are based on faith and that all can be tested with regard to their beliefs about the nature of man and about the kind of moral responsibility education should develop in man With sincerity and frankness Romein analyzes the moral and intellectual poverty of much of the thinking dominant in education today and he shows the necessity as well as the difficulty of making faith in God once more the underlying influence in American education

House. Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. Subcommittee on Health and the Environment,1976 Material Practice and Materiality: Too Long Ignored in Science Education Catherine Milne,Kathryn Scantlebury,2019-04-11 In this book various scholars explore the material in science and science education and its role in scientific practice such as those practices that are key to the curriculum focuses of science education programs in a number of countries As a construct culture can be understood as material and social practice This definition is useful for informing researchers nuanced explorations of the nature of science and inclusive decisions about the practice of science education Sewell 1999 As fields of material social practice and worlds of meaning cultures are contradictory contested and weakly bounded The notion of culture as material social practices leads researchers to accept that material practice is as important as conceptual development social practice However in education and science education there is a tendency to ignore material practice and to focus on social practice with language as the arbiter of such social practice Often material practice such as those associated with scientific instruments and other apparatus is ignored with instruments understood as inscription devices conduits for language rather than sources of material culture in which scientists share material other than words Baird 2004 p 7 when they communicate new knowledge and realities While we do not ignore the role of language in science we agree with Barad 2003 that perhaps language has too much power and with that power there seems a concomitant loss of interest in exploring how matter and machines instruments contribute to both ontology and epistemology in science and science education
