Rickford,2013 More than 50 years of scholarly attention to the intersection of language and education have resulted in a rich body of literature on the role of vernacular language varieties in the classroom. This field of work can be bewildering in its size and variety, drawing as it does on the diverse methods, theories, and research paradigms of fields such as sociolinguistics, applied linguistics, psychology, and education. Compiling most of the publications from the past half century that deal with this critical topic, this volume includes more than 1600 references, books, articles in journals or books, and web-accessible dissertations and other works on education in relation to African American Vernacular English (AAVE), English-based pidgins and creoles, Latino English, Native American English, and other English vernaculars such as Appalachian English in the United States and Aboriginal English in Australia, with accompanying abstracts for approximately a third of them. This comprehensive bibliography provides a tool useful for those interested in the complex issue of how knowledge about language variation can be used to more effectively teach students who speak a nonstandard or stigmatized language variety.

The Green Book of Language Revitalization in Practice Leanne Hinton, Kenneth Hale, 2013-06-13 With world-wide environmental destruction and globalization of economy, a few languages, especially English, are spreading rapidly in use while thousands of other languages are disappearing, taking with them important cultural, philosophical, and environmental knowledge systems and oral literatures. We all stand to suffer from such a loss, none more so than the communities whose very identity is being threatened by the impending death of their languages. In response to this crisis, indigenous communities around the world have begun to develop a myriad of projects to keep their languages alive. This volume is a set of detailed accounts about the kind of work that is going on now as people struggle for their linguistic survival. It also serves as a manual of effective practices in language revitalization. Following are the key features: 23 case studies of language revitalization in practice from Native American languages, Australian languages, Maori, Hawaiian, Welsh, Irish, and others, written primarily by authors directly involved in the programs; short introductions situate the languages to help make the languages more real in the minds of readers; each chapter gives a detailed overview of the various kinds of programs and methods in practice today; introductions and maps for each of the languages represented familiarize the reader with their history, linguistic structure, and sociolinguistic features; and strong representation in authorship and viewpoint of the people and communities whose languages are threatened gives the readers an inside understanding of the issues involved and the community's internal attitudes toward language loss and revitalization. This book was previously published by Academic Press under ISBN 978 01 23 49354 5.

East Europe and Asia and the evolving character of marriage and family in twenty first century America Exploring the US Language Flagship Program Dianna Murphy, Karen Evans-Romaine, 2016-11-07 A number of reports in the US have highlighted the country's need for improved second language skills for both national security and economic competitiveness. The Language Flagship program launched in 2002 aims to raise expectations regarding language proficiency levels at the post secondary level and to address structural gaps in the curricula of many L2 programs. This federally funded program provides opportunities for US undergraduate students in any specialization to reach a professional level of competence in a targeted second language by graduation. This volume highlights innovative practices that enable students to achieve this goal even those with no exposure to the second language prior to university. This book explores the rationale and history of the federal program and showcases models and strategies of existing Flagship programs New Perspectives on Grammar Teaching in Second Language Classrooms Eli Hinkel, Sandra Fotos, 2001-07 Brings together various approaches to the contextualized teaching of grammar communicative skills as integrated components of second language instruction. Purpose of the text is to show that grammar teaching can be productive useful in ESL classroom Imagined Communities and Educational Possibilities Yasuko Kanno, Bonny Norton, 2012-12-06 Imagined Communities and Educational Possibilities focuses on three main themes: imagined communities expand the range of possible selves; technological advances in the last two decades have had a significant impact on what is possible to imagine; and imagination at even the most personal level is related to social ideologies and hegemonies. The diverse studies in this issue demonstrate convincingly that learners and teachers are capable of imagining the world as different from prevailing realities. Moreover, time and energy can be invested to strive for the realization of alternative visions of the future. Research in this special issue suggests that investment in such imagined communities offers intriguing possibilities for social and educational change Perspectives on Classifier Constructions in Sign Languages Karen Emmorey, 2003-04-02 Classifier constructions are universal to sign languages and exhibit unique properties that arise from the nature of the visual gestural modality. The major goals are to bring to light critical issues related to the study of classifier constructions and to present state of the art linguistic and psycholinguistic analyses of these constructions. It is hoped that by doing so more researchers will be inspired to investigate the nature of classifier constructions across signed languages and further explore the unique aspects of these forms. The papers in this volume discuss the following issues: how sign language classifiers differ from spoken languages; cross linguistic variation in sign language classifier systems; the role of gesture; the nature of morpho syntactic and phonological constraints on classifier constructions; the grammaticization process for these forms; and the acquisition of classifier forms. Divided into four parts, groups of papers focus on a particular set of issues and commentary papers end each section The Sociolinguistics of Identity Tope Omoniyi, Goodith White, 2008-07-01 Brand new in paperback this volume looks at the problematic and controversial area of identity re-examining the analytical tools employed in sociolinguistic research The Handbook of
