Advances in Communications and Media Research ,2007 Communications scholars look at the media from a number of perspectives Among them are the case against sleaze television how children stimulate the civil development of parents the qualities and consequences of humor in messages that evoke hurt modernist intellectuals and public service broadcasting policy in high modernity in the Flemish community and factors that determine online credibility among politically interested Internet users Newspaper Competition in the Millennium Janet A. Bridges,2006 Technology in the 21st century has redesigned most editorial jobs and extended the potential reach of any publication no matter how small In effect not only the individual business models but also the overall industry competitive model has changed No longer confined to serving a physically defined environment individual newspapers can set their own goals both for news distribution and for advertising reach without concern for physical restrictions And the continual sales of newspaper properties result in mergers increased clustering and other types of group alliances The newspaper industry is also affected competitively by employee recruitment and retention the non daily market other news related media and non news carriers of advertising The industry related technology has in effect exploded reaching every news medium in some way Within the framework of the exploding technological environment the country s economy and changing demographics have created increased challenges for an industry so dependent on advertising revenue and reader reach This volume explores the competitive issues as they relate to the industry at this time Handbook of Media Economics Simon P. Hallock,2006-11-30 In 1930 there were 288 competitive major newspaper markets in the United States Today there are fewer than 30 The diminishing diversity of opinion and voices in newspapers editorials is taking place even as technological advances seemingly provide more sources of the same information As Hallock shows the concentration of media ownership in fewer and fewer hands allows those individuals and entities an inordinate amount of influence In this intriguing book he examines 18 newspaper markets to show us exactly how and where this troubling trend is occurring what it means for the political landscape and ultimately how it can affect us all Newspaper editorials say a lot about the society in which we live They are not just an indication and reflection of the issues of the day and of which way the political wind is blowing They are also a part of the political climate that sets the agenda for politicians and helps them discern which are the hot button issues and which side people are on Journalists and politicians enjoy a level of symbiosis in their relationships they influence each other indirectly It therefore follows that when fewer ideas and a narrower range of opinions are expressed in the nation s newspapers there is a real danger that our thinking can become more simplistic as well

Dynamics of Democracy Peverill Squire,James M. Lindsay,Cary R. Covington,Eric R. A. N. Smith,2005

Money, Power, and Elections Rodney A. Smith,2014-04-07 Have campaign finance reform laws actually worked Is money less influential in electing candidates today than it was thirty years ago when legislation was first enacted Absolutely not argues Rodney A Smith in this passionately written fact filled and provocative book According to Smith the laws have had exactly the opposite of their intended effect They have increased the likelihood that incumbents in the House and Senate will be reelected and they have greatly diminished the chances that candidates who are not wealthy will be elected Smith s claims are supported by convincing data he collected and analyzed information about all federal elections since 1920 These data show clearly that money matters now more than ever Smith thinks that reform legislation has created a new inequality for candidates that if left unchecked threatens to destroy the American electoral process by obliterating the foundational principle of free speech He argues that money buys speech and when candidates lack money to buy media time and space they are effectively silenced Their inability to speak freely violates the most significant intentions of our nation s founders that a sovereign citizenry elect its own leaders based on a free exchange of ideas For Smith campaign finance reform has unwittingly unbalanced the checks and balances created by the Framers of the Constitution After presenting a detailed historical overview of how we have reached the present crisis Smith proposes a simple solution institute a process that completely discloses relevant information about campaign donors and recipients of donations All disclosures would be available to the media which would be able to investigate and report them fully Only then Smith believes will the United States have the opportunity to be the democratic republic that its founders intended
