Evaluation Findings That Surprise No 90 New Directions For Evaluation:

Evaluation Findings That Surprise Richard J. Light, 2001-07-17 This volume shows how evaluators can play a vital role in shaping public policy by testing the validity of widely held beliefs. The contributors provide concrete examples of evaluation results that unexpectedly forced policymakers to modify or completely revamp programs in different human service fields. Chapters examine how evaluation results lead to a dramatic restructuring of programs for reducing recidivism for domestic violence and preventing perinatal transmission of HIV and offer evaluation based evidence that privatization actually results in greater rather than lesser demand for public services. They also focus on the influence of evaluation on educational policies illustrating how better cost effectiveness analysis can support change efforts how narrative evaluations can actually strengthen standardized test results and how evaluation can help to determine the most successful professional development programs for teachers. This is the 90th issue of the Jossey Bass series New Directions for Evaluation.

Evaluating Educational Reforms Peder Haug, Thomas A. Schwandt, 2003-06-01 A Scandinavian perspective on evaluating educational reforms. The essays include The Research Council of Norway Evaluating Reform 97 Models of Evaluation and What's Being Done in the Name of Evaluation Experiences Drawn from the Recent Evaluation of Schooling Reforms in Switzerland. Selected Papers of Frederick Mosteller Stephen E. Fienberg, David C. Hoaglin, 2007-02-01 One of the best known statisticians of the 20th century Frederick Mosteller has inspired numerous statisticians and other scientists by his creative approach to statistics and its applications. This volume collects 40 of his most original and influential papers capturing the variety and depth of his writings. It is hoped that sharing these writings with a new generation of researchers will inspire them to build upon his insights and efforts.

Multisite Evaluation Practice: Lessons and Reflections From Four Cases Frances Lawrenz, 2011-04-19 Multisite evaluation settings differ from the single settings common to research on evaluation use. In addition to the primary intended users there is another important group of potential evaluation users in settings where government agencies or large national or international foundations fund multisite projects: project leaders and local evaluators. If each project site is expected to take part in or support the overall program evaluation then these individuals frequently serve as links between their projects and the larger cross project evaluation of the funded program. The field has not until now addressed the topic of how being asked or required to participate in such evaluations affects these people who play a critical role in multisite evaluations. This issue does so in two ways. The first six chapters present data and related analyses from research on four multisite evaluations documenting the patterns of involvement in these evaluation projects and the extent to which different levels of involvement in program evaluations resulted in different patterns of evaluation use and influence. The remaining chapters offer reflections on the results of the cases or their implications, some by people who were part of the original research and some by those who were not. The goal is to encourage readers to think actively about ways to improve multisite evaluation practice. This is the 129th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report.
