German Women In Cameroon Travelogues From Colonial Tiems Women In German Literature Vol 7:

German Women in Cameroon Karin U. Schestokat, 2003 This book analyzes the travelogues of four German women who journeyed through Cameroon when it was a German colony 1884-1918 Three of the women Haase Rein Wuhrmann and Ziemann present their experiences as exciting adventures in a world that will profit from European progress and the teachings of Christianity The fourth Thorbecke is eventually able to accept the Africans and their customs on their own terms These travelogues were used as recruiting tools to entice other German women to come to Cameroon and they are a reflection of the German society's mindset at the cusp of the twentieth century As documentation of the identity formation and learning processes of their authors they give testimony to these women's openness tolerance and adaptability to the social and cultural environments of various African tribes in Cameroon Colonialism at the Center: German Colonial
