Hood, III, Seth C. McKee, 2022-07-05 An inside look at why the Republican Party has come to dominate the rural American South Beginning with the Dixiecrat Revolt of 1948 and extending through the 2020 election cycle political scientists M V Hood III and Seth C McKee trace the process by which rural white southerners transformed from fiercely loyal Democrats to stalwart Republicans While these rural white southerners were the slowest to affiliate with the Grand Old Party they are now its staunchest supporters This transition and the reasons for it are vital to understanding the current electoral landscape of the American South including states like Georgia Florida North Carolina Texas and Virginia all of which have the potential to exert enormous influence over national electoral outcomes In this first book length empirically based study focusing on rural southern voters Hood and McKee examine their changing political behavior arguing that their Democratic to Republican transition is both more recent and more durable than most political observers realize By analyzing data collected from their own region wide polling along with a variety of other carefully mined sources the authors explain why the initial appeal of 1950s Republicanism to upscale white southerners in metropolitan settings took well over a half century to yield to and morph into its culturally conservative variant now championed by rural residents Hood and McKee contend that it is impossible to understand current American electoral politics without understanding the longer trajectory of voting behavior in rural America and they offer not only a framework but also the data necessary for doing so
