Housing and Home Finance Agency, 1965 The Last House on the Block Sharon Cornelissen, 2025-11-11 Gentrification is not inevitable reveals Sharon Cornelissen in this surprising close look at the Detroit neighborhood of Brightmoor and the harsh reality of depopulation and urban decline In the minds of many Detroit is undergoing a renaissance thanks to gentrifying urbanites who've been drawn to the city with the promise of cheap housing and thriving culture But what happens when gentrification attempts to come to one of the most depopulated neighborhoods in the country a place where every other property in the neighborhood was a vacant lot and every third house stood empty To find out Sharon Cornelissen moved to the Brightmoor neighborhood of Detroit for three years and became the owner of a 7 000 house The Last House on the Block takes us to Brightmoor to meet Cornelissen's fellow residents She introduces us to the long time residents of the neighborhood who reveal their struggles to keep a home while keeping violence tall grass and yes gentrification at bay We also meet the eclectic white newcomers of Brightmoor and learn about their real estate bargains urban farms and how they became the unlikely defenders of urban desolation Where oldtimers take pride in neatly mowed lawns and hope for a return to residential density newcomers love the open space and aim to buy more empty lots to raise chickens and goats It is a story of gentrification but not at all in the usual sense it is a case of failed gentrification We often think about gentrification as an unstoppable force once the first white newcomers with yoga mats enter an often brown or Black community the coffee shops and restaurants follow But in Brightmoor the dreams of white newcomers met the harsh reality of decade long decline Nearly a decade after Cornelissen's fieldwork began Brightmoor is even emptier than it was when she started Today depopulation remains more common than gentrification in poor communities Cornelissen's story offers deep insights into what it is like to live in a declining neighborhood and through the example of Brightmoor Cornelissen reveals why depopulation continues and helps us imagine a more inclusive and equitable city turnaround A Respectable Trade Philippa Gregory, 2007-02-01 From 1 New York Times bestselling author and queen of royal fiction USA TODAY Philippa Gregory comes a story about the devastating consequences of the slave trade in 19th century England Bristol in 1787 is booming a city where power beckons those who dare to take risks Josiah Cole a small

dockside trader is prepared to gamble everything to join the big players of the city But he needs capital and a well connected wife Marriage to Frances Scott is a mutually convenient solution Trading her social contacts for Josiah s protection Frances finds her life and fortune dependent on the respectable trade of sugar rum and slaves Into her new world comes Mehuru once a priest in the ancient African kingdom of Yoruba now a slave in England From opposite ends of the earth despite the difference in status Mehuru and Frances confront each other and their need for love and liberty

The Economy of Kent, 1640-1914 Alan Armstrong,1995 In recent years historians interpretations of the economic history of Britain from the seventeenth to the nineteenth century have changed significantly There is less emphasis on the idea of a cataclysmic industrial revolution pioneered in and confined to the northern and midland counties with increasing amounts of attention devoted to the long neglected economic history of the southern counties The Economy of Kent 1640 1914is the first authoritative survey of the topic Subjectsconsidered include the population of Kent its growth mobility and distribution agriculture industry transport labour and the importance of the sea to Kent Its findings suggest that Kent retained its place as an important constituent of the expanding British economy throughout the period and that by its steady economic progress it avoided many of the strains and stresses experienced by counties more directly touched by industrialisation along with the painful processes of readjustment that other regions have faced more recently
