Evaluation Of Very Sheltered Housing:

An Evaluation of Very Sheltered Housing Anthea Tinker, Great Britain. Department of the Environment, 1989 Very sheltered housing is the latest in a long line of special housing for elderly people Like many new initiatives it evolved from experiments in different parts of the country but up until now no evaluation of these innovative schemes had taken place This research a national survey followed by case studies of ten local authorities and ten housing associations was intended to find out whether very sheltered housing was a cost effective option for frail elderly people and one which they wanted With the expected growth in the number of very elderly people it is important to consider all new forms of housing provision

Sheltered Housing for the Elderly Alan Butler, Christine Oldman, John Greve, 2021-11-07 In the early 1980s the ten million people of retirement age in the UK figured prominently among the disadvantaged and deprived They were heavily over represented in sub standard housing and among those in most need of support from the personal social services One form of social provision which gained rapidly in popularity in the 1960s and 1970s was sheltered housing It was seen to combine housing with care provided support while fostering independence and gave scope for flexibility and experimentation in adapting schemes to local circumstances By the late 1970s hundreds of schemes were administered and they were occupied by half a million elderly tenants Sheltered housing was called the greatest breakthrough in the housing scene since the war Extravagant expectations were aroused and sheltered housing was regarded by some as the solution to all manner of complex problems Taking the country as a whole however relatively little was known about the numbers of schemes and where they were located who owned them and how they were managed the aims and assumptions of those who provided or advocated sheltered housing how the schemes functioned and whether they achieved what they were set up to do the role experience and attitudes of wardens what kinds of people lived in sheltered housing their history and how they became tenants their assessment of the scheme and much else The Leeds study on which this book is based originally published in 1983 was the most comprehensive and detailed to have been conducted into sheltered housing It evoked widespread interest in Britain and abroad at the time It sought to answer some of the important questions about the growth and proliferation of sheltered housing to evaluate sheltered housing from different points of view including those of tenants and to consider the scope for future development While sheltered housing is the focal topic of the book it should be viewed in the broader context of social policy administration professional practice and client experience The book describes in detail an innovatory and evolving form of social provision and in doing so illuminates the operation and impact of policy in action at several levels from the policy maker to the consumer from the organisation of policy to its object There was significant evidence from the study that many tenants were provided with a service which was not the one they sought or even needed but they were given what the agency happened to have or made available Among other topics the book examines sheltered housing as a response to or reflection of myths and prejudices about ageing It discusses whether elderly people should be compelled to move from familiar surroundings late in life and how they cope when they do move The usefulness or otherwise of alarm systems is assessed with conclusions that throw considerable doubt on their value or reliability The evolution and modifications taking place in sheltered housing are reported on and the scope for future initiatives is discussed Older People in Modern Society Anthea Tinker,2014-10-13 Older People in Modern Society is an established classic text in its field and through subsequent editions its reputation and that of its author has grown In this fourth and renamed edition Anthea Tinker synthesises and discusses a wide range of literature about older people drawing from fields such as medicine sociology and social policy and using primary source material to illustrate the text She also introduces a number of topics that have attained greater importance since publication of the third edition in 1992 for example continuing care and the abuse of older people Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations Leon A Pastalan,2014-01-09 Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations takes you for an inside look at what policies in Western Europe Canada and the United States have done to meet the housing and service needs of the elderly and the disabled and what policies have yet to accomplish As you learn about a wide range of cost effective and successful housing options such as congregate housing home equity conversions and homesharing you will learn about the challenges of providing responsive high quality housing and living arrangements to meet the needs of different populations As this insightful book reveals the psychosocial needs of elderly and disabled persons have often been neglected in efforts to provide appropriate physical accommodation and services and shelter are seldom coordinated to respond to the changes individuals experience Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations shows you how federal and state provincial governments nonprofit organizations and private groups have all implemented policies to create barrier free housing Yet at the same time most Western countries have not developed comprehensive grant and loan programs to allow the elderly and disabled to modify their homes As this book walks you through the problems that exist it shows you how policymakers architects social work practitioners and academics housing developers and community leaders can work together to improve housing conditions and services Along the way you will learn about the failure of health care systems to cover home modifications the Fair Housing Act Amendment stigmatizing effects of the elderly label in obtaining community accommodation differences between environmental needs of rural and urban seniors current patterns of housing and living arrangements of older Canadians the effects of demographic aging on the urban ecology the Abbeyfield model of congregate housing continuing care retirement communities aging in place Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations looks at the strengths and weaknesses of different approaches to housing and service provision to help housing policy specialists gerontologists social workers community leaders architects and housing developers find stronger more effective solutions for giving people the home environments they need Don t continue to supply inadequate housing to people with special needs Let this book inform you guide you and contribute to the shaping of important new housing and service policies
