Austin, Kaoru Sugihara, 2013-09-13 The prevailing view of industrialization has focussed on technology capital entrepreneurship and the institutions that enabled them to be deployed Labour was often equated with other factors of production and assigned a relatively passive role Yet it was labour absorption and the improvement of the quality of labour over the course of several centuries that underscored the timing pace and quality of global industrialization While science and technology developed in the West and whereas the use of fossil fuels especially coal and oil were vital to this process the more recent history has been underpinned by the development of comparatively resource and energy saving technology without which the diffusion of industrialization would not have been possible The labour intensive resource saving path which emerged in East Asia under the influence of Western technology and institutions and is diffusing across the world suggests the most realistic route humans could take for a further diffusion of industrialization which might respond to the rising expectations of living standards without catastrophic environmental degradation On the Eighteenth Century as a

Category of Asian History Leonard Blussé, Femme S Gaastra, 2016-12-05 The starting point of this volume is the scathing attack far reaching in its consequences launched in 1942 by J C van Leur on the views then current on the character and significance of the 18th century as a category in Asian history His denial of European pre eminence in Asian waters represented a direct attack on colonial historiography The essays here derive from an international conference held 50 years later to assess the impact of van Leur s work In part historiographic in part drawing on new research they aim to delimit the boundaries of European Asian interaction and to provide case studies of what this period actually meant for the history of South and East Asia

Raising Cane Donald W. Attwood, D W Attwood, 2019-09-16 Like any book this one is part of a dialogue Over the years I have asked thousands of questions of myself and others and tried to answer some Out of all this discussion a written pattern has grown It is certainly not a definitive pattern Among those whose words have been woven into it there are many who might have fashioned it better There are some who would have selected different colors and textures or who might have preferred a totally different pattern I am conscious of their voices and wish that I could adequately present them all First and foremost are the voices of farmers and other villagers whose experiences I have tried to understand and represent A few of them will read this book and decide whether I learned anything from all their patient answers If they were so inclined they could tell more about the subject than I ever can
