Education for Older People June Sark Heinrich, 1982 There is a strong case to be made for mainstreaming older people into regular classes and schools rather than segregating them in special separate groups on the basis of age Many older Americans are in need of elementary secondary level training in order to become functionally literate Similarly the continually changing nature of work has forced many middle aged and older adults to seek vocational training or retraining The decline in enrollment and financial problems currently being faced by institutions at all educational levels make the mainstreaming of adults into regular classrooms not only feasible but economically advantageous While it is true that education has traditionally meant education of the young America has manifested a historical trend toward all inclusive education Many of the traditional assumptions underlying American education would tend to support the mainstreaming of older adults into regular classrooms Included among these are the notions of education as preparation education as continuous growth and education as an end What is needed now is an age inclusive system of education in which schooling would no longer be viewed as preparation of youth but rather as a lifelong process MN Resources in Education ,1998

Peer Supervision Daniel A. Heller, 1989 This monograph describes peer supervision as a helping relationship rather than an evaluative one The need for peer supervision is discussed and how to start such a program is described Some practical issues are considered Suggestions are made on funding and institutionalizing a peer supervision program Eight brief case histories of peer supervision in action illustrate the effectiveness of this program JD Career Beginnings William M. Bloomfield, 1989 Career Beginnings CB is a national program begun in 1985 to increase the likelihood of minority and other disadvantaged urban students to participate in postsecondary education or to obtain a good job CB unites high schools businesses and local colleges in working partnerships to develop the potential of moderately achieving high school students and help them overcome their social and educational deficiencies by exposing them to the college environment and the world of work in a personal way The program provides the following services 1 college and career preparation 2 summer and school year work experience 3 academic tutoring 4 counseling and support services and 5 individual guidance and encouragement from adult mentors from the business and professional communities Participants are targeted during the beginning of their junior year in high school and attend a series of structured workshops to assist them make the transition from youth to adulthood Each student is matched with a mentor who meets with the student at least once a month to discuss career and college planning Students have the opportunity to work in entry level jobs with career potential to teach them the demands of the workplace Ongoing advising advocacy and counseling is provided year round to keep the student focused on his her goals In the first three years of the program 95 percent of the participants graduated from high school 65 percent attended college and 80 percent of those students completed their second year of college In October 1988 90 percent of the graduates were either in college enrolled in training programs in the military or on the job A list of 16 references and a list of Teacher Preparation and Certification John P. Sikula, Robert A. Roth, 1984 This booklet discusses changes taking place in the four major processes involved in preparing and certifying teachers national accreditation state program approval state certification and teacher preparation Some of the major issues affecting these processes such as teacher competency testing and teaching internships are discussed and the impact of changes in these four processes are examined Three specific areas are identified as in need of strengthening 1 evaluation of teacher preparation programs including national accreditation and state program approval 2 requirements for entering and remaining in the profession including certification regulations and procedures and 3 preparation of teachers including program entrance and exit requirements Case studies are presented of successful reforms in Florida Oklahoma and the University of Louisville Kentucky JD Master Teachers Richard W.

Moore,1984 A nationwide interest in master teacher plans has arisen as a response to the general malaise in education but the viability of such plans depends on finding answers to certain crucial problems Some basic issues must be addressed before master teachers can even be identified whether a hierarchy of teachers should be established or prior conditions be met for appointing master teachers or a maximum number of master teachers per district be set Master teachers have generally been recognized through their superior knowledge of the subject as well as for their teaching skills and ability to command respect Tests can accurately determine a teacher's knowledge of the subject area teaching skills may be measured against predetermined school objectives with professional teams judging teachers performance ability to work with others command respect can be gauged by a comprehensive file on teachers The much discussed criterion of producing demonstrable results in students is difficult to measure with public school populations and so should be suspended until it can be more accurately and fairly measured Once master teachers are identified local districts must consider contract provisions for special roles in school programs and special compensation Moreover school districts must cooperate with government and university in funding and training for master teacher plans JW Issues and Innovations in Foreign Language Education Jacqueline Benevento,1985 Studies indicate that American students have an inadequate understanding of world affairs with implications for United States national security business interests in foreign markets and education in general and specific recommendations have been made for the improvement of foreign language instruction Foreign language education in the 1980s reflects fundamental changes in philosophy and objectives and leaders in foreign language education agree that the fundamental objective is the ability to use language in meaningful ways With this shift in approach changes are necessary in program content instructional materials and learning activities Innovations include elementary school programs emphasizing language use in real life situations immersion exploratory programs schools of international studies the international baccalaureate and instruction beyond the classroom The global education movement in social studies has been especially relevant for foreign language study and technological applications in foreign language instruction are being updated to emphasize communication Another current emphasis is on assessment of language proficiency Improvement in preservice teacher education while indicated has been difficult but a variety of inservice development options are available and professional associations are an important source of assistance A need exists for additional research and promotion of public awareness of foreign language study MSE Promoting Voluntary Reading in School and Home Lesley Mandel Morrow,1985 This booklet describes methods that teachers can use in recreational reading in early childhood and elementary classrooms and suggests ways to help parents promote voluntary reading in their children The first section deals with Promoting Voluntary Reading through Classroom Library Corners Discussed are the value of classroom library corners their physical features their management books and materials to use and how to integrate instructional activities with the library corner Comments of teachers and students about library corners are included The second section deals with The Teacher as Facilitator of Voluntary Reading Teacher attitudes recreational reading periods and reading activities for children are discussed The third section deals with Promoting Voluntary Reading in the Home Discussed are research on home influence on voluntary reading what teachers can do to promote voluntary reading at home and parents responses to home reading programs Also included is a parents checklist for promoting voluntary reading at home The concluding section discusses Reading by Choice Not by Coercion The booklet concludes with references RM references are also provided IS Teaching Mildly Retarded Children in the Regular Classroom Martin Henley, 1985 Although mild retardation is generally assumed to be an inherited trait socio cultural factors such as deprived cultural environment health threatening conditions and school labeling processes exacerbate the problems of the learning disabled child In this booklet the causes of mental retardation are considered and techniques and strategies are recommended for teaching the mildly retarded child in the regular classroom Suggestions are made for effectively diagnosing individual difficulties and assessing the needs of the student Teaching strategies are described that have proved effective with mildly retarded children Case studies are presented illustrating how these strategies were used to develop the potentials inherent in four different learning disabled students JD A Model for Teaching Thinking Skills Antoinette Maria Worsham, Anita J. Stockton, 1986 As a consequence of studies indicating that students ability to think can be improved through direct instruction this booklet presents one approach to teaching thinking skills within the context of existing curricula a model described as the inclusion process The booklet discusses what thinking skills should be taught and how to decide which skills are appropriate It then describes four approaches for teaching thinking skills infusion a separate course linkage and inclusion Next the booklet describes using the inclusion process and guidelines for teaching thinking skills using focus and application lessons The booklet concludes by discussing the universality of the inclusion process evaluating thinking skills instruction and advocating a focus on process rather than content EL Teaching Reading in the Secondary School Lucy Fuchs, 1987 Intended for use by secondary school teachers in all subject areas this booklet provides practical information classroom activities and strategies for the instructor who wants to incorporate reading instruction into a particular content area Following an introductory chapter that emphasizes the need for reading skills in contemporary society and the secondary school teacher s strategic position for preparing students for the world of work the booklet offers specific chapters on 1 vocabulary development 2 reading in the content areas 3 incorporating reading into lesson planning 4 using questions to develop critical reading 5 reading and study skills such as outlining note taking and study methods 6 guiding teenage reading choices and 7 other reading activities including reading newspapers especially the sports pages junk mail and television related material The booklet also contains some concluding remarks and a bibliography NKA A Model for Teaching Writing Donovan R. Walling, 1987 Intended to help teachers understand the complexities of the writing process this pamphlet offers a model for writing conceptualized in three phases stimulus process and product The process phase is then examined from the perspectives of consciousness speed and elaboration and mental physical interaction The following implications for writing instruction are discussed 1 teachers should not make assumptions about the process characteristics of their students 2 students need to understand their own personal process characteristics 3 teachers can suggest demonstrate and model process options for students and 4 teachers can expand opportunities for students to examine others processes by structuring collaborative writing and editing activities Collaborative writing and editing are also discussed in separate sections Finally the pamphlet describes the benefits of selective correction of student writing and ways to use writing for spelling improvement A list of references and suggested resources is appended SRT

Changing Behavior Frank J. Sparzo, 1985 This booklet is about changing human behavior in everyday settings in the school and home The approach to human behavior outlined is called behavior analysis which is based on that approach to psychology called the experimental analysis of behavior The ABC model of behavior is explained In this model the A refers to the antecedent that occasions or cues the behavior B refers to the behavior itself and C refers to a consequent event that increases the likelihood of the behavior occurring again An outline is presented of a general plan for changing behavior Illustrating how the plan works in practice behavior analysis principles are applied to three cases a child who acts aggressively a behavioral excess a student said to be unmotivated a behavioral deficit and an unruly class a group management problem JD

Pros and Cons of Merit Pay Susan Moore Johnson, 1984 This booklet examines the premises practicalities history and politics of merit pay for teachers A discussion of the current context of the merit pay debate focuses on the claims made for merit pay programs and the assumptions behind the proposals Following an analysis of similarities and contrasts among merit pay plans the author gives special consideration to the issues in selecting outstanding teachers performance criteria quotas per district temporary or permanent awards and the problems of evaluation With the history of merit pay debate as a background arguments for and against the concept are then summarized Since arguments for merit pay are often drawn from the analogy with business a review of the use of merit pay in business and government concentrates on the government's degree of success in adapting merit pay principles to the public sector The characteristics of a school are then compared to those of businesses where merit pay has been successful Finally the author projects the political prospects of merit pay and assesses its worth in school reform JW

Education For Older People Another View Of Mainstreaming: Bestsellers in 2023 The year 2023 has witnessed a remarkable surge in literary brilliance, with numerous captivating novels captivating the hearts of readers worldwide. Lets delve into the realm of popular books, exploring the fascinating narratives that have enthralled audiences this year. The Must-Read : Colleen Hoover's "It Ends with Us" This touching tale of love, loss, and resilience has captivated readers with its raw and emotional exploration of domestic abuse. Hoover skillfully weaves a story of hope and healing, reminding us that even in the darkest of times, the human spirit can triumph. Uncover the Best : Taylor Jenkins Reid's "The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo" This captivating historical fiction novel unravels the life of Evelyn Hugo, a Hollywood icon who defies expectations and societal norms to pursue her dreams. Reid's compelling storytelling and compelling characters transport readers to a bygone era, immersing them in a world of glamour, ambition, and self-discovery. Discover the Magic : Delia Owens' "Where the Crawdads Sing" This mesmerizing coming-of-age story follows Kya Clark, a young woman who grows up alone in the marshes of North Carolina. Owens weaves a tale of resilience, survival, and the transformative power of nature, captivating readers with its evocative prose and mesmerizing setting. These bestselling novels represent just a fraction of the literary treasures that have emerged in 2023. Whether you seek tales of romance, adventure, or personal growth, the world of literature offers an abundance of compelling stories waiting to be discovered. The novel begins with Richard Pape, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a brilliant and thrilling novel that will keep you wondering until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
