A Theory of Minimalism Marc Botha, 2017-10-19 The explosion of minimalism into the worlds of visual arts music and literature in the mid to late twentieth century presents one of the most radical and decisive revolutions in aesthetic history Detested by some embraced by others minimalism s influence was immediate pervasive and lasting significantly changing the way we hear music see art and read literature In The Theory of Minimalism Marc Botha offers the first general theory of minimalism equally applicable to literature the visual arts and music He argues that minimalism establishes an aesthetic paradigm for rethinking realism in genuinely radical terms In dialogue with thinkers from both the analytic and continental traditions including Kant Danto Agamben Badiou and Meillassoux Botha develops a constellation of concepts which together encapsulate the transhistorical and transdisciplinary reach of minimalism Illustrated by a range of historical canonical and contemporary minimalist works of different media from the caves of early Christian ascetics to Samuel Beckett's late prose Botha offers a bold and provocative argument which will equip readers with the tools to engage critically with past present and future minimalism and to recognize how in a culture caught between the poles of excess and austerity minimalism still matters

Deleuze and Contemporary Art Stephen Zepke, 2010-05-27 What is the importance of deconstruction and the writing of Jacques Derrida in particular for literary criticism today Derek Attridge argues that the challenge of Derrida's work for our understanding of literature and its value has still not been fully met and in this book which traces a close engagement with Derrida's writing over two decades and reflects an interest in that work going back a further two decades shows how that work can illuminate a variety of topics Chapters include an overview of deconstruction as a critical practice today discussions of the secret postcolonialism ethics literary criticism jargon fiction and photography and responses to the theoretical writing of Emmanuel Levinas Roland Barthes and J Hillis Miller Also included is a discussion of the recent reading of Derrida's philosophy as radical atheism and the book ends with a conversation on deconstruction and place with the theorist and critic Jean Michel Rabate Running throughout is a concern with the question of responsibility as exemplified in Derrida's own readings of literary and philosophical texts responsibility to the work being read responsibility to the protocols of rational argument and responsibility to the reader

Affinities Brian Dillon, 2023-04-25 A meditation on the power and pleasures of the image from paintings to photographs to migraine auras by one of Britain's finest literary minds In Affinities Brian Dillon who Joyce Carol Oates has said writes fascinating prose on virtually any subject explores images and artists he is drawn to and analyzes the attraction What does it mean to claim affinity with a picture What do feelings of affinity imply about the experience of art and of the world Affinities is a critical and personal study of a sensation that is not exactly taste desire or solidarity but has aspects of all three Approaching this subject via discrete examples Dillon examines works by artists such as Dora Maar and Andy Warhol Rinko Kawauchi and Susan Hiller as well as scientific or vernacular images of sea creatures and migraine auras Written as a series of linked essays Affinities completes a trilogy with Essayism and Suppose a Sentence about the intimate and abstract pleasures of reading and looking British Art and the Environment Charlotte Gould, Sophie Mesplède, 2021-07-21 This book explores the nature of Britain based artists engagement with the transformations of their environment since the early days of the Industrial Revolution At a time of pressing ecological concerns the international group of contributors provide a series of case studies that reconsider the nature culture divide and aim at identifying the contours of a national narrative that stretches from enclosed lands to rising seas By adopting a longer historical view this book hopes to enrich current debates concerning art s engagement with recording and questioning the impact of human activity on the environment The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history contemporary art environmental humanities and British studies Collection of pamphlets and articles on American Jews, 1914 Doing Museology Differently Duncan Grewcock, 2013-09-05 One might believe that museum studies is a stable field of academic inquiry based on a set of familiar institutional forms and functions But as institutions museums have never been stable or singular and neither has the discipline of museum studies Museum studies as a field of academic inquiry has received little critical attention One result of this neglect has arguably been a lack of invention in museum studies another is the distancing of academic museum studies from museum practice Doing Museology Differently charts a different course A critical creative reflection on academic practice the book takes the form of a narrative account of museological fieldwork A research story unfolds challenging academic conventions at the level of its own presentation the book combines critical museum visiting with an autobiographical voice The identification of a previously underexplored interdisciplinary space leads the author to experiment with museum studies using contemporary developments in the theory and practice of human geography The new approaches to museological research and representation that emerge from this unique inquiry challenge assumed institutional and intellectual boundaries and act as a call to further creative experimentation
