HeartMemo, 1999 Culture of Fear, Revised Barry Glassner, 2010-05-21 In the age of 9 11 the Iraq War financial collapse and Amber Alerts our society is defined by fear So it s not surprising that three out of four Americans say they feel more fearful today than they did twenty years ago But are we living in exceptionally dangerous times In The Culture of Fear sociologist Barry Glassner demonstrates that it is our perception of danger that has increased not the actual level of risk Glassner exposes the people and organizations that manipulate our perceptions and profit from our fears including advocacy groups that raise money by exaggerating the prevalence of particular diseases and politicians who win elections by heightening concerns about crime drug use and terrorism In this new edition of a classic book more relevant now than when it was first published Glassner exposes the price we pay for social panic Cries of Crisis Robert B. Hackey, 2012-10-31

Since the late 1960s health care in the United States has been described as a system in crisis No matter their position those seeking to improve the system have relied on the rhetoric of crisis to build support for their preferred remedies to the point where the language and imagery of a health care crisis are now deeply embedded in contemporary politics and popular culture In Cries of Crisis Robert B Hackey analyzes media coverage political speeches films and television shows to demonstrate the role that language and symbolism have played in framing the health care debate shaping policy making and influencing public perceptions of problems in the health care system He demonstrates that the idea of crisis now means so many different things to so many different groups that it has ceased to have any shared meaning at all He argues that the ceaseless talk of crisis without a commonly accepted definition of that term has actually impeded efforts to diagnose and treat the chronic problems plaguing the American health care system Instead he contends reformers must embrace a new rhetorical strategy that links proposals to improve the system with deeply held American values like equality and fairness
