battle of Arras This is the stuff of which myths are made and posterity has been quick to oblige But this has tended to obscure his true worth as a writer as Dr Wilson argues Edward Thomas s poems were not published until some months after his death but they have never since been out of print Described by Ted Hughes as the father of us all Thomas s distinctively modern sensibility is probably the one most in tune with our twenty first century outlook He occupies a crucial place in the development of twentieth century poetry

The Rural Tradition William J. Keith,1974-12-15 There is probably no single quality or characteristic besides love of the countryside that must inevitably distinguish a rural writer notes W J Keith However what distinguishes rural writing that belongs to literature from that belonging to natural history agricultural history etc is as Richard E Haymaker has observed the writer s means of revealing Nature as well as describing her In the final analysis the rural essayist paints neither landscapes nor self portraits instead he communicates the subtle relationship between himself and his environment offering for our inspection his own attitudes and his own vision We may be asked to look or to agree but more than anything else we are invited to share Ultimately then the best rural writing may be said to provide us in a phrase adapted from Robert Langbaum with a prose of experience Keith argues that non fiction rural prose should be recognized as a distinct literary tradition that merits serious critical attention In this book he tests the cogency of thinking in terms of a rural tradition examines the critical problems inherent in such writing and traces significant continuities between rural writers Eleven of the more important and influential writers from the seventeenth century to modern times come under individual scrutiny Izaak Walton Gilbert White William Cobbett Mary Russell Mitford George Borrow Richard Jefferies George Sturt George Bourne W H Hudson Edward Thomas Williamson and H J Massingham In examining these writers within the context of the rural tradition Keith rescues their works from the literary attic where they have too often been relegated as awkward misfits When studied together each throws fascinating light on the others and is seen to fit into a loose but nonetheless discernible line
