Ensuring Food Safety in the European Union Marco Silano,Vittorio Silano,2020-10-14 It s not easy to navigate through EU food laws so this book provides a clear analysis of the relevant EU regulations making it beneficial to food safety organizations and food industry professionals Ensuring Food Safety in the European Union provides an overall detailed analysis of the many and complex initiatives implemented by the European Union Institutions since the European Commission adopted on 12 January 2000 the White Paper on Food Safety with the objective of defining the policies to improve the level of health protection for the consumers of Europe s food Achieving the highest standards of food safety in Europe has been a key policy priority for the European Institutions during the past 20 years through the implementation between 2000 and 2019 of many initiatives anticipated in the mentioned White Paper concerning i The establishment of the European Food Safety Authority ii the adoption of new food safety legislations in many domains and iii the adoption of consumer s mandatory and voluntary information regulations Features Offers a clear and evolutive view of all relevant procedures and objectives to ensure food safety in European context Up to date presentation of EU relevant regulation and EFSA roles and activities Discusses the basic reasoning underlying the development and objectives of the current approach to food laws The book offers a review of all the available tools and their practical usefulness on food safety at European level and their possible integration The interest of the European Institutions for food safety policies continues to be very high as shown by the adoption in September 2019 of the EU regulation 1381 to further reinforce and potentiate among others EFSA risk assessment The main target of the book is the food business operators of large and medium enterprises and their consultants Other interested parties are the authorities competent at national and regional and local level and university teaching professionals in charge of food safety and related courses      EU Food Law Handbook Bernd Van der Meulen,Bart Wernaart,2020-09-01 The twenty first century has witnessed a fundamental reform of food law in the European Union to the point where modern EU food law has now come of age This EU Food Law Handbook presents the most significant elements of these legal developments with contributions from a highly qualified international team of academics and practitioners Their analysis is based on a shared vision of the structure and content of EU food law The book takes the perspective of food law embedded within general EU law It highlights the consequences of this combination and provides insights into both substantive and procedural food law Taking the General Food Law as a focal point this handbook systematically analyses and explains the institutional substantive and procedural elements of EU food law Principles are discussed as well as specific rules addressing food as a product the processes related to food and communication about food to consumers through labelling These rules define requirements on subjects like market authorisation for food additives novel foods and genetically modified foods chemical and biological contaminants in food food hygiene tracking tracing withdrawal recall food labelling and claims The powers of public authorities to enforce food law and to deal with incidents are outlined Attention is given to the international context WTO Codex Alimentarius as well as to private standards In addition to the systematic analysis the book includes selected topics such as nutrition and health policy special foods food import requirements food contact materials intellectual property private food law and animal feed In this new edition existing chapters have been updated to take account of many important developments in legislation and case law Several new topics have been added to the analysis such as the right to food organics and food fraud The EU Food Law Handbook is produced in co operation with the European Institute for Food Law It is relevant for practitioners and academics both with and without a background in law It is ideal for education purposes

European Cuisine K Kenehan,R&R Publications Pty, Limited,2005      Regulating and Managing Food Safety in the EU Harry Bremmers,Kai Purnhagen,2018-08-01 This book analyses EU food law from a regulatory economic and managerial perspective It presents an economic assessment of strategies of food safety regulation and discusses the different regulatory regimes in EU food law It examines the challenges of food safety in the internal market as well as the regulatory tools that are available The book s generic theorising and measurement of regulatory effects is supplemented by detailed analysis of key topics in food markets such as health claims enforcement strategies and induced risk management at the level of the organizations producing food The regulatory effects discussed in the book range from classical regulatory analysis covering e g effects of ex ante versus ex post regulation and content related versus information related regulation to new regulatory options such as behavioral regulation The book takes as its premise the idea that economic considerations are basic to the design and functioning of the European food supply arena and that economic effects consolidate or induce modification of the present legal structures and principles The assessments analyses and examination of the various issues presented in the book serve to answer the question of how economic theory and practice can explain and enhance the shaping and modification of the regulatory framework that fosters safe and sustainable food supply chains      Eurobrands: Development Strategies and Managerial Issues in the European Food Industry Marcus Disselkamp, 2002-09-04 Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 1995 in the subject Business economics Offline Marketing and Online Marketing grade magna cum laude University of Fribourg Templeton College language English abstract Today s social and economic environment faces various problems economic stagnation recession new challenges due to free trade alliances or the opening of the former USSR as well as constantly changing fashions Furthermore European food producers are falling victim to the rising costs of R D and labour the shortening of product life cycles the increasing buying power of European retailers who demand greater conditions and super bonuses and the ongoing diversity of European consumers The international environment therefore requires manufacturers to reply in a very flexible and rapid manner so that a company s ability to respond to consumer needs whilst participating in the global market is becoming the primary source of competitive success In the past world wide companies have gained competitive advantage either by running multinational approaches with a multitude of different products and decentralised organisations or by exploiting global economies of scale through nearly total standardisation The new winners are now the companies that are sensitive to market environmental or technological trends and are able to exploit innovative ideas rapidly and efficient in a European or even world wide manner The right balance of customising and standardising opens the way to cost reduction profitability and competitiveness Thus this paper wants to discuss the use of harmonised Eurobrands as a modern way of thinking in European terms whilst fulfilling the needs of the great variety of European consumers The aim of the thesis is to describe Eurobrands as a meaningful and strategic weapon in today s challenging food market and to set up a concept for the launch of Eurobrands in the food industry Herein after a Eurobrand means a harmonised product sold in three or more European countries with harmonised appearance quality and a narrow price range in order to achieve competitive advantage over the traditional mostly national products      Trade in Food Alberto Alemanno, 2007 Trade in Food surveys and explores the evolution of the European Community s regulation of food within the broader framework set out by the WTO Agreements Its main purpose is to provide readers keen to deepen their knowledge of the field with easy access to the EC and WTO food laws accompanied by a critical explanation and commentary The book is suitable for legal practitioners judges policy makers officials of international organizations as well as post graduate students of international trade law and policy international and European economic law global administrative law and risk regulation
