Frost traces the emergence and evolution of sports celebrity in Japan from the seventeenth through the twenty-first centuries Frost explores how various constituencies have repeatedly molded and deployed representations of individual athletes revealing that sports stars are socially constructed phenomena the products of both particular historical moments and broader discourses of celebrity Drawing from media coverage biographies literary works athletes' memoirs bureaucratic memoranda interviews and films Frost argues that the largely unquestioned mass of information about sports stars not only reflects but also shapes society and body culture He examines the lives and times of star athletes including sumo grand champion Hitachiyama female Olympic medalist Hitomi Kinue legendary pitcher Sawamura Eiji and world champion boxer Gushiken Yoko demonstrating how representations of such sports stars mediated Japan's emergence into the putatively universal realm of sports unsettled orthodox notions of gender facilitated wartime mobilization of physically fit men and women and masked lingering inequalities in postwar Japanese society As the first critical examination of the history of sports celebrity outside a Euro American context this book also sheds new light on the transnational forces at play in the production and impact of celebrity images and dispels misconceptions that sports stars in the non West are mere imitations of their Western counterparts

Ebersole, 2001-12-11 Reading Ebersole requires and often succeeds in producing a radical reorientation of one's thinking from a book review Things We Know is a collection of fifteen essays that focus on perennial philosophical problems about knowledge The essays let you participate in Frank Ebersole's unique struggles to come to terms with such questions as Can we know the world the past the future of Gods existence whether our actions are free the foundations of logic and language This is not just another philosophy book about problems of knowledge In Things We Know Ebersole by carefully using examples exposes the problems to be the products of philosophical pictures The examples also make the pictures less compelling Thus by reading this philosophy book readers can join the author in working to free themselves from some perplexing philosophical concerns How the Second Edition differs from the First Edition This edition differs from the First Edition University of Oregon Books 1967 in three ways An essay is added Everymans Ontological Argument has been inserted as Essay 14 following two other essays about the ontological argument Everymans Ontological Argument was published in the Fall 1978 issue of Philosophical Investigations The original Chapter 14 Where the Action Is is now Chapter 15 An essay is replaced The original Essay 3 How Philosophers See Stars has been replaced by a modified version that was printed in Philosophy Today no 2 1969 The replacement includes some further improvements The text is improved Throughout the book the author has made corrections stylistic improvements and changed the wording as needed to make clearer his line of thought Summary Each of the fifteen essays takes up a philosophical problem In most of the essays Ebersole first clarifies the problem and reviews common attempts to resolve the problem Then he focuses on the central ideas and terms used to state the problem and creates examples of people using the terms under consideration The examples are unique because of their focus on the context and point of what we say If his investigations fail to find a use of the terms that supports the philosophical problem he is led to conclude that the problem does not really derive from a philosophical insight but rather arises from a philosophical picture or model Preface The essays in Things We Know address some of the perennial philosophical problems of knowledge The essays are unified by being similar in method and philosophic aim Ebersole exposes a picture behind each problem In the essays he works through some of the ways that pictures control our thinking and tries to make the pictures less compelling Chapters 1 6 Perception and Language Chapter 1 Seeing Red in Red Things Philosophical problem Must words for simple visual properties e g red refer to things because the things share some property e g redness Can we see this property Topics investigated Family resemblances properties of colors when we regard things as the same when we regard colors as the same when we regard things as having common properties language world philosophical pictures Philosophers discussed A J Ayer J Herder J S Mill Chapter 2 Seeing Things Philosophical problem Do hallucinations and afterimage      George's Secret Key to the Universe Lucy Hawking, Stephen Hawking, Christophe Galfard, 2007-10-23 Follows the adventures of a young boy and his neighbor friend as they travel through a computer portal into outer space where they explore such mysteries as black holes and the origins of the universe while trying to evade an evil scientist      George Lopez Lila Guzmán, Rick Guzmán, 2009-01-01 Explores the life of Latino comedian and actor George Lopez including his childhood and family his path to success as a comedian and his charitable work in the community Provided by publisher      Encyclopedia of Twentieth-Century
