Contextualizing British short fiction within the broader framework of early nineteenth century print culture, Tim Killick argues that authors and publishers sought to present short fiction in book length volumes as a way of competing with the novel as a legitimate and prestigious genre. Beginning with an overview of the development of short fiction through the late eighteenth century and analysis of the publishing conditions for the genre, including its appearance in magazines and annuals, Killick shows how Washington Irving's hugely popular collections set the stage for British writers. Subsequent chapters consider the stories and sketches of writers as diverse as Mary Russell Mitford and James Hogg as well as didactic short fiction by authors such as Hannah More, Maria Edgeworth, and Amelia Opie. His book makes a convincing case for the evolution of short fiction into a self-conscious, intentionally modern form with its own techniques and imperatives, separate from those of the novel.

Blackwood's Magazine, 1817-25 Nicholas Mason, 2024-07-31 Contextualizes and annotates the influential, scandalous, and entertaining texts which appeared in the Blackwood's Magazine between 1817 and 1825. This title features a detailed general introduction, volume introductions, and endnotes providing the reader with an understanding of the origins and early history of Blackwood's Magazine. Sadlier, 1902 Regional Romanticism Gerard Lee McKeever, 2024-10-22 This book tracks the rise of modern cultural regionalism across the turn of the nineteenth century Attending specifically to literature and literary culture it examines how a particular region southwest Scotland was reimagined between 1770 and 1830 Regionalisms were a vital emergent force in this period in dialogue with the local the national the transnational and the imperial In the case of southwest Scotland the literary inscription of the region was generated in a blossoming periodical press by visitors like Dorothy Wordsworth and John Keats by resident icon Robert Burns by homesick emigrants such as Allan Cunningham by adventurers colonialists and pirates looking back from within and beyond the formal limits of empire by the unprecedented success of Walter Scott and by many others navigating the opportunities presented by rapidly evolving economic environmental and infrastructural conditions Regional Romanticism illuminates a neglected aspect of anglophone literary history acknowledging regions and regionalism as a primary frame of reference in late eighteenth and early nineteenth century culture The Life of St. Thomas of Villanova Claude MAIMBOURG, 1874 The Acts of the Early Martyrs Joseph Fastre, 1876 Scott's Shadow Ian Duncan, 2016-08-02 Scott's Shadow is the first comprehensive account of the flowering of Scottish fiction between 1802 and 1832 when post Enlightenment Edinburgh rivaled London as a center for literary and cultural innovation Ian Duncan shows how Walter Scott became the central figure in these developments and how he helped redefine the novel as the principal modern genre for the representation of national historical life Duncan traces the rise of a cultural nationalist ideology and the ascendancy of Scott's Waverley novels in the years after Waterloo He argues that the key to Scott's achievement and its unprecedented impact was the actualization of a realist aesthetic of fiction one that offered a socializing model of the imagination as first theorized by Scottish philosopher and historian David Hume This aesthetic Duncan contends provides a powerful novelistic alternative to the Kantian Coleridgean account of the imagination that has been taken as normative for British Romanticism since the early twentieth century Duncan goes on to examine in detail how other Scottish writers inspired by Scott's innovations James

Hogg and John Galt in particular produced in their own novels and tales rival accounts of regional national and imperial history Scott's Shadow illuminates a major but neglected episode of British Romanticism as well as a pivotal moment in the history and development of the novel The American Catalogue ,1880 American national trade bibliography The American Catalog ,1896 North Carolina Schools and Academies, 1790-1840 Charles Lee Coon,1915 Winter Evening Tales James Hogg,1871
