European Societies In The Bronze Age:

European Societies in the Bronze Age A. F. Harding, 2000-05-18 The Bronze Age roughly 2500 to 750 BC was the last fully prehistoric period in Europe and a crucial element in the formation of the Europe that emerged into history in the later first millennium BC This book focuses on the material culture remains of the period and through them provides an interpretation of the main trends in human development that occurred during this timespan It pays particular attention to the discoveries and theoretical advances of the last twenty years that have necessitated a major revision of received opinions about many aspects of the Bronze Age Arranged thematically it reviews the evidence for a range of topics in cross cultural fashion defining which major characteristics of the period were universal and which culture and area specific The result is a comprehensive study that will be of value to specialists and students while remaining accessible to the non specialist

Organizing Bronze Age Societies Timothy Earle, Kristian Kristiansen, 2010-08-30 The Bronze Age was a formative period in European history when the organisation of landscapes settlements and economy reached a new level of complexity This book presents the first in depth comparative study of household economy and settlement in three micro regions the Mediterranean Sicily Central Europe Hungary and Northern Europe South Scandinavia The results are based on ten years of fieldwork in a similar method of documentation and scientific analyses were used in each of the regional studies making controlled comparisons possible The new evidence demonstrates how differences in settlement organisation and household economies were counterbalanced by similarities in the organised use of the landscape in an economy dominated by the herding of large flocks of sheep and cattle This book s innovative theoretical and methodological approaches will be of relevance to all researchers of landscape and settlement history The Bronze Age-Iron Age Transition in Europe Marie Louise Stig Sørensen, Roger Thomas, 1989 Bronze Age Tell Communities in Context: An Exploration Into Culture, Society and the Study of European Prehistory. Part 1 Tobias L. Kienlin, 2015-07-31 This study challenges current modelling of Bronze Age tell communities in the Carpathian Basin in terms of the evolution of functionally differentiated hierarchical or proto urban society under the influence of Mediterranean palatial centres Local Societies in Bronze Age Northern Europe Nils Anfinset, Melanie Wigglesworth, 2014-10-14 This book aims to understand the process of the Bronze Age societies of Northern Europe which are often regarded as the periphery and a bleak contrast to the Central European Bronze Age The Bronze Age is the first globalised period with new types of societies and new modes of exchange and trade In this context there is considerable local variation and diversity within the Bronze Age societies of Northern Europe which is poorly understood although there have been advances and changes in this research Therefore this book challenges some of the mainstream opinions on the Bronze Age of Northern Europe and focus on local and regional aspects This is done by a series of articles from significant contributors that deal with these issues on theoretical and empirical levels with regards to differences cultural dualism boundaries regions and regionality in a period of increased globalisation The result is a movement away from local and regional aspects toward communications travels and contacts between northern Europe and the greater world not only towards Central Europe and the Near East but also towards the east Northern Arctic Europe is often left out in these discussions and this book will contribute to this greater picture of the Bronze Age world Local Societies in Bronze Age Northern Europe Nils Anfinset, Melanie Wigglesworth, 2012

The Oxford Handbook of the European Bronze Age Anthony Harding, Harry Fokkens, 2013-06-27 The Oxford Handbook of the European Bronze Age is a wide ranging survey of a crucial period in prehistory during which many social economic and technological changes took place Written by expert specialists in the field the book provides coverage both of the themes that characterize the period and of the specific developments that took place in the various countries of Europe After an introduction and a discussion of chronology successive chapters deal with settlement studies burial analysis hoards and hoarding monumentality rock art cosmology gender and trade as well as a series of articles on specific technologies and crafts such as transport metals glass salt textiles and weighing The second half of the book covers each country in turn From Ireland to Russia Scandinavia to Sicily every area is considered and up to date information on important recent finds is discussed in detail The book is the first to consider the whole of the European Bronze Age in both geographical and thematic terms and will be the standard book on the subject for the foreseeable future

Paradigm Found Kristian Kristiansen, Ladislav Šmejda, Jan Turek, 2015-01-21 Paradigm Found brings together papers by renowned researchers from across Europe Asia and America to discuss a selection of pressing issues in current archaeological theory and method The book also reviews the effects and potential of various theoretical stances in the context of prehistoric archaeology The 23 papers provide a discussion of the issues currently re appearing in the focal point of theoretical debates in archaeology such as the role of the discipline in the present day society problems of interpretation in archaeology approaches to the study of social evolution as well as current insights into issues in classification and construction of typologies Taking a fresh and often provocative look at the challenges contemporary archaeology is facing the contributors evaluate the effects of past developments and discuss the impact they are likely to have on future directions in archaeology as an internationally connected discipline In its final part the volume reflects on current thinking on prehistory using case studies from a number of European regions and the Mediterranean from the Neolithic to the Roman Period The volume represents a tribute to the lifetime achievements of Professor Ev en Neustupn a distinguished Czech archaeologist who contributed to the advancement of prehistoric studies in Europe and to archaeological theory and method in particular papers aims to reconsider the nature and significance of the Irish Sea as an area of cultural interaction during the Neolithic period The traditional character of work across this region has emphasised the existence of prehistoric contact with sea routes criss crossing between Ireland the Isle of Man Anglesey and the British mainland A parallel course of investigation however has demonstrated that the British and Irish Neolithics were in many ways different with distinct indigenous patterns of activity and social practices The recent emphasis on regional studies has further produced evidence for parallel yet different processes of cultural change taking place throughout the British Isles as a whole This volume brings together some of these regional perspectives and compares them across the Irish Sea area The authors consider new ways to explain regional patterning in the use of material objects and relate them to past practices and social strategies Were there practices that were shared across the Irish Sea area linking different styles of monuments and material culture or were the media intrinsic to the message The volume is based on papers presented at a conference held at the University of Manchester in 2002 Ritual Landscapes and Borders within Rock Art Research Heidrun Steberggløkken,Ragnhild Berge,Eva

Lindgaard,2015-10-31 Ritual landscapes and borders are recurring themes running through Professor Kalle Sognnes long research career This anthology contains 13 articles written by colleagues from his broad network in appreciation of his many contributions to the field of rock art research      Making Journeys Catriona D. Gibson, Kerri Cleary, Catherine J.

Frieman, 2021-02-01 Despite notable explorations of past dynamics much of the archaeological literature on mobility remains dominated by accounts of earlier prehistoric gatherer hunters or the long distance exchange of materials Refinements of scientific dating techniques isotope trace element and aDNA analyses in conjunction with phenomenological investigation computer aided landscape modeling and GIS style approaches to large data sets allow us to follow the movement of people animals and objects in the past with greater precision and conviction One route into exploring mobility in the past may be through exploring the movements and biographies of artifacts Challenges lie not only in tracing the origins and final destinations of objects but in the less tangible in between journeys and the hands they passed through Biographical approaches to artifacts include the recognition that culture contact and hybridity affect material culture in meaningful ways Furthermore discrete and bounded sites still dominate archaeological inquiry leaving the spaces and connectivities between features and settlements unmapped These are linked to an under explored middle spectrum of mobility a range nestled between everyday movements and one off ambitious voyages We wish to explore how these travels involved entangled meshworks of people animals objects knowledge sets and identities By crossing and re crossing cultural contextual and tenorial boundaries such journeys could create diasporic and novel communities ideas and materialities      The Archaeology of Britain John Hunter, Ian Ralston, 2009-12-16 The Archaeology of Britain is the only concise and up to date introduction to the archaeological record of Britain from the reoccupation of the landmass by Homo sapiens during the later stages of the most recent Ice Age until last century This fully revised second edition extends its coverage including greater detail on the first millennium AD beyond the Anglo Saxon domain and into recent times to look at the archaeological record produced by Britain's central role in two World Wars and the Cold War The chapters are written by experts in their respective fields Each is geared to provide an authoritative but accessible introduction supported by numerous illustrations of key sites and finds and a selective reference list to aid study in greater depth It provides a one stop textbook for the entire archaeology of Britain and reflects the most recent developments in archaeology both as a field subject and as an academic discipline No other book provides such comprehensive coverage with such a wide chronological range of the archaeology of Britain This collection is essential reading for undergraduates in archaeology and all those interested in British archaeology history and geography      Ritual and Domestic Life in Prehistoric Europe Richard Bradley, 2005 This fascinating study explores how our prehistoric ancestors developed rituals from everyday life and domestic activities Richard Bradley contends that for much of the prehistoric period ritual was not a distinct sphere of activity Rather it was the way in which different features of the domestic world were played out until they took on qualities of theatrical performance With extensive illustrated case studies this book examines farming craft production and the occupation of houses all of which were ritualized in prehistoric Europe

Successive chapters discuss the ways in which ritual has been studied drawing on a series of examples that range from Greece to Norway and from Romania to Portugal They consider practices that extend from the Mesolithic period to the Early Middle Ages and discuss the ways in which ritual and domestic life were intertwined Warfare and Society Ton Otto, Henrik Thrane, Helle Vandkilde, 2006-11-01 This book straddles the disciplines of archaeology and social anthropology Its 25 contributions divided into 6 sections with separate introductions successively scrutinise the concept of war in philosophy social theory and the history of anthropological and archaeological research discuss warfare in pre state and state societies and assess its relationship to rituals social identification and material culture

Background to Beakers European Association of Archaeologists. Annual Meeting, 2012 Background to Beakers is the result of an inspiring session at the yearly conference of European Association of Archaeologists in The Hague in September 2010 The conference brought together thirteen speakers on the subject Beakers in Transition Together we explored the background to the Bell beaker complex in different regions departing from the idea that migration is not the comprehensive solution to the adoption of bell Beakers Therefore we asked the participants to discuss how in their region Beakers were incorporated in existing cultural complexes as one of the manners to understand the processes of innovation that were undoubtedly part of the Beaker complex In this book eight of the speakers have contributed papers resulting in a diverse and interesting approach to Beakers We can see how scholars in Scandinavia the Low Countries Poland Switzerland France Morocco even struggle with the same problems but have different solutions everywhere The book reads as an inspiration for new approaches and for a discussion of cultural backgrounds in stead of searching for the oldest Beaker The authors are all established scholars in the field of Bronze Age research

Economy and Society in Prehistoric Europe A. Sherratt, 2019-08-07 This book brings together a classic collection of Andrew Sherratt's work on the economic foundations of prehistoric Europe which have put forward important new ideas about the development of farming pastoralism early technology and trade In a series of contributions that have included wide ranging syntheses and detailed local studies he discusses their implications for the understanding of settlement patterns social structures material culture and less tangible aspects of prehistoric life such as the spread of languages and the use of narcotics

Museums and Archaeology Robin Skeates, 2022-06-19 Museums and Archaeology brings together a wide but carefully chosen selection of literature from around the world that connects museums and archaeology Part of the successful Leicester Readers in Museum Studies series it provides a combination of issue and practice based perspectives As such it is a volume not only for students and researchers from a range of disciplines interested in museum gallery and heritage studies including public archaeology and cultural resource management CRM but also the wide range of professionals and volunteers in the museum and heritage sector who work with archaeological collections The volume's balance of theory and practice and its thematic and geographical breadth is explored and explained in an extended introduction which situates the readings in the context of the extensive literature on museum archaeology highlighting the many tensions that exist between idealistic principles and real life practice and the debates that surround these In addition to this section introductions and the seminal pieces themselves provide a comprehensive and contextualised resource on the interplay of museums and archaeology
