Advances in Perinatal Medicine E. Friedman, L. Gluck, Aubrey Milunsky, 2013-11-11 The state of health care is reflected by perinatal and neonatal morbidity and mortality as well as by the frequencies of long term neurologic and developmental disorders Many factors some without immediately recognizable significance to childbearing and many still unknown undoubtedly contribute beneficially or adversely to the outcome of pregnancy Knowledge concerning the impact of such factors on the fetus and surviving infant is critical Confounding analyses of pregnancy outcome especially these past two or three decades are the effects of newly undertaken invasive or inactive therapeutic approaches coupled with the advent of high technology Many innovations have been introduced without serious efforts to evaluate their impact prospectively and objectively The consequences of therapeutic misadventures characterized the past it seems they have been replaced to a degree by some of the complications of applied technology Examples abound after overuse of oxygen was recognized to cause retrolental fibroplasia its restriction led to an increase in both neonatal death rates and neurologic damage in surviving infants Administration of vitamin K to prevent neonatal hemorrhagic disease particularly when given in what we now know as excessive dose occasionally resulted in kernicterus Prophylactic sulfonamide use had a similar end result More recent is the observation of bronchopulmonary dysplasia as a complication of respirator therapy for hyaline membrane disease sources for an ideal scenario while the senior faculty members used their vast clinical experience for a more practical and realistic application. These combined efforts have been truly beneficial to achieve our goal to rationally mix latest technology with clinical experience and identify potential ways to conduct anesthesia with best results at least costs and minimum risk.

Anesthetic and Obstetric Management of High-Risk Pregnancy Sanjay Datta, 2006-04-29. It has been enormously satisfying to prepare the third edition of Anesthetic and Obstetric Management of High Risk Pregnancy because it fulfills the need for close communication between two specialties: anesthesiology and obstetrics. This relationship is necessary not only to take care of the sick parturient but also to deliver a healthy baby. New developments in obstetrics and in obstetric anesthesia necessitated this third edition. Most of the contributors to this edition are new and they have provided information on the latest approaches as well as updated information. In addition, Chapter 13, Critical Care Anesthesia for High Risk Parturients, is completely new. Like earlier editions, the third edition includes contributions from an international team of experts in the field of obstetric anesthesia and obstetrics. I thank all the authors for their valuable contributions. The authors have expressed their own opinions and recommendations which do not necessarily reflect my own views. I also wish to thank Ms Elizabeth Kiernan for her endless help in completing the new edition. I sincerely hope this edition will further reinforce the concept of the team approach for taking care of the high risk parturient.
