EVERY CHILD'S BIRTHRIGHT: IN DEFENSE OF MOTHERING

SELMA FRAIBERG

ACCLAIMED AUTHOR OF THE MAGIC YEARS

"IT SHOULD BE READ AND READ AGAIN BY ALL THOSE WHO CARE ABOUT CHILDREN" —THE NEW YORK TIMES BOOK REVIEW

WHO WILL TAKE CARE OF THE BABY?

For Selma Fraiberg, renowned child psychoanalyst and author of The Magic Years, the answer is not easy. Today, almost every aspect of child-rearing is in controversy: Should mothers of young infants work? Do "substitute parents" and day-care centers provide a child with sufficient emotional support? With this book Professor Fraiberg puts the needs of the child at the center of the debate. What happens, she asks, when a child is denied loving care? And who is responsible? EVERY CHILD'S BIRTHRIGHT is a passionate affirmation of mothering; it is also a careful examination of the other options open to parents: nurseries, hired help, day-care. For Dr. Fraiberg, one thing is very clear—maternal love and care are not only every child's birthright but the key to his future happiness and health.

Dr. Fraiberg is professor of child psychoanalysis in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of Michigan, and is director of the Child Development Project there. Her most recent book, Insights from the Blind, is a remarkable study of development in blind babies.

Birthright of Every Child Joyce Kneale, 1967      A Constitutional Birthright James G. Dwyer, 2014 State parentage laws dictating who a newborn child's first legal parents will be have been the subject of constitutional challenges in several U S Supreme Court and many lower court decisions All of those decisions however have focused on constitutional rights of adults especially unwed biological fathers who wish to become or to avoid becoming legal parents Neither courts nor legal scholars have considered whether the children have any constitutional rights that constrain legislatures and courts in deciding which adults will be their legal parents If a state enacted a parentage law that said for example that any child born to a birth mother who already had two children would be placed in a parent-child relationship at birth with applicants for adoption rather than with the birth mother would that infringe on any constitutional right of the child Or would the birth mother be the only person with standing to challenge the law Such a law would be purely hypothetical in the U S though not far from reality in some other parts of the world But the actual current parentage laws in the United States which confer legal parent status in almost all instances on biological parents with no regard for fitness also have a seriously adverse affect on a subset of children specifically children whose birth parents are manifestly unfit to raise children as evidenced by serious child maltreatment histories criminal records substance abuse mental illness and or imprisonment This Article is the first to consider whether states violate a constitutional right of some children when their parentage laws consign the children to legal relationships with and into the custody of adults whom the state knows to be unfit It identifies opportunities for children's advocates to advance constitutional challenges to state parentage laws as applied to newborn offspring of adults unfit to parent and it presents a robust legal theory to underwrite such challenges      No birthright Michael Viney, 1964
