Educational Policy And National Character Africa Japan The United States And The Soviet Union:

Educational Policy and National Character Dickson A. Mungazi, 1993-06-21 This study is an integrated approach to how the problems of education are related to those of national development in Africa Japan the United States and the former Soviet Union These four were selected because Africa represents the Third World Japan the emerging powers the United States Western democracy and the Soviet Union the socialist world The study is based on the assumption that a detailed study of these four countries will help to establish the relationship that exists between the problems of education and those of national development Nations are facing problems in their struggle for development because they are unable to resolve problems of education While socialist nations seem to focus on the development of the state as a condition of seeking the development of the individual Western nations seek the development of the individual as a condition of national development That both systems are experiencing serious problems in both education and national development suggests that there must be a reexamination of policy strategies This book will be of interest to political scientists and students of comparative education

International Handbook of Urban Education William T. Pink, George W. Noblit, 2008-09-03 It is evident that urban education has become the central focus of educators at the present time In the U S for example almost one third of all school age children attend schools in large urban school districts It is in these urban schools where the diversity of cultures and languages is highest and where student learning is most problematic What has emerged from recent work to improve urban schools is the insight that there is no one size fits all panacea Rather we have discovered that the local context shapes in critically important ways what will be effective at the school level The universality of the problematics with urban education together with the importance of understanding the local or situated context of improvement interventions brings into sharp focus the importance and timeliness of an undertaking like the International Handbook of Urban Education An important focus of the International Handbook of Urban Education will be the interrogation of both the social and political factors that lead to different problem posing and subsequent solutions within each region An important question to be answered for example is what it takes in terms of resources political will and policy actions to improve urban education Educational Administration Abstracts ,1994 The Journal of American-East Asian Relations ,2001 Knowledge and the Search for Understanding Among Nations Dickson A.
