Virtual Theology, Faith and Adult Education Ros Stuart-Buttle, 2013-07-29

Online learning is a key feature of the contemporary educational landscape and has entered mainstream policy provision and practice. But if online education is to reach mature development and evaluation, it must be open to critical appraisal. This book considers the implementation of online learning within adult theological education. This can be an area of challenge or contention, especially when established academic practices and cherished values are seen as threatened when handed over to online delivery. This opens questions about theology, pedagogy, and online education. Does online teaching and learning bring or demand a new or transformed disruptive pedagogy, or does it result in maintenance or replication of traditional values and existing practices? What might the opportunities and benefits be? Who stands to gain? Who stands to lose? And what evidence is there to evaluate the quality of doing theology online? This
