converse with Europe's Southern and Eastern peripheries from Portugal to Estonia to Greece. By stressing the margins point of view, this volume rethinks the ideological grounds on which art history and the European Union have been constructed, as well as the role played by art and culture in the very concept of Europe. The Americanization of Europe Alexander Stephan, 2006. Using Germany as a case study of the impact of American culture throughout a period characterized by a totalitarian system, two destructive wars, ethnic cleansing, and economic disaster, this book explores the political and cultural parameters of Americanization and anti-Americanism. The Rise and Fall of American Art, 1940s-1980s Assoc Prof Catherine Dossin, 2015-03-28. This book challenges the perception of New York as the undisputed center of the art world between the end of World War II and the fall of the Berlin Wall, a position of power that brought the city prestige, money, and historical recognition. In her transnational and interdisciplinary study, Dossin analyses changing distributions of geopolitical and symbolic power in the Western art world, a story that spans two continents, forty years, and hundreds of actors. P11, Painters Eleven Iris Nowell, 2011. In 1953, eleven Canadian Abstract Expressionist artists banded together to break through the barricades of traditional art at a time when landscapes were about the only paintings collectors were buying. Hungry for recognition, raging against the art establishment that was shutting them out, they decided to form a collective, expecting they would gain more attention as a group than as solo artists. In 1954, The Painters Eleven: Jack Bush, Oscar Cahoon, Hortense Gordon, Tom Hodgson, Alexandra Luke, Jack Macdonald, Ray Mead, Kazuo Nakamura, William Ronald, Harold Town, and Walter Yarwood held their first exhibition in Toronto. Initially, the public response echoed the worldwide sentiments toward Abstract Expressionism: mockery and bewilderment. Nevertheless, the exhibition attracted wide public interest, and criticism faded into acclaim from critics and collectors alike. A successful 1956 exhibition at the Riverside Gallery in New York even elicited praise from the influential critic Clement Greenberg. Packed with gorgeous full-color reproductions, this highly detailed account reveals the influences of the individual artists on the group's dynamic art and uncovers why the Painters Eleven had such a struggle for recognition and why they achieved it so masterfully. The Rise and Fall of American Art, 1940s-1980s Catherine Dossin, 2016-03-03. In The Rise and Fall of American Art, 1940s-1980s, Catherine Dossin challenges the now-mythic perception of New York as the undisputed center of the art world between the end of World War II and the fall of the Berlin Wall, a position of power that brought the city prestige, money, and historical recognition. Dossin reconstructs the concrete factors that led to the shift of international attention from Paris to New York in the 1950s and documents how peripheries such as Italy, Belgium, and West Germany exerted a decisive influence on this displacement of power. As the US economy sank into recession in the 1970s, however, American artists and dealers became increasingly dependent on the support of Western Europeans, and cities like Cologne and Turin emerged as major commercial and artistic hubs, a development that enabled European artists to return to the forefront of the international art scene in the 1980s. Dossin analyses in detail these changing distributions of geopolitical and symbolic power in the Western art world, a story that spans two continents forty years and hundreds of actors Her transnational and interdisciplinary study provides an original and welcome supplement to more traditional formal and national readings of the period Class in Culture Teresa L.
