Andrew Melville and Humanism in Renaissance Scotland 1545-1622 Ernest R. Holloway, 2011-06-22 The intellectual legacy of Andrew Melville 1545-1622 as a leader of the Renaissance and a promoter of humanism in Scotland has been obscured by the Melville legend In an effort to dispense with the Melville of popular imagination and recover the Melville of history this work situates his life and thought within the broader context of the northern European Renaissance and French humanism and critically re-evaluates the primary historical documents of the period namely James Melville's Autobiography and Diary and the Melvini epistolae By considering Melville as a humanist university reformer ecclesiastical statesman and man an effort has been made to determine his contribution to the flowering of the Renaissance and the growth of humanism in Scotland during the early modern period The Bookshop of the World Andrew Pettegree, Arthur der Weduwen, 2019-04-02 The untold story of how the Dutch conquered the European book market and became the world's greatest bibliophiles The Dutch Golden Age has long been seen as the age of Rembrandt and Vermeer whose paintings captured the public imagination and came to represent the marvel that was the Dutch Republic Yet there is another largely overlooked marvel in the Dutch world of the seventeenth century books In this fascinating account Andrew Pettegree and Arthur der Weduwen show how the Dutch produced many more books than pictures and bought and owned more books per capita than any other part of Europe Key innovations in marketing book auctions and newspaper advertising brought stability to a market where elsewhere publishers faced bankruptcy and created a population uniquely well informed and politically engaged This book tells for the first time the remarkable story of the Dutch conquest of the European book world and shows
