J. Berry, 2003-04-01 R J Berry writes as a professional biologist and as a Christian believer He contends that the interplay of science and faith requires continual re examination in the light of scientific developments with the consequent need to review religious assumptions To quote from his Preface Where science and faith meet they must be congruent if they are not both the science and the religion ought to be examined Religion cannot drive the content of science nor can science properly determine the nature of religion R J Berry's treatment differs from traditional work in science and religion in that he intentionally and explicitly extends his exploration of the implications of religious faith for contemporary science to environmental conservation or Creation care Professor Berry's expertise in this area is considerable as an ecologist who has long been involved in developing environmental ethics both locally and internationally He argues that the contribution of religious belief to environmental science is highly important not only in theoretical terms but also in practice This book does not assume extensive specialised background knowledge It will be of immense interest to anyone concerned with environmental problems scientists and religious believers exploring contemporary applications of religious faith      Religion and Ecological Crisis Md. Abu Sayem, 2022-09-02 Religion and Ecological Crisis delves into the complex relationship between religions and ecology presenting Christian and Islamic perspectives on ecological issues through the work of John Boswell Cobb and Seyyed Hossein Nasr It examines how faith traditions of the world see and respond to our current unprecedented climate change issues This is the first comparative study of Cobb and Nasr's eco religious understanding and explores how their prescriptions can contribute alternatively to techno scientific initiatives in environmental sustainability Taking Cobb's economism and Nasr's scientism as the key concepts for surveying the roots of the ecological crisis the book offers interdisciplinary and interreligious insights into the debates about ecological equilibrium motivational awareness in human mind and about entanglements between religion and the environment This will be an insightful resource for policy makers faith leaders and for academics working in Environmental Studies and Religious Studies The Freethinker, 1987
