Nilika Mehrotra, 2020-04-02 This book examines the state of art in disability studies focusing on the Indian context as well as the broader South Asian situation. It presents interdisciplinary perspectives on the basic idea, evolution, practices and challenges of researching and teaching disability studies at various higher education institutions and in other civil society spaces. The chapters address a range of related themes including activism, development, policies, research, pedagogy, spatial and social access, caste and gender representations and rights based discourses. Given the scope of its coverage, the book is of interest to scholars and students in areas of humanities, education, law, sociology and social work, political science, development and disability studies.

Planning for the Success of Students with IEPs: A Systematic, Supports-Based Approach (The Norton Series on Inclusive Education for Students with Disabilities) James R. Thompson, 2022-07-12 A great special educator is an expert problem solver. The difficulties that students with individual education plans (IEPs) encounter in general education classrooms are rarely impossible to overcome. What is required to help them succeed is figuring out the individualized supports they need, whether that involves accessing technology, receiving assistance from a peer or adult, or curricular and assignment adaptations. In this comprehensive handbook from The Norton Series on Inclusive Education for Students with Disabilities, James R. Thompson synthesizes the work of a team of experts to provide a roadmap for that problem-solving process. The Systematic Supports Planning Process is structured around three central questions that lead to identifying different types of support: What to teach, curricular adaptations, How to teach, instructional supports, How to promote participation, participation supports. Packed with easy-to-follow guidelines as well as implementation tools and examples, this book is a one-stop reference for planning, delivering, monitoring and evaluating the supports that students with IEPs require.

Disability and Teaching Susan Gabel, David Connor, 2013-07-24 Disability and Teaching highlights issues of disability in K-12 schooling faced by teachers who are increasingly accountable for the achievement of all students regardless of the labels assigned to them. It is designed to engage prospective and practicing teachers in examining their personal theories and beliefs about disability and education. Part I offers four case studies dealing with issues such as inclusion, overrepresentation in special education, teacher assumptions and biases, and the struggles of novice teachers. These cases illustrate the need to understand disability and teaching within the contexts of school, community and the broader society and in relation to other contemporary issues facing teachers. Each is followed by space for readers to write their own reactions and reflections, educators' dialogue about the case, space for readers' reactions to the educators' dialogue, a summary and additional questions. Part II presents public arguments representing different views about the topic: conservative, liberal, progressive and disability-centered. Part III situates the authors' personal views within the growing field of Disability Studies in education and provides exercises for further reflection and a list of resources. Disability and Teaching is the 8th volume in the Reflective Teaching and the Social Conditions of Schooling Series edited by Daniel P. Liston and Kenneth M. Zeichner. This series of small accessible interactive texts introduces the notion of teacher reflection and develops it in relation to the social conditions of schooling Each text focuses on a specific issue or content area in relation to teaching and follows the same format Books in this series are appropriate for teacher education courses across the curriculum
