

Review of New Directions for Evaluation, Volume 106: Theorists' Models in Action

Chris L. S. Coryn

Western Michigan University—The Evaluation Center

The summer 2005 issue of New Directions for Evaluation, “Theorists’ Models in Action”, edited by Marvin C. Alkin and Christina A. Christie is, in part, inspired by the “Radnor Middle School” case study conducted in the early 1980s (Brandt, 1981). In the Radnor case study notable theorists including Scriven, Stake, Eisner, and Popham were asked to explain how they would evaluate Radnor’s humanities curriculum.

In this issue Alkin and Christie asked four contemporary theorists—Jennifer C. Greene, Gary T. Henry, Stewart I. Donaldson, and Jean A. King—to describe how they would evaluate the case of the “Bunche-Da Vinci Learning Partnership Academy.” The Bunche-Da Vinci Learning Partnership Academy is essentially a “unique partnership between the [school] district and a nonprofit educational company specializing in innovative school interventions for low-performing students” (Eisenberg, Winters, & Alkin, 2005, p. 5).

Jennifer Greene (2005) is the first theorist to tackle the Bunche-Da Vinci evaluation. Greene, as anticipated, takes a value-oriented (engaged) approach.

Evaluation Models New Directions For Evaluation:

Evaluation Models Daniel L. Stufflebeam, 2001-04-13 The author of this issue identifies, analyzes, and judges twenty-two evaluation approaches thought to cover most program evaluation efforts providing unique assistance to evaluators faced with choosing an appropriate and valid approach for a particular situation. He describes each approach, its orientation, purpose, typical questions being addressed, and methods, and rates them in each of the four areas previously defined by the Joint Committee Program Evaluation Standards: utility, feasibility, propriety, and accuracy. Controversially, he concludes that there are only nine methods that merit continued use and development. The standards-based metaevaluation checklist used by the author is included so that readers can judge the validity of his process and conclusions or use the checklist themselves. This is the 89th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Evaluation.

Really New Directions in Evaluation: Young Evaluators' Perspectives Sandra Mathison, 2011-10-18 From the Editor: This issue of New Directions for Evaluation (NDE) marks a milestone: the 25th anniversary of the American Evaluation Association (AEA). NDE is an official publication of AEA and has been a crucial means for the Association to foster and promote the professionalization of evaluation through thematic discussions of theory and practice. NDE was first published in 1978 under the name New Directions for Program Evaluation, although the title became New Directions for Evaluation in 1995 in acknowledgment of the broader scope of evaluation. The current issue of NDE on the 25th anniversary of AEA looks not back but ahead. Because NDE is a thematic and guest-edited journal, it tends to favor more mature, self-assured voices in evaluation. The journal format does not lend itself easily to showcasing the voices of novice evaluators, those just entering the field and who will be the next generation of evaluation practitioners and theoreticians. As such, NDE has chosen on this anniversary to highlight those voices. Included are a number of chapters that build on what evaluation has already learned from other disciplines by introducing us to new possibilities. We are also challenged in the chapters to think about techniques or methods we use both at a practical and conceptual level. Some chapters raise questions about who evaluators are, how they interact with others, and the roles they assume in their practice. Some young evaluators are confronting in various ways conundrums in thinking about and doing evaluation within organizations, either from an external or internal perspective. And issues in using technology in evaluation or challenges in evaluating technology are considered.

Theorists' Models in Action Marvin Alkin, 2005-08-11 This volume analyzes how evaluation theorists apply their approach in practice. A scenario of a situation at an elementary school is presented to four prominent theorists who describe how they would design and conduct an evaluation of the school's program. The editors consider the theorists' proposed evaluations as well as their subsequent comments to develop themes related to the influence of theory and context on practice. They also provide a comparative analysis of the theorists' evaluation approaches in relation to the context of evaluation cases presented. Evaluation theorists seem to be quite good at propounding on how they think the evaluation world ought to work. Yet do we really know that what theorists say they would do in practice is indeed what they would actually do Evaluation after all is situational Each context offers its own constituency set of values programmatic elements bureaucratic hurdles and other variables This volume demonstrates why evaluators need to adapt their point of view to a particular situation and provides much needed study and analysis on the way in which they make those adaptations This is the 106th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation
