Teacher Education and the Development of Practical Judgement Ruth Heilbronn, 2011-11-03 Current conceptions of teacher training reflect key issues in professional practices Two prevailing views seem to be in conflict the first is that a teacher ought to be able to act as an autonomous professional trusted to have and apply subject knowledge through the exercise of judgement The second conception views the teacher more as a deliverer of a specific curriculum defined centrally in various government sponsored strategies Much has been written on the development of the reflective practitioner as crucial to the first conception and a strong critique of the audit culture in education has emerged Currently we are at a significant moment in teacher education a lighter touch KS3 curriculum and the instigation of new standards for the award of qualified teacher status QTS The QTS standards are important as they are set to form the basis of standards at all levels of teaching This book examines in depth current education and suggests why and how teachers need to develop and exercise practical knowledge and understanding how standards assessment alone cannot support this teacher formation and what good formation might be The nature of practical knowledge is analysed using some concepts from the work of John Dewey in two theoretical chapters 4 and 5 The current standards based model of teacher training in England is predominantly instrumentalist in its application of technical rationality and unsuited to the formation of teachers However the often invoked concept of the reflective practitioner is underdetermined and a conception of reflection is needed to illuminate its contribution to the development of practical judgement The book's argument applies more widely to the debate between deregulators and professionalisers in other spheres of economic and social activity In asking specific questions about teacher education questions about the aims of education within specific conditions are raised

Case Studies in Education: Leadership and Innovation Richard Smith, David Lynch, 2012 This book case studies schools and universities in Australia and elsewhere as they respond to changes in society and the economy that are generated by the Knowledge Economy Chapters by academics scholars and community leaders unravel the circumstances of education and provide an analysis of an education system struggling to find its way in a period of rapid social movement To illustrate their ideas chapter authors offer examples of innovations and the logistics necessary to change the current system of education in school community and university levels

Knowledge, Policy and Practice in Education and the Struggle for Social Justice: Essays Inspired by the Work of Geoff Whitty Andrew Brown, Emma Wisby, 2020-04-01 For 50 years educator and sociologist Geoff Whitty resolutely pursued social justice through education first as a classroom teacher and ultimately as the Director of the Institute of Education in London The essays in this volume written by some of the most influential authors in the sociology of education and critical policy studies take Whitty's work as the starting point from which to examine key contemporary issues in education and the challenges to social justice that they present Set within three themes of knowledge policy and practice in education the chapters tackle the issues of defining and accessing legitimate knowledge the changing nature of education policy under neoliberalism and globalization and the reshaping of teacher workplaces and professionalism as well as attempts to realize more emancipatory practice Whitty's scholarship on what constitutes quality and impact in educational research is also explored Together the essays open a window on a life in the sociology of education the scholarly community of which it was part and the facets of education policy practice and research that they continue to reveal and challenge in pursuit of social justice They celebrate Whitty as one of the foremost sociologists of education of his generation but also as a friend and colleague And they highlight the continued relevance of his contribution to those seeking to promote fairer and more inclusive education systems

Evidence-Based Education Policy David Bridges, Paul Smeyers, Richard Smith, 2009-06-15 This book raises important questions about the extent to which policy can be derived from research and about the kind of evidence which should inform policy Challenges contemporary orthodoxies and offers constructive alternatives Critiques the narrower conceptions of evidence which might inform policy advanced by the what works movement Investigates the logical gaps between what can be shown by research and the wider political requirements of policy Examines the different educational research traditions e.g. large population studies individual case studies personal narratives action research philosophy and the romantic turn Calls for a more subtle understanding of the ways in which different forms of enquiry may inform policy and practice Discusses the recognition and utilisation of the insights offered by the rich variety of educational research traditions available to us

Personal Construct Psychology at 60 Peter Cummins, Harry Procter, David Winter, 2017-08-21 The 60th anniversary of the publication of George Kelly's The Psychology of Personal Constructs was marked in 2015 by the 21st International Congress on Personal Construct Psychology. His two-volume work set out personal construct theory as a radical new approach to psychology. Although Kelly was a clinical psychologist, personal construct psychology has had an extraordinarily broad range of influence and application, extending beyond the clinical setting to include areas as diverse as education, organizational and management development, social psychology, the arts, law, and politics. It presaged constructivist developments in many spheres of knowledge, and its innovative research methods have been used in a vast number of studies focussed on the exploration of personal and interpersonal meaning. The 21st International Congress was held in the UK at the University of Hertfordshire, forty years after the first such congress. This volume presents contributions by many of the Congress's delegates, whose chapters reflect the diversity of contemporary applications of personal construct psychology and the continuing relevance and vitality of Kelly's ideas and methods     Evidence and Public Good in Educational Policy, Research and Practice Mustafa Yunus Eryaman, Barbara Schneider, 2017-06-22 This volume draws together interdisciplinary approaches from political philosophy social work medicine and sociology to analyze the theoretical foundations and practical examples of evidence based and evidence informed education for the public good It presents a range of conceptions of the evidence based and evidence informed education and a justification for why the particular examples or issues chosen fit within that conception for the sake of public good It explores the current literature on evidence based and evidence informed educational policy research and practice and introduces a new term evidence free meaning actions of some policymakers who disregard or misuse evidence for their own agenda The demands about the quality and relevance of educational research to inform the policy and practice have been growing over the past decade in response to the Evidence Based Education movement However the literature is yet to tackle the question of the interrelationships between evidence research policy and practice in education for the public good in an international context This book fills that gap
