Dave Crowder,2020-01-09 K Dave Crowder Ed D stumbled into learning and development in the usual way He developed a reputation of doing such a great job training new people that he became a trainer The chemical plant he worked for gave him a three day train the trainer course and that was it Eventually he earned a bachelor of education degree a master s degree and doctor of education degree and now he's written the book he wishes existed when he entered the field. Drawing on more than twenty-five years of working in and managing learning and development in industry and corporate settings, he covers the basics from a corporate and industry learning perspective. He answers questions such as: What can be done with instructional design to improve learner motivation? Why can a person be good at one thing and not very good at another? How can competency profiles help trainers effectively develop a needs analysis? What can a person do to be a more effective teacher or coach? He also challenges myths related to learning. Other topics include curriculum design, motivating learners, learner assessment, and program evaluation.
