Raising the Tech Bar at Your Library Nick D. Taylor,2017-05-11 This book explains how librarians can capitalize on the growing interest and need of patrons for help with technology by expanding their library's tech services to build community engagement and support. Keeping up with technology is more critical and difficult than ever. This challenge exists not only for library staff but for their patrons as well. Today's librarians are often barraged with increasingly complex questions from their patrons about technology from loading eBooks onto their readers to helping resurrect dead laptops. Why not capitalize on this opportunity and transform your library into a first stop go to resource for your community's tech needs? Raising the Tech Bar at Your Library: Improving Services to Meet User Needs demonstrates a variety of ways to expand library services to better serve your community including how to establish tech bars and tech centers provide tech training and one on one tech help host drop in demos and create a coding dojo. The book covers after school programs makerspaces and embedded librarianship as well. The authors draw on their personal experience to offer a practical blueprint for launching your tech initiative starting with the preliminary steps of evaluating community needs and getting administrative and public buy in to obtaining funding training non tech staff setting up and launching your program and evaluating the services you've established. The book ends with a look to the future that supplies provocative and exciting ideas of how libraries with innovative tech focused leadership can push the edge even further. This book serves a wide audience all public librarians as well as library administrators those who work in IT departments as well as adult or youth services and reference librarians who are interested in expanding into this important and exciting area. Early Literacy Storytimes @ Your Library® Saroj Nadkarni Ghoting, Pamela

Library Closures Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Culture, Media and Sport Committee, 2012-11-06 Recent campaigns against the closure of local libraries have highlighted the strong attachment that many people feel to their library services However much of the focus of the campaigns has been on library branches rather than the broader question of the preservation and possible enhancement of the library service Reductions in opening hours and the loss of professional staff may damage the service more than the closure of particular buildings The provision of a library service is a statutory duty but a number of councils have drawn up plans that fail to comply with the requirement to provide a comprehensive and efficient service A full assessment of the needs of the local population for the services is key Guidance on how to assess local needs does exist but more must be done to disseminate it Although the future of public libraries may be uncertain there is opportunity for reassessment of their roles and how they are organised The Committee saw many examples of innovative thinking about what libraries can offer to the local population and a number of models of how those services might be provided Councils which have transferred the running of libraries to community volunteers must continue to provide support otherwise failure may be viewed as closures by stealth The Committee looks forward to the promised report by the end of 2014 on the cumulative effect on library services of the cuts in local authority provision and the promotion of alternatives such as transfers to community volunteers

Resources in Education ,2001-04 The University of Michigan Library Newsletter ,1990 The Library as Playground Dale Leorke,Danielle Wyatt,2022-04-13

Digital and analog games have long served modern public libraries as educational tools and as drawcards for new patrons from dedicated gaming zones and children s spaces to Minecraft gaming days makerspaces and virtual reality collections Much has been written about the role of games and play in libraries programming and collections But their wider role in transforming libraries as public institutions remains unexplored In this book the authors draw on ethnographic research to provide a rich portrait of the intersection between games play and public libraries They look at how games and play are increasingly spilling out of designated zones within libraries and beyond their walls as part of a broader reconfiguration and reimagining of libraries in the digital era The library s association with play has historically been understood through its classification as a third place somewhere to relax socialise and experiment outside of the utilitarian demands of work and home But far from just offering patrons an opportunity for detached leisure this book illustrates how libraries are connecting games and play to policies agendas around their municipality s economic and cultural development Attending to the institutionalisation of play the book sheds new light both on the contradictions at the heart of play as a theoretical concept and what libraries are in contemporary public life
