American Women Writers, 1900-1945 Laurie Champion, 2000-09-30 Women writers have been traditionally excluded from literary canons and not until recently have scholars begun to rediscover or discover for the first time neglected women writers and their works This reference includes alphabetically arranged entries on 58 American women authors who wrote between 1900 and 1945 Each entry is written by an expert contributor and discusses a particular author's biography her major works and themes and the critical response to her writings The entries close with extensive primary and secondary bibliographies and the volume concludes with a list of works for further reading The period surveyed by this reference is rich and diverse Modernism and the Harlem Renaissance two major artistic movements occurred between 1900 and 1945 and the entries included here demonstrate the significant contributions women made to these movements The volume as a whole strives to reflect the diversity of American culture and includes entries for African American Native American Mexican American and Chinese American women It includes well known writers such as Willa Cather and Eudora Welty along with more neglected ones such as Anita Scott Coleman and Sui Sin Far American Literary Realism, Critical Theory, and Intellectual Prestige, 1880-1995

Phillip Barrish,2001-02-19 Focusing on key works of late nineteenth and early twentieth century American literary realism Phillip Barrish traces the emergence of new ways of gaining intellectual prestige that is new ways of gaining cultural recognition as unusually intelligent sensitive or even wise Through extended readings of works by Henry James William Dean Howells Abraham Cahan and Edith Wharton Barrish emphasises the differences between literary realist modes of intellectual and cultural authority and those associated with the rise of the social sciences In doing so he greatly refines our understanding of the complex relationship between realist writing and masculinity Barrish further argues that understanding the dynamics of intellectual status in realist literature provides new analytic purchase on intellectual prestige in recent critical theory Here he focuses on such figures as Lionel Trilling Paul de Man John Guillory and Judith Butler Short Story,1995 Teaching the Short Story A. Cox,2015-12-04 The short story is moving from relative neglect to a central position in the curriculum as a teaching tool it offers students a route into many complex areas including critical theory gender studies postcolonialism and genre This book offers a practical guide to the short story in the classroom covering all these fields and more

Nineteenth-Century American Women Theatre Managers Jane K. Curry,1994-07-21 Many women held positions of great responsibility and power in the United States during the 19th century as theatre managers managing stock companies owning or leasing theatres hiring actors and other personnel selecting plays for production directing rehearsals supervising all production details and promoting their dramatic offerings Competing in risky business ventures these women were remarkable for defying societal norms that restricted career opportunities for women The activities of more than 50 such women are discussed in Nineteenth Century American Women Theatre Managers beginning with an account of 15 pioneering women managers who were all managing theatres before 24 December 1853 when Catherine Sinclair often incorrectly identified as the first woman theatre manager in the United States opened her theatre in San Francisco
