Constitutional Change in the EU Gráinne de Búrca,Joanne Scott,2000-06 This collection of essays addresses the changing constitutional framework of the EU and some of the changing patterns of governance within this complex polity It examines the apparent and gradual shift in the paradigm of European governance from one emphasising uniformity and harmonisation to one which embraces flexibility and differentiation The chapters range from broad theoretical reflections on the constitutional implications of flexibility for the European polity to focused case studies which examine various forms of variable geometry existing in specific policy areas Some of the contributions challenge the extent to which there has actually been any significant change of paradigm and others explore the many different meanings and instances of flexibility which have emerged Overall the collection brings into focus both the problems and the potential ways forward for Europe which these constitutional developments suggest

Princen, 2003-09-02 The European Union is one of the world's biggest economies However its role as an international actor is ambiguous and it's not always able to transform its political power into effective external policies The development of an assertive European Union challenges the image of an internal project aimed at economic integration and international relations theories based on unitary state actors This book systematically links the EU's external relations to existing political theories showing how existing theories need to be modified in order to deal with specific characteristics of the EU as an international actor European Union Foreign Policy in a Changing World Karen E. Smith, 2013-04-16 The second edition of

European Union Foreign Policy in a Changing World provides a clear introduction to the complexities of contemporary European foreign policy and offers a fresh and distinctive perspective on the nature of the EU's international identity Thoroughly revised and expanded the book explores how and why the EU tries to achieve five core foreign policy objectives the encouragement of regional cooperation the advancement of human rights the promotion of democracy and good governance the prevention of violent conflict European Union Foreign Policy Hazel Smith, 2002-03-20 As the European Union is not a nation state it is not generally perceived to have a foreign policy However this book argues that quite the reverse is true that an overemphasis on procedure and structures has disguised the fact that the EU has a clear foreign policy that can be analysed in much the same way as that of the sovereign state Conventional assessments of the EU focus on the mechanisms institutions and treaties through which policies are implemented Smith shows how this can lead to a massive underestimation of the capacities of the EU Rather than concentrating on how the policy of the EU is made Smith investigates the action that it has engaged in abroad and the nature of its diverse global interventions in relation to the United States and the industrialised North the various regions of the South and most recently its huge involvement in east and central Europe and the entire European continent Developing a pathbreaking analysis of the nature of EU foreign policy this comprehensive account shows how the EU can be very effective indeed in promoting its own domestic interests abroad

The European Union and Interregionalism Mr Mathew Doidge, 2013-03-28 The European Union and Interregionalism is the most comprehensive study of interregionalism to date providing a vigorous analysis of its role and functions in the architecture of global governance and of the place of qualitative differences between regional actors in shaping interregional relationships Regionalism itself is an established phenomenon with regional politics becoming increasingly institutionalised As a result with the EU as forerunner regions have begun to exert themselves in the external policy space developing networks of relations including prominently interregional relations We have thus seen the emergence of a new governance space at the interregional level banded on one side by sites of global governance and on the other by governance at the regional level Important questions challenging the current literature of these interregional structures include do interregional relationships conform to theoretical expectations and what patterns of engagement and interaction are emerging within the EU s core interregional partnerships and are these replicated elsewhere Exploring interregionalism beyond the core Europe Asia partnerships including the network of relations centred on ASEAN this book should be read by all those engaged in consideration of interregional structures to understand how patterns of EU centred interregional engagement rather than being sui generis are increasingly evident in the broader network of interregional relationships

New Challenges and Opportunities in European-Asian Relations Bibek Chand, Lukas K. Danner, 2021-05-20 This book highlights the emerging bidirectional interactions between Europe primarily the EU and Asia in the fields of political economy development environmental policy security diplomacy and inter institutional relations within the context of two recent global trends the rise of China and the growing withdrawal of the U S from multilateral commitments The volume incorporates nine different aspects and dimensions of Asian European relations In recent decades Asia has re gained rising importance on the world stage which also entails closer interconnections with Europe In an age of receding American global leadership and reduced commitments to its European allies the EU and its member states have increasingly become more open to seeking and considering new partnerships The rising economic prowess of Asia has made it of particular interest for European states

The book's focus lies on potential challenges and opportunities in the bidirectional interactions between European and Asian states and institutions

Asian-European Relations Jurgen Ruland, Gunter Schubert, Gunter Schucher, Cornelia Storz, 2008-02-29 Interregional Relations are a novel field within international relations which have increasingly been attracting scholarly interest. Thus over the last five years or so Interregional Relations has firmly established itself as a research field initially within political science and gradually in economics. This volume assesses interregional relations between Asia and Europe. It contributes to the most recent developments in research by providing impressively rich studies to test existing theoretical frameworks. Featured in this volume are conceptual contributions in particular theoretically inspired studies which conduct in depth investigation of a broad variety of interregional interactions such as the political management of globalisation through interregional co-operation, regional security, human rights and finally the dialogue between Asian and European NGOs. The economic contributions likewise undertake an extensive assessment of areas such as interregional trade and investment flows, the Asian Development Bank and interregional mergers. Applying established theories to concrete phenomena, Asian-European Relations provides a comprehensive understanding of interregionalism and how co-operation between Asia and Europe should be fashioned in the new millennium. The integration of political and economic research in this book will be of interest to graduates and researchers in the fields of international relations, international economics, regional integration and interregionalism.

Regionalism in Hard Times Mario Telò, 2016-09 Brexit confirms that the EU is not a super state in the making but rather an advanced regional organization. This book bridges the gap between EU studies and international relations by providing a student friendly presentation of regional multidimensional cooperation among neighbouring states and societies, its four epochs and relevant variations and similarities across five continents, its interplay with globalization and the changing post hegemonic and post Cold War international order. This text secondly focuses on the question of regionalism in hard times: whether the global financial crisis and multipolar power politics are leading to more competitive and political forms of instrumental regionalism and interregionalism in Europe, East Asia and the Americas. It does this by addressing the political and strategic dimensions of changing regional interregional arrangements and their current and potential impact on global governance, notably on trade and security challenges.

A New Europe in the Changing Global System Richard A. Falk, Tamás Szentes, 1997 In this new book a group of distinguished scholars from a range of disciplines and geographical backgrounds reflect on the centrality of the recent European experience to the global community today. They look at the new Europe that is emerging in the wake of the dramatic geopolitical changes that occurred on the continent at the end of the 1980s. The contributors seek to open a variety of perspectives including those of culture and history on today's rapidly changing European scene. They examine in detail the process of transition and internal realities confronting post communist governments in Eastern and Central Europe. Their provocative essays also look at the role of Europe in the new global economy, the new regional alignments that are emerging.

and other key questions about the continent in the emerging world order In addition to the editors the contributors are Samir Amin Third World Forum Dakar Senegal Carlos Blanco Minister for the Reform of the State of Venezuela Gianni Bonvicini Istituto Affari Internazionali Rome Albert Bressand PROMETHEE Transnational Networks Paris Charles Cooper United Nations University Institute for New Technologies in Maastricht Netherlands Robert Cox York University Toronto Arpad Goncz president of the Hungarian Republic Bjorn Hettne University of Gothenburg Sweden Lal Jayawardena National Development Council Domokos Kosary Hungarian Academy of Sciences Vladislav Kotchetkov UNESCO Tibor Palankai Budapest University of Economics George Schopflin University of London and Mihaly Simai Hungarian Academy of Sciences Budapest

The European Community and the Security Dilemma, 1979-92 Holly Wyatt-Walter, 2016-07-27 This book shows how the relationship between security and integration in Western Europe depends upon an enduring implicit bargain between the US and its European allies Despite internal and external pressures to develop a European security and defence identity distinct from NATO in the 1980s and 1990s EC member states have consistently rejected supranational integration in the areas of security and defence Despite considerable European dissatisfaction with American leadership of NATO Europe has continued to accept that leadership even after the end of the Cold War and the signing of the Maastricht Treaty
