Publishing in Rhetoric and Composition Gary A. Olson, Todd W. Taylor, 1997-03-13
Publishing in Rhetoric and Composition is a collection of essays about the politics and practices of generating scholarship in rhetoric and composition. The contributors to this book, many of whom are current or past editors of the discipline's most prestigious scholarly journals, undoubtedly have their finger on the pulse of composition's most current scholarship and offer invaluable insight into the production and publication of original research. They discuss publishing articles and reviews as well as book-length projects including scholarly monographs, edited collections, and textbooks. They also address such topics as how composition research is valued in English departments, recent developments in electronic publishing, the work habits of successful academic writers, and the complications of mentoring graduate students in a publish or perish profession. An inviting and helpful tone makes this an ideal textbook for research methodology and professional writing courses.

It also offers sections on the tools of writing, including pacing, editing, pitching, invoicing, and managing the highs and lows of the different writing careers.

How to Write and Present Technical Information Charles H. Sides, 2017-09-15
Thoroughly updated to discuss the use of tools such as Skype and social media, this concise volume shows how effective communication via written text and spoken presentations can positively impact project management in professional environments. Professional communications are the information product of all organizations and businesses. Based on that premise, this book offers communications strategies that will benefit any organization that disseminates technical information in-house and/or to customers. The popular work provides easy-to-understand and apply guidelines for designing and writing effective technical documents as well as other related communications. What makes this new edition especially valuable is that it maintains the quality of information that distinguished the previous editions but is now updated.

to encompass current technology and trends including today's prevalent communication tools such as social media. The book begins by looking at skills common to all technical writing and offering general advice on designing and writing reports. Next is a discussion of specific types of reports along with common problems and issues writers face. Finally, the work overviews other forms of communications such as professional presentations. The updated material also considers the growing importance of interviews and focus groups as information gathering tools, the influence of visual rhetoric, and the use of technologies such as Skype and webinars.

Handbook of Research on Writing and Composing in the Age of MOOCs
Monske, Elizabeth A., Blair, Kristine L., 2016-11-29. The development of online learning environments has enhanced the availability of educational opportunities for students. Service-Learning and Writing: Paving the Way for Literacy(ies) through Community Engagement Isabel Baca, 2012-11-20. Service learning and Writing Paving the Way for Literacy(ies) through Community Engagement discusses service learning as a teaching and learning method and its integration with writing. The various authors from different disciplines and institutions present service learning as a means of having students practice writing in real-world settings and they show how relationship building and partnerships between higher education and diverse communities produce benefits for all involved: the students, faculty, administrators, and the communities themselves. This volume demonstrates how writing instruction and/or writing practice can complement community engagement and outreach at local, national, and international contexts. Through different cross-cultural contexts and academic disciplines, the various authors explore reflection, assessment, internalization, diversity, and multiple literacies and their importance when integrating service learning in higher education and community literacy.

Re-Visioning Composition

Textbooks Xin Liu Gale, Fredric G. Gale, 1999-04-23 An exploration of the sometimes tenuous relationship between textbooks and the discipline of composition and rhetoric Re-Visioning Composition Textbooks critically scrutinizes the culture of textbooks from the vantage point of scholars and teachers. It examines a variety of textbooks including standard rhetorics, handbooks, cross-cultural anthologies, readers, technical textbooks, and argumentation textbooks. Different perspectives are used to discuss the cultures, ideologies, traditions, and the material and political conditions that influence the writing and publishing of these works. Contributors raise challenging questions about the relationship between textbooks and the cultures which produce them, the discipline of which they are an indispensable part, and the classrooms in which they are to have their most tangible effects on teaching and learning.
