Geomorphology In Deserts:

Geomorphology of Desert Environments Anthony J. Parsons,A. D. Abrahams,2009-03-20 About one third of the Earth's land surface experiences a desert climate and this area supports approximately 15% of the planet's population This percentage continues to grow and with this growth comes the need to acquire and apply an understanding of desert geomorphology Such an understanding is vital in managing scarce and fragile resources and in mitigating natural hazards This authoritative reference book is comprehensive in its coverage of the geomorphology of desert environments and is arranged thematically It begins with an overview of global deserts proceeds through treatments of weathering hillslopes rivers piedmonts lake basins and aeolian surfaces and concludes with a discussion of the role of climatic change Written by a team of international authors all of whom are active in the field the chapters cover the spectrum of desert geomorphology

Geomorphology in Deserts Ronald U. Cooke,Andrew Warren,2023-11-15 This book examines the landforms soils and geomorphological processes of deserts which cover over 20% of Earth's land surface Despite their vastness and the significant body of literature on the topic deserts remain underrepresented in comprehensive geomorphological surveys with notable exceptions like Walther's Das Gesetz der Wiistenbildung 1924 Cotton's Climatic Accidents in Landscape Making 1942 and Tricart and Cailleux's Le Model des R gions S ches 1961 Our study builds on these works incorporating our field experiences in deserts across North America South America North Africa and Pakistan while primarily drawing on English language research and emphasizing contemporary geomorphological systems at different scales By focusing on present processes shaping landforms and soils we have given less attention to regional chronologies of landform development a consequence of our selective approach The field of desert geomorphology still grapples with speculative theories such as parallel slope retreat and pervasive wind erosion which often overshadow empirical evidence We aim to provide grounded generalizations clarify contested ideas and pose meaningful questions to establish a baseline for future research hoping to contribute to a deeper understanding of the dynamic processes shaping desert landscapes This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1973

The History of the Study of Landforms or the Development of Geomorphology, Volume 5 T.P. Burt, A.S.

Goudie, H.A. Viles, 2022-10-20 Co published with British Society for Geomorphology This volume is the fifth in the definitive series The History of the Study of Landforms or the Development of Geomorphology Volume 1 1964 dealt with contributions to the field up to 1890 Volume 2 1973 with the concepts and contributions of William Morris Davis and Volume 3 1991 covered historical and regional themes during the classic period of geomorphology 1890 1950 Volume 4 2008 concentrated on studies of geomorphological processes and Quaternary geomorphology between 1890 and 1965 by the end of this period process based studies had become dominant Volume 5 builds on this platform covering in detail the revolutionary changes in approach that characterized the study of geomorphology in the second half of the twentieth century. It is divided into three sections: the first deals with changes in approach and method; the second with changes in ideas and the broader scientific context within which geomorphology is studied; and the final section details advances in research on processes and landforms. The volume's objective is to describe and analyse many of the developments that provide a foundation for the rich and varied subject matter of twenty-first century geomorphology.

Deserts and Desert Environments Julie J. Laity, 2009-01-28 Taking a global perspective, this book provides a concise overview of drylands, including their physical, biological, temporal, and human components. Examines the physical systems occurring in desert environments, including climate, hydrology, past and present lakes, weathering, hillslopes, geomorphic surfaces, water as a geomorphic agent, and aeolian processes. Offers an accessible introduction to the physical, biological, temporal, and human components of drylands. Investigates the natural environmental requirements and essential geomorphic roles of plants and animals in this stressful biological environment. Highlights the impact of human population growth on climate, desertification, water resources, and dust storm activity. Includes an examination of surface-atmosphere interactions and the impact of ENSO events.

Climatic Geomorphology M. Gutierrez Elorza, 2005-12-29 During the past few decades, climatic geomorphology has been substantially enlarged in knowledge thanks to numerous detailed investigations, the application of a large number of techniques, and the acquisition of abundant absolute dates. The challenge of predicting the effects of the prophesied future global warming on morphogenetic processes and landforms has encouraged geomorphologists to study the Late Pleistocene and Holocene climatic changes from the geomorphological and geological record. The advances achieved in the field of climatic geomorphology during the past years are reflected by the publication of several specific monographs about the different morphoclimatic zones. The aim of this book is to provide an up-to-date general view of this branch of geomorphology. It includes a chapter on applied geomorphology for each morphoclimatic zone, providing an approximation of the main environmental problems. Geoscientists, geomorphologists,

Desert Meteorology Thomas T. Warner, 2009-01-18 Aridity prevails over more than one third of the land area of the Earth and over a significant fraction of the oceans as well. Yet to date there has been no comprehensive reference volume or textbook dealing with the weather processes that define the character of desert areas. Desert Meteorology fills this gap by treating all aspects of desert weather, such as large-scale and local-scale causes of aridity, precipitation characteristics in deserts, dust storms, floods, climate change in deserts, precipitation processes, desertification, land surface physics of deserts, numerical modelling of desert atmospheres, and the effect of desert weather on humans A summary is provided of the climates and surface properties of the desert areas of the world The book is written with the assumption that the reader has only a basic knowledge of meteorology physics and calculus making it useful to those in a wide range of disciplines It includes review questions and problems for the student This comprehensive volume will satisfy all who need to know more about the weather and climate of arid lands It will appeal especially to advanced students and researchers in environmental science meteorology physical geography hydrology and engineering Desert
