Parents in the Spotlight Tanja Betz, Michael-Sebastian Honig, Ilona Ostner, 2017-07-17 Children and parents have become a focus of debates on new social risks in European welfare states Policymaking elites have converged in defining such risks and they have outlined new forms of parenting support to better safeguard children and activate their potential Increasingly parents are suspected of falling short of public expectations Contributors to this special issue scrutinize this shift towards parenting as performance and analyse recent forms of parenting support Family Studies Jon Bernardes, 2008-02-26 Designed for use on introductory sociology courses Family Studies is the first UK text book in the subject Each chapter is designed to work as an individual unit of study in a course on the family Fatherhood in the Nordic Welfare States Eydal, Guðný Björk, Rostgaard, Tine, 2016-01-13 The Nordic countries are known worldwide for their extensive welfare system and gender equality which enables both parents to hold jobs earn money and care for their children In this volume scholars from the Nordic countries as well as from the United States and the United Kingdom explore the effects of these policies on fatherhood and how the policies that support it contribute to shaping and influencing the image role and practice of fathers in a diversity of family settings Families and Family Policies in Europe Linda Hantrais, Marie-Therese Letablier, 2014-09-19 The family is currently a controversial topic both within the UK and Europe While demographic trends seem to suggest that family structures and attitudes within the European Union are converging and that member states are facing similar social problems their policy responses are very different This book examines the differences between these national responses and that of the EU as contained in the social chapter It analyses the key concepts underlying the formulation of family policy and illustrates it with the latest data much of it hitherto unpublished

Festival of the Poor Jane C. Schneider, Peter T. Schneider, 2022-08-16 The historical decline of fertility in Europe has occupied a central place in social history and demography over the past quarter century Most scholars credit Europeans with modulating sexual behavior through either abstinence or the practice of coitus interruptus as a rational choice made in the interest of personal economic comfort yet peasant and working classes have typically lagged behind in birth control and have given rise to the adage that sexual embrace is the festival of the poor Scholarly analyses of lag often reinforce this stigmatizing view Now this subject is given a fresh look through a case study in Sicily one of the last outposts of Western Europe s demographic transition By examining population changes in a single community between 1860 and 1980 the authors offer an extended review and critique of existing models of fertility decline in Europe proposing a new interpretation that emphasizes historical context and class relations They show how the spread of capitalism in Sicily induced an unprecedented rate of population growth with boom and bust cycles creating the class experiences in which reputational networks came to redefine family life how Sicilians began to control their fertility in response to class mediated ideas about gender relations and respectable family size and how the town s gentry artisan and peasant classes adopted family planning methods at different times in response to different pressures Jane and Peter Schneider s anthropologically oriented political economy perspective challenges the position of Western Europe as a model for fertility decline on which every other case should converge looking instead at the diversity of cultural ideals and practices such as those found in Sicily that influence the spread and form of birth control Combining anthropological oral historical and archival methods in new and insightful ways the authors synthesis of a particular case study with a broad historical and theoretical discussion will play a major role in the ongoing debates over the history of European fertility decline and point the way toward integrating the analysis of demographic upheaval with the study of class formation and ideology

Gender and Family Change in Industrialized Countries Karen Oppenheim Mason, An-Magritt Jensen, 1995-09-28 This volume focuses on the relationship between change in the family and change in the roles of women and men on contemporary industrial societies Of central concern is whether change in gender roles has fuelled or is merely historically coincident with such changes in the family as rising divorce rates increases in out of wedlock childbearing declining marriage rates and a growing disconnection between the lives of men and children Covering more than twenty countries including the USA the countries of western Europe and Japan each essay in the volume is organized around an important theoretical or policy question all offer new data analyses and several offer prescriptions of how to fashion more equitable and humane family and gender systems The second demographic transition and microeconomic theory of marital exchange are the dominant theoretical models considered several chapters feature state of the art quantitative analyses of large scale surveys
