Educational Role Of The Museum:

The Educational Role of the Museum Eilean Hooper-Greenhill, 1999 Grounded in the strengths of its first edition this book has been restructured to include new papers and recent articles and presents front running theory and practice as it addresses the relationships of museums and galleries to their audiences The Educational Role of the Museum Eilean Hooper-Greenhill, 1999 The Educational Role of the Museum Eilean Hooper-Greenhill, 1994 In this updated and revised second edition Eilean Hooper Greenhill incorporates recent and important articles that address the relationships of museums and galleries to their audiences The Educational Role of the Museum covers broad themes relevant to providing for all museum visitors and also focuses specifically on educational groups Contributors discuss topics such as new communication models for the museum problems in visitor orientation and circulation and increased exhibit accessibility through multisensory interaction This edition represents the most developed position of the state of the field of museum education and introduces theories that have the potential to move current professional debates into more critical areas Museum Educator's Handbook Graeme K. Talboys, 2005-01-01 Described by GEM as a very informative and practical book worth having on any museum shelf the Museum Educator s Handbook is a realistic guide to setting up and running education services in all types of museums even the smallest This new edition has been thoroughly revised and updated with advice on the use of websites interactive displays databases and other technology added throughout and a new chapter on loan services reflecting new research into their importance The new edition reassesses funding curriculum needs and educational policy in the light of recent reports and gives more advice on meeting informal education needs from evening classes to museum initiated courses Museums and Higher Education Working Together Jos Boys, 2016-04-22 Over the last twenty years the educational role of the museum has come to be central to its mission There are now far more educational opportunities new spaces new interfaces both digital and physical and a growing number of education and interpretation departments educational curators and public engagement programmes Despite these developments however higher education has remained a marginal collaborator compared to primary and secondary schools and to other forms of adult learning This has meant that the possibilities for partnerships between universities colleges museums and galleries has remained relatively unexplored especially in relation to their potential for generating innovative patterns of research and learning This book addresses the key issues which are preventing such partnerships and examines how to enable more effective and creative connections between museums and higher education The authors identify conceptual and practical barriers and explore whether current academic models are fit for purpose They argue that as pressures mount on public educational resources around the world there needs to be an urgent increase in the exchange of knowledge across these sectors and the forging of world class scholarly partnerships Examples of research undertaken internationally offer best practice models for collaboration and integration This book will be compulsory reading for museum and educational specialists and those interested in engaging in museum higher education partnerships It will also be of interest to those involved in policy and decision making in education the museum sector and national and local government

Museums and Education Eilean Hooper-Greenhill, 2007-12-12 At the beginning of the 21st century museums are challenged on a number of fronts The prioritisation of learning in museums in the context of demands for social justice and cultural democracy combined with cultural policy based on economic rationalism forces museums to review their educational purposes redesign their pedagogies and account for their performance The need to theorise learning and culture for a cultural theory of learning is very pressing If culture acts as a process of signification a means of producing meaning that shapes worldviews learning in museums and other cultural organisations is potentially dynamic and profound producing self identities How is this complexity to be measured What can this measurement reveal about the character of museum based learning The calibration of culture is an international phenomenon and the measurement of the outcomes and impact of learning in museums in England has provided a detailed case study Three national evaluation studies were carried out between 2003 and 2006 based on the conceptual framework of Generic Learning Outcomes Using this revealing data Museums and Education reveals the power of museum pedagogy and as it does questions are raised about traditional museum culture and the potential and challenge for museum futures is suggested

Museums and Higher Education Working Together Ms Catherine Speight, Ms Jos Boys, Professor Anne Boddington, 2013-12-28 Over the last twenty years the educational role of the museum has come to be central to its mission There are now far more educational opportunities new spaces new interfaces both digital and physical and a growing number of education and interpretation departments educational curators and public engagement programmes Despite these developments however higher education has remained a marginal collaborator compared to primary and secondary schools and to other forms of adult learning This has meant that the possibilities for partnerships between universities colleges museums and galleries has remained relatively unexplored especially in relation to their potential for generating innovative patterns of research and learning This book addresses the key issues which are preventing such partnerships and examines how to enable more effective and creative connections between museums and higher education The authors identify conceptual and practical barriers and explore whether current academic models are fit for purpose They argue that as pressures mount on public educational resources around the world there needs to be an urgent increase in the exchange of knowledge across these sectors and the forging of world class scholarly partnerships Examples of research undertaken internationally offer best practice models for collaboration and integration This book will be compulsory reading for museum and educational specialists and those interested in engaging in museum higher education partnerships It will also be of interest to those involved in policy and decision making in education the museum sector and national and local government
