Humans in Outer Space - Interdisciplinary Odysseys Luca

Codignola-Bo, Kai-Uwe Schrogl, 2009-06-18 Humans and space When faced with the issue of space exploration one generally has an idea of the fields of study and disciplines that are involved technology physics and chemistry robotics astronomy and planetary science space biology and medicine disciplines which are usually referred to as the sciences In recent discussions the human element of space exploration has attracted more and more the interest of the space sciences As a consequence adjacent disciplines have gained in relevance in space exploration and space research in times when human space flights are almost part of everyday life These disciplines include psychology and sociology but also history philosophy anthropology cultural studies political sciences and law The contribution of knowledge in these fields plays an important role in achieving the next generation of space exploration where humans will resume exploring the Moon and eventually Mars and where space tourism is beginning to be developed With regard to technology one might soon be prepared for this Much less is this the case with space exploration by humans rather than by robots Robotic explorations to other planets across the solar system have developed in the past 50 years since the beginning of the space age with the presence of humans in nearby space and the landing on the Moon Space exploration is now not only focused on technological achievements as its development also has social cultural and economic impacts This makes human space exploration a topic to address in a cross disciplinary manner

Merchants of Canton and Macao Paul A. Van Dyke, 2018-02-27 Merchants were central to the huge growth in China's foreign trade and contributed to the development of world markets and networks Merchants of Canton and Macao Success and Failure in Eighteenth Century Chinese Trade brings together much new research about the inner workings of the merchants of Canton and Macao The book studies in detail the leading Chinese merchants and merchant families as well as the porcelain and silk trades By examining the successes and failures of dozens of Chinese merchants involved in foreign trade it provides fresh insights into China's unique form of capitalism and her role in the rise of global commerce Van Dyke's conclusions on the nature of Qing policy towards foreign trade are bold original and supported by intensive research In contrast to the traditional focus on British and American trade his research draws on archives in multiple languages spread around the world Like its predecessor this volume offers a detailed and vivid reconstruction of business practices based on a remarkable collection of archival sources in Chinese and diverse European languages It will be especially welcome by economic historians as well as anyone who wants to understand global history as it played out in a particular place R Bin Wong Distinguished Professor of History and director of the Asia Institute UCLA Once again Paul Van Dyke has plumbed the depths of the archives to provide us with an extraordinary catalogue of the activities of European and Chinese traders during the heyday of the Canton trade In this second volume of his encyclopedic study Van Dyke focuses in detail on the transactions that took place between foreign private and company traders and Chinese licensed merchants Madeleine Zelin Dean Lung Professor of Chinese Studies Columbia University This is a great study which will be the ultimate work on the subject for many years to come It is as complete as the available documentation at present makes possible it is concise well organized and the subject is researched with great thoroughness Christiaan J rg author of Porcelain and the Dutch China Trade The Far East and the English Imagination, 1600-1730 Robert Markley, 2006-01-12 A 2006 investigation of the idea of the powerful Asian empires in the works of Milton Dryden Defoe and Swift A Cultural History of the Sea in the Age of Enlightenment Jonathan Lamb, 2023-02-09 This volume covers a period when Europeans were making great advances in the production and application of pure knowledge especially in the fields of navigation and discovery Thus European powers gained empires around the globe and the benefits that came with them while the rest of the world had to be content with supplying the raw material i e labour bullion wood plants ore of these good things This would not have been possible without navies and trading monopolies enterprises in which the freedom of the seas was disputed then gained or lost The essays in this volume range between three eras in the age of discovery first the excitement of seeing something for the first time second the experience of understanding the importance of the new thing and third the disillusion incident to reframing the prehistory of humanity and its destiny without the usual signposts of an anthropocentric journey from innocence to salvation via sin atonement and judgment The maritime contribution to all three eras was enormous not simply because it provided a mobile platform for the inspection of the new but because it proved experimentally that there were no extremes of heroic virtue or of brutal depravity to which humans might not tend when necessity or wantonness called for them Usually the evil side of humanity was assigned to savages but in the curiously singular person of the pirate a mirror image can be found of everyone really all people who lived on or by the sea were pirates of a sort Commencing as an age of rational certainties the Enlightenment gave way to the opposite The symmetries of the Linnaean system yielded to the endless process of mutation Buffon called speciation Rational government of the passions was succeeded by the cult of sensibility and spontaneous emotion The mathematical exactness of Cartesian knowledge was supplanted by imagination Sailors returned with pictures of mirages never seen before the products of Nature s own imagination that posed a question posed again here No doubt they are real but are they true Nubia, Ethiopia, and the Crusading World, 1095-1402 Adam Simmons, 2022-09-16 The Crusades had a wide variety of impacts on societies throughout Europe Asia and Africa One such notable impact was its role in the development of knowledge between cultures This book argues that the Nubian kingdom of Dotawo and the Latin Christians became increasingly more connected between the twelfth and early fourteenth centuries than has been acknowledged Subsequently when Solomonic Ethiopian Latin Christian diplomatic relations began in 1402 they were building on the prior connections of Nubia either wittingly or unwittingly Ethiopia became the Ethiopia that the Latin

Christians had previously been aiming to develop relations with The histories of Nubia Ethiopia and the Crusades were directly and indirectly entwined between the twelfth century and 1402 By placing Nubia and Ethiopia within the wider context of the Crusades new perspectives can be made regarding the international activity of Nubia and Ethiopia between the twelfth and fifteenth centuries and the regional role reversal of Dotawo and Solomonic Ethiopia from the early fourteenth century Prior to the fourteenth century Nubia had been the dominant Christian power in the region before Solomonic Ethiopia began to replace it including by adopting elements of discourse which had previously been attributed to Nubia such as its ruler being the recognised protector of the Christians of north east Africa This process should not be viewed in isolation of the wider regional geo political context Nubia Ethiopia and the Crusading World 1095 1402 will appeal to all those interested in the history of the Crusades Nubia and Ethiopia particularly concerning inter regional physical and intellectual connectivity
