The European Water Environment in a Period of Transformation John Hassan, 1996 Looks at the opportunities and challenges of managing the European water environment

Water, Environment and Society in Times of Climatic Change Arie S. Issar, N. Brown, 2013-04-17 Since the greenhouse effect emerged as a predictable threat necessitating the evaluation of its future impact on the environment in the various parts of the globe interest in the climate changes during the Holocene has gained momentum The background can be summarized by the sentence The past is a key to the future As a matter of fact this sentence is in the opposite direction on the dimension of time to the principle adopted by the founders of the science of geology They proposed that geological processes in the present should be used as a key for understanding the past Another reason for the interest in the history of the climate of the Holocene can be described as the renaissance of a modified deterministic approach to the inter relation between physical and human geography This relates in the first place to the fact that various investigations especially as carried out by Hubert Lamb showed that the sequence of climate changes previously suggested by Blytt and Sernander for Europe and adopted by most Holocene climatologists was far too general and that there were more climate changes during recent history than previously taken account of In the second place it was found out that these changes had had an impact on the history of human communities Thus one can conclude that once the taboo on geographical determinism i e Water Asset Management in Times of Climate Change and Digital Transformation Robert Kijak, 2021-09-02 In this book climate change and digital transformation are explored as key strategic drivers for the contemporary practices of water utility companies These drivers seem to be separate but clearly they are not The recent weather anomalies in water stressed countries are discussed which have been breaking records and become an elevated risk to water assets In parallel the book examines a contextual proposition that the concept of the fourth industrial revolution applied to the water sector Water 4.0 assists with the water supply decentralisation and sustainability in particular climate resilience It further suggests that the implementation of an Asset Management System with reference to the ISO 55001 standard is a useful tool in this process

The Impact of Climate Change on European Lakes Glen George, 2009-11-27 In this book scientists from eleven countries summarize the results of an EU project CLIME that explored the effects of observed and projected changes in the climate on the dynamics of lakes in Northern Western and Central Europe Historical measurements from eighteen sites were used to compare the seasonal dynamics of the lakes and to assess their sensitivity to local regional and global scale changes in the weather Simulations using a common set of water quality models perturbed by six climate change scenarios were then used to assess the uncertainties associated with the projected changes in the climate The book includes chapters on the phenology and modelling of lake ice the supply and recycling of nitrogen and phosphorus the flux of dissolved organic carbon and the growth and the seasonal succession of phytoplankton There are also chapters on the coherent responses of lakes to changes in the circulation of the atmosphere the development of a web based Decision

Support System and the implications of climate change for the Water Framework Directive      Encyclopedia of Global Warming and Climate Change, Second Edition S. George Philander, 2012-06-13 The First Edition of the Encyclopedia of Global Warming and Climate Change provided a multi authored academic yet non technical resource for students and teachers to understand the importance of global warming to appreciate the effects of human activity and greenhouse gases around the world and to learn the history of climate change and the research enterprise examining it This edition was well received with notable reviews Since its publication the debate over the advent of global warming at least partially brought on by human enterprise has continued to ebb and flow depending literally on the weather politics and media coverage of climate summits and debates Advances in research also change the discourse as new data is collected and new scientific projects continue to explore and explain global warming and climate change Thus a new Second Edition updates more than half of the original entries and adds new perspectives and content to keep students and researchers up to date in a field that has proven provocatively lively      Adapting to Climate Change in Europe Hans Sanderson, Mikael Hildén, Duncan Russel, Gil Penha-Lopes, Alessio Capriolo, 2018-03-12 Adapting to Climate Change in Europe Exploring Sustainable Pathways From Local Measures to Wider Policies is a scientific synthesis of a four year project on adaptation activities in Europe It combines scientific assessments with real world case descriptions to present specific tools and methods This book aims at ensuring sustainable solutions in adaptation to climate change The challenge of adaptation is still at an early stage this book fills relevant gaps in current knowledge on climate adaptation providing a crucial set of tools to support effective decision making It acts as a guide to practitioners and decision makers along different steps of on going adaptation processes Adapting to Climate Change in Europe contains methods and tools for improving stakeholder s participation and analyzing costs and benefits of different adaptation measures It is an essential resource for researchers graduate students and experts and policymakers working in climate change and adaptation Features real world case studies providing a tool for comparative learning Fulfills the current knowledge gap in climate change adaptation Includes top down economic models allowing for a novel application and integration of adaptation features in European and global models Provides in depth analysis of participation using new empirical material and approaches      Environmental Change and Human Security in Africa and the Middle East Mohamed Behnassi, Katriona McGlade, 2017-01-17 This volume brings together insights on the interactions between environmental change and human security in the Middle East and Africa These regions face particular challenges in relation to environmental degradation the decline of natural resources and consequent risks to current and future human security The chapters provide topical analysis from a range of disciplines on the theory discourse policy and practice of responding to global environmental change and threats to human security Case studies from Morocco Tunisia Egypt Turkey Iraq and Syria provide empirical evidence with a focus section dedicated to the critical issue of water resources and water security in the region The contributions demonstrate above all that the risks posed to human security arise through multiple and interconnected processes operating across diverse spatial and temporal scales The complexity of these processes requires new ways of thinking and intervening As a contribution the current volume provides engaging insights from theory and practice for those seeking to address the challenges of environmental change

Coastal Lagoons in Europe Geoffrey D. Gooch, 2015-07-15 Lagoons represent nearly 13% of the shoreline globally and around 5% in Europe Coastal lagoons are shallow water bodies separated from the ocean by a barrier e.g narrow spit connected at least intermittently to the ocean by one or more restricted inlets and usually geographically oriented parallel to the shore line Coastal lagoons are flexible and usually able to cope with environmental change yet nowadays they are under threat This is partly due to climate change impacts for example sea level rise and hydro meteorological extreme events but also due to more direct human activities and pressures The book focuses on addressing these challenges through integrated management strategies seen in a land sea and science stakeholder policy perspective Pan European management challenges are seen from the context of the perspectives of Policy Environment and Modelling Four case study lagoons in different geographical locations in Europe provide examples of some of the practical experiences and results around these challenges Possible impacts on drainage basins and lagoons are introduced through integrated scenarios which were developed through a multi science and land lagoon science perspective combined with interactions and contributions from stakeholders and citizens Issues around climate change impacts on environmental conditions in both drainage basins and lagoons are also included The book derives from a collaborative EC funded project entitled Integrated Water Resources and Coastal Zone Management in European Lagoons in the Context of Climate Change comprising nine partner institutes with a wide diversity in the scientific disciplines covered Editors Ana I Lillebo University of Aveiro Portugal Per Stalnacke Bioforsk Norwegian Institute for Agricultural and Environmental Research Norway Geoffrey D Gooch University of Dundee Scotland UK

Life in Europe Under Climate Change Joseph Alcamo, Jorgen E. Olesen, 2012-05-21 Life in Europe will indeed go on as the climate changes but not in the same way as before The air will be warmer winds will change patterns of rainfall and snowfall will alter and sea level is likely to rise These phenomena are already being seen Europe will in the future experience marked changes in vegetation cover increased floods along rivers and coastlines as well as more frequent droughts and forest fires often leading to large societal costs The changes will be minor in some cases profound in others but in any case pervasive This book uses the most up to date information issued by the IPCC Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change and informs readers about these effects as well as showing how Europe is contributing to attempts to slow the tempo of global climate change and how it can adapt to the climate change that seems unavoidable Life in Europe under Climate Change makes essential information on climate impacts in Europe accessible to a broad audience including students politicians planners and members of non governmental organizations

Causes and Consequences of Forest Growth Trends in Europe Hans-Peter Kahle,2008-05-31 Forest growth in Europe has been increasing during the last decades The possible causes suggested to explain this have been increasing atmospheric carbon dioxide concentration improved temperature and precipitation climate increasing nitrogen deposition and better management In this book complementary approaches are used to discriminate between the importance of each of these factors Investigations over large geographical areas are used to separate current variability while detailed studies of the growth of individual trees allow historical trends to be evaluated Four different mechanistic forest ecosystem models supplement the empirical investigations The major cause of the observed growth increase is attributed to the increased nitrogen availability In future direct temperature effects and increasing atmospheric carbon dioxide concentration are likely to become important determinants of forest growth Anyone interested in the future of production and health of Europe s forests should benefit from this extensive analysis of the current status and projections of forest growth

Climate Change-Sensitive Water Resources Management Ramesh S.V. Teegavarapu,Elpida Kolokytha,Carlos de Oliveira Galvão,2020-12-17 The book provides an overview of climate change sensitive water resources management with consideration of adaptation approaches the assessment of climate change impacts current contemporary management techniques and ecological responses Comprehensive assessments and studies from eight countries using innovative approaches that aid water management under evolving climates are documented Topics ranging from hydrologic design to management and policy responses to climate change are discussed which demonstrate updated theories that highlight methods tools and experiences on the topic of water resources under climate change The generic approaches discussed and their applications to different climate change related problems make this book appealing to a global readership The practical and applied methodologies presented in the book and through insightful case studies discussed will provide readers worldwide with ready to use information to manage water resources sustainably under evolving climate This book is ideally suited for water resource managers scientists professionals from water management agencies graduate students and national laboratory agencies responsible for water and environmental management

OECD Studies on Water Water and Climate Change Adaptation Policies to Navigate Uncharted Waters OECD,2013-09-02 This publication sets out the challenge for freshwater in a changing climate and provides policy guidance on how to navigate this new waterscape

The Water Framework Directive Philippe Quevauviller,2011 Proceedings of a conference on Integrated River Basin Management under the Water Framework Directive held at Le Nouveau Si cle Lille France on 26th 28th April 2010 The book reviews technical challenges faced by EU Member States stakeholder organisations and scientists while developing the first River Basin Management Plan under the Water Framework Directive WFD It focusses on aspects of multi sectoral and multidisciplinary integration and how emerging issues such as adaptation to climate change will be considered in the future

Water Governance in the Face of Global Change Claudia Pahl-Wostl,2015-09-04 This book offers the first comprehensive treatment of multi level water governance developing a conceptual and analytical framework that captures the complexity of real water governance systems while also introducing different approaches to comparative analysis Applications illustrate how the ostensibly conflicting goals of deriving general principles and of taking context specific factors into account can be reconciled Specific emphasis is given to governance reform adaptive and transformative capacity and multi level societal learning The sustainable management of global water resources is one of the most pressing environmental challenges of the 21st century Many problems and barriers to improvement can be attributed to failures in governance rather than the resource base itself At the same time our understanding of complex water governance systems largely remains limited and fragmented The book offers an invaluable resource for all researchers working on water governance topics and for practitioners dealing with water governance challenges alike

Climate Change Adaptation in Eastern Europe Walter Leal Filho,Goran Trbic,Dejan Filipovic,2018-12-15 This book focuses on managing risks and building resilience to climate change showcasing experiences from research field projects and best practices to foster climate change adaptation in Eastern Europe that can be implemented elsewhere Climate change affects countries in Eastern Europe i e the Western Balkans and Southeast Europe in a variety of ways Apart from severe floods there are reports of decreasing water reserves in the southern regions and of gradual changes in biodiversity and agricultural production In the South Caucasus area for instance climate change models project a decline in precipitation and suggest that it will continue to become drier this century Many Eastern European countries especially the non EU ones have weak national climate policies and transboundary collaborations as well as limited public engagement in matters related to climate change As a result climate change poses a serious threat to their economic stability and development and to the sustainable development of the region The above state of affairs illustrates the need for a better understanding of how climate change influences Eastern Europe and for the identification of processes methods and tools that may help the countries and the communities in the region to adapt There is also a perceived need to showcase successful examples of how to cope with the social economic and political problems posed by floods droughts in the region especially ways of increasing the resilience of agriculture systems and of communities Addressing this need the book presents papers written by scholars social practitioners and members of government agencies involved in research and or climate change projects in Eastern Europe

Climate Change and Groundwater Walter Dragoni, Balbir S. Sukhija, 2008

There is a general consensus that for the next few decades at least the Earth will continue its warming This will inevitably bring about serious environmental problems For human society the most severe will be those related to alterations of the hydrological cycle which is already heavily influenced by human activities Climate change will directly affect groundwater recharge groundwater quality and the freshwater seawater interface The variations of groundwater storage inevitably entail a variety of geomorphological and engineering effects In the areas where water resources are likely to diminish groundwater will be one of the main solutions to prevent drought In spite of its paramount importance the issue of Climate Change and Groundwater has been neglected This volume presents some of the current understanding of the topic

The EU, US and China Tackling Climate Change Sophia Kalantzakos, 2017-07-14 The feeling of optimism that followed the COP 21 Paris Conference on Climate Change requires concrete action and steadfast commitment to a process that raises a number of crucial challenges technological political social and economic As climate change worsens new robust leadership is imperative The EU US and China Tackling Climate Change examines why a close collaboration between the EU and China may result in the necessary impetus to solidify a vision and a roadmap for our common future in the Anthropocene Kalantzakos introduces a novel perspective and narrative on climate action leadership through an analysis of international relations She argues that a close EU China collaboration which does not carry the baggage of an imbedded competition for supremacy may best help the global community move towards a low carbon future and navigate the new challenges of the Anthropocene Overall Kalantzakos demonstrates how Europe and China already strategic partners can exercise global leadership in an area of crucial common interest through their web of relations substantial development aid and the use of soft power tools throughout the developing world This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of environmental politics international relations climate change and energy law and policy

Managing Protected Areas in Central and Eastern Europe Under Climate Change Sven Rannow, Marco Neubert, 2014-01-18 Beginning with an overview of data and concepts developed in the EU project HABIT CHANGE this book addresses the need for sharing knowledge and experience in the field of biodiversity conservation and climate change There is an urgent need to build capacity in protected areas to monitor assess manage and report the effects of climate change and their interaction with other pressures The contributors identify barriers to the adaptation of conservation management such as the mismatch between planning reality and the decision context at site level Short and vivid descriptions of case studies drawn from investigation areas all over Central and Eastern Europe illustrate both the local impacts of climate change and their consequences for future management These focus on ecosystems most vulnerable to changes in climatic conditions including alpine areas wetlands forests lowland grasslands and coastal areas The case studies demonstrate the application of adaptation strategies in protected areas like National Parks Biosphere Reserves and Natural Parks and reflect the potential benefits as well as existing obstacles A general section provides the necessary background information on climate trends and their effects on abiotic and biotic components Often the parties to policy change and conservation management including managers land users and stakeholders lack both expertise and incentives to undertake adaptation activities The authors recognise that achieving the needed changes in behavior habit is as much a social learning process as a matter of science based procedure They describe the implementation of modeling impact assessment and monitoring of climate conditions and show how the results can support efforts to increase stakeholder involvement in local adaptation strategies The book concludes by pointing out the need for more work to communicate the cross sectoral nature of biodiversity protection the value of well informed planning in the long term process of adaptation the definition of acceptable change and the motivational value of exchanging experience and examples of good practice
