Europe's First Monumental Sculpture: New Discoveries at Lepenski Vir Dragoslav Srejović, 1972 Europe's First Monumental Sculpture, 1982 Europe's First Farmers T. Douglas Price, 2000-09-14 Essays by leading specialists on a central issue of European history the transition to farming Europe in the Neolithic A. W. R. Whittle, 1996-05-23 Dr Whittle reviews the latest archaeological evidence on Neolithic Europe from 7000 to 2500 BC Describing important areas sites and problems he addresses the major themes that have engaged the attention of scholars the transition from a forager lifestyle the rate and dynamics of change and the nature of Neolithic society He challenges conventional views arguing that Neolithic society was rooted in the values and practices of its forager predecessors right across the continent The processes of settling down and adopting farming were piecemeal and slow Only gradually did new attitudes emerge to time and the past to the sacred realms of ancestors and the dead to nature and to the concept of community Unique in its broad and up to date coverage of long term processes of change on a continental scale this completely rewritten and revised version of Whittle's Neolithic Europe a survey reflects radical changes in the evidence and in interpretative approaches over the past decade Eventful Archaeologies Douglas J. Bolender, 2010-09-17 What is the role of events when evaluating the long term significance of the archaeological record Given that the event is a key mechanism for structural change are historical transformations always eventful And what is the relationship between specific events and other temporalities of change In this notable volume researchers from Germany to Iceland to New York from across the sweep of European and North American prehistory and history explore the promise and challenges of events the potent intersections of history and archaeology Of special interest are the potential of events for better understanding volcanic disasters the Neolithic argonauts of the western Mediterranean Roman provincial archaeology early Neolithic southern Britain change during the Paleolithic era the Iron Age Heuneburg Mud brick Wall colonial New York and households Indispensable for historians archaeologists and those ethnohistorians and anthropologists working within a long term historical framework Eventful Archaeologies offers a more holistic and richly textured approach for comprehending cultural change The Oxford Handbook of Wetland Archaeology Francesco Menotti, Aidan O'Sullivan, 2013 This Handbook sets out the key issues and debates in the theory and practice of wetland archaeology which has played a crucial role in studies of our past Due to the high quantity of preserved organic materials found in humid environments the study of wetlands has allowed archaeologists to reconstruct people's everyday lives in great detail Hyphenated Histories: Articulations of Central European Bildung and Slavic Studies in the Contemporary Academy Andrew Colin Gow, 2007-11-01 Art history literary history film history social history micro history economic history women's history postcolonial history and other hyphenated histories have introduced elements of discontinuity rupture and plurality into hegemonic historical narratives by initiating interdisciplinary encounters that have not only redefined and rewritten debates over the terrain of the past but have shared a common problematic with and thus have left indelible traces in the global syntax of theory itself Rather than focusing on Grand Theory we have explored some of these issues in our own areas The first section of the volume is more general and tries to make sense of current institutional realities the second section consists of case studies demonstrating how the various disciplinary divisions of Slavic Studies can be overcome by adding together various hyphenated approaches history and cultural studies anthropology and oral history film studies and photography Contributors include Wladimir Fischer Natalka Khanenko Friesen Andrew Colin Gow Susan Ingram Markus Reisenleitner Elena Siemens Serhy Yekelchuk Andriy Zayarnyuk and Marko Ivković Transgression Louis Rice, David Littlefield, 2014-11-20 Transgression means to cross over borders disciplines practices professions and legislation This book explores how the transgression of boundaries produces new forms of architecture education built environments and praxis Based on material from the 10th International Conference of the AHRA this volume presents contributions from academics practicing architects and artists activists from around the world to provide perspectives on emerging and transgressive architecture Divided into four key themes boundaries violations place and art practice it explores global processes transformative praxis and emerging trends in architectural production examining alternative and radical ways of practicing architecture and reimagining the profession The wide range of international contributors are drawn from subject areas such as architecture cultural geography urban studies sociology fine art film making photography and environmentalism and feature examples from regions such as the United States Europe and Asia At the forefront of exploring inter disciplinary and trans disciplinary research and practice Transgression will be key reading for students researchers and professionals with an interest in the changing nature of architectural and spatial disciplines Fishing Brian Fagan, 2017-09-26 An archaeologist examines humanity's last major source of food from the wild and how it enabled and shaped the growth of civilization In this history of fishing not as sport but as sustenance archaeologist and best selling author Brian Fagan argues that fishing was an indispensable and often overlooked element in the growth of civilization It sustainably provided enough food to allow cities nations and empires to grow but it did so with a different emphasis Where agriculture encouraged stability fishing demanded movement It frequently required a search for new and better fishing grounds its technologies centered on boats facilitated movement and discovery and fish themselves when dried and salted were the ideal food lightweight nutritious and long lasting for traders travelers and conquering armies This history of the long interaction of humans and seafood tours archaeological sites worldwide to show readers how fishing fed human settlement rising social complexity the development of cities and ultimately the modern world A tour de force Achieves its goal of putting fishing on par with hunter gathering and agriculture in the history of human civilization Leon Vlieger Natural History Book Service A valuable book as well as an interesting one Fagan succeeds in providing an admirable primer for the enthusiast and a welcome tool for the historian Economist A unique panoramic survey of the field Laurence A Marshall Natural History Gently scholarly elegant A compelling picture of how fishing was so integral in each society's development A multilayered nuanced tour of fishing societies throughout the world and across millennia Kirkus Reviews Serbian Dreambook Marko Živković, 2011-04-29 The central role that the regime of Slobodan Milošević played in the bloody dissolution of Yugoslavia is well known but Marko Živković explores another side of this time period the stories people in Serbia were telling themselves and others about themselves Živković traces the recurring themes scripts and narratives that permeated public discourse in Milošević's Serbia as Serbs described themselves as Gypsies or Jews violent highlanders or peaceful lowlanders and invoked their own mythologized defeat at the Battle of Kosovo The author investigates national narratives the use of tradition for political purposes and local idioms paying special attention to the often bizarre and outlandish tropes people employed to make sense of their social reality He suggests that the enchantments of political life under Milošević may be fruitfully seen as a dreambook of Serbian national imaginary The Significance of Monuments Richard Bradley, 2012-12-06 The Neolithic period when agriculture began and many monuments including Stonehenge were constructed is an era fraught with paradoxes and ambiguities Starting in the Mesolithic and carrying his analysis through to the Late Bronze Age Richard Bradley sheds light on this complex period and the changing consciousness of these prehistoric peoples The Significance of Monuments studies the importance of monuments tracing their history from their first creation over six thousand years later Part One discusses how monuments first developed and their role in developing a new sense of time and space among the inhabitants of prehistoric Europe Other features of the prehistoric landscape such as mounds and enclosures across Continental Europe are also examined Part Two studies how such monuments were modified and reinterpreted to suit the changing needs of society through a series of detailed case studies The Significance of Monuments is an indispensable text for all students of European prehistory It is also an enlightening read for professional archaeologists and all those interested in this fascinating period Creativity in Human Evolution and Prehistory Steven Mithen, 2005-08-10 We live in a world surrounded by remarkable cultural achievements of human kind Almost every day we hear of new innovations in technology in medicine and in the arts which remind us that humans are capable of remarkable creativity But what is human creativity The modern world provides a tiny fraction of cultural diversity and the evidence for human creativity far more can be seen by looking back into prehistory The book examines how our understanding of human creativity can be extended by exploring this phenomenon during human evolution and prehistory The book offers unique perspectives on the nature of human creativity from archaeologists who are concerned with long term patterns of cultural change and have access to quite different types of human behaviour than that which exists today It asks whether humans are the only creative species or whether our extinct relatives such as Homo habilis and the Neanderthals also displayed creative thinking It explores what we can learn about the nature of human creativity from cultural developments during prehistory such as changes in the manner in which the dead were buried monuments constructed and the natural world exploited In doing so new light is thrown on these cultural developments and the behaviour of our prehistoric ancestors By examining the nature of creativity during human evolution and prehistory these archaeologists supported by contributions from psychology computer science and social anthropology show that human creativity is a far more diverse and complex phenomena than simply flashes of genius by isolated individuals Indeed they show that unless perspectives from prehistory are taken into account our understanding of human creativity will be limited and incomplete The Cambridge Ancient History Stanley Arthur Cook, Martin Percival Charlesworth, John Bagnell Bury, John Bernard Bury, 1924

Social Zooarchaeology Nerissa Russell, 2011-11-14 This is the first book to provide a systematic overview of social zooarchaeology which takes a holistic view of human animal relations in the past Until recently archaeological analysis of faunal evidence has primarily focused on the role of animals in the human diet and subsistence economy This book however argues that animals have always played many more roles in human societies as wealth companions spirit helpers sacrificial victims totems centerpieces of feasts objects of taboos and more These social factors are as significant as taphonomic processes in shaping animal bone assemblages Nerissa Russell uses evidence derived from not only zooarchaeology but also ethnography history and classical studies to suggest the range of human animal relationships and to examine their importance in human society Through exploring the significance of animals to ancient humans this book provides a richer picture of past societies Not Just for Show Daniella Bar-Yosef Mayer, Alice M. Choyke, 2017-08-31 Beads beadwork and personal ornaments are made of diverse materials such as shell bone stones minerals and composite materials Their exploration from geographical and chronological settings around the world offers a glimpse at some of the cutting edge research within the fast growing field of personal ornaments in humanities past Recent studies are based on a variety of analytical procedures that highlight humankind's technological advances exchange networks mortuary practices and symbol laden beliefs Papers discuss the social narratives behind bead and beadwork manufacture use and disposal the way beads work visually audibly and even tactilely to cue wearers and audience to their social message's Understanding the entangled social and technical aspects of beads require a broad spectrum of technical and methodological approaches including the identification of the sources for the raw material of beads These scientific approaches are also combined in some instances with experimentation to clarify the manner in which beads were produced and used in past societies Religion at Work in a Neolithic Society Ian Hodder, 2014-02-10 This book tackles the topic of religion a broad subject exciting renewed interest across the social and historical sciences The volume is tightly focused on the early farming village of Catalhöyük which has generated much interest both within and outside of archaeology especially for its contributions to the understanding of early religion The volume discusses contemporary themes such as materiality animism object vitality and material dimensions of spirituality while at the same time exploring broad evolutionary changes in the ways in which religion has influenced society The volume results from a unique collaboration between an archaeological team and a range of specialists in ritual and religion The Archaeology of People Alisdair Whittle, 2003-09-02 Alasdair Whittle's new work argues powerfully for the complexity and fluidity of life in the Neolithic through a combination of archaeological and anthropological case studies and current theoretical debate The book ranges from the sixth to the fourth millennium BC and from the Great Hungarian Plain central and western Europe and the Alpine foreland to parts of southern Britain Familiar terms such as individuals agency identity and structure are dealt with but Professor Whittle emphasises that they are too abstract to be truly useful Instead he highlights the multiple dimensions which constituted Neolithic existence the web of daily routines group and individual identities relations with animals and active but varied attitudes to the past The result is a vivid original and perceptive understanding of the early Neolithic which will offer insights to readers at every level Farmers at the Frontier Kurt J Gron,Lasse Sørensen,Peter

Rowley-Conwy,2020-02-15 All farming in prehistoric Europe ultimately came from elsewhere in one way or another unlike the growing numbers of primary centers of domestication and agricultural origins worldwide This fact affects every aspect of our understanding of the start of farming on the continent because it means that ultimately domesticated plants and animals came from somewhere else and from someone else In an area as vast as Europe the process by which food production becomes the predominant subsistence strategy is of course highly variable but in a sense the outcome is the same and has the potential for addressing more large scale questions regarding agricultural origins Therefore a detailed understanding of all aspects of farming in its absolute earliest form in various regions of Europe can potentially provide a new perspective on the mechanisms by which this monumental change comes to human societies and regions In this volume we aim to collect various perspectives regarding the earliest farming from across Europe Methodological approaches archaeological cultures and geographic locations in Europe are variable but all papers engage with the simple question What was the earliest farming like This volume opens a conversation about agriculture just after the transition in order to address the role incoming people technologies and adaptations have in secondary adoptions The book starts with an introduction by the editors which will serve to contextualize the theme of the volume The broad arguments concerning the process of neolithisation are addressed and the rationale for the volume discussed Contributions are ordered geographically and chronologically given the progression of the Neolithic across Europe The editors conclude the volume with a short commentary paper regarding the theme of the volume The Origins And Spread Of Agriculture And Pastoralism In Eurasia

David R. Harris,2024-11-01 As the first book to examine the origins and spread of agriculture and pastoralism in Europe and Asia as a whole this major contribution should be essential reading for archaeologists anthropologists biologists and geographers Adopting a novel approach to the subject the authors examine it first in terms of seven different disciplinary perspectives social ecological genetic linguistic biomolecular epidemiological and geographical Then 20 case studies are presented which are based primarily on archaeological and biological evidence and which relate to three major regions Southwest Asia Europe and Central Asia to the Pacific The book concludes with an overview of Eurasia as a whole The transition from hunting and gathering to agriculture had revolutionary consequences for human society It led to the emergence of urban civilizations and ultimately to humanity's almost complete dependence on relatively few domesticated animals and plants. The subject has been much studied but the results have tended to be interpreted largely in terms of local cultural sequences with insufficient comparison made with evidence from other areas. In contrast, this book provides a continental scale framework with its scope extended to pastoralism because in Eurasia both the raising of livestock and the cultivation of crops were integral components of the agricultural revolution from its inception some 10 000 years ago. Comprehensive and authoritative, The Origins and Spread of Agriculture and Pastoralism in Eurasia should appeal strongly to the wide readership of students and specialists concerned with the prehistoric antecedents of modern civilization.

Theory and Practice in Archaeology Ian Hodder, 2004-08-02 An overview of the way the archaeological debate has developed over the last 10 years, Hodder aims to break down the separation between theory and practice and reconcile the division between the intellectual and the dirt archaeologist.
