The German Hansa and Bergen 1100-1600 Arnvéd Nedkvitne, 2014 In the 13th and 14th centuries German Hansa merchants dominated North European maritime trade They created trade settlements abroad and new towns in the Baltic The Kontor in Bergen was the largest of these settlements and had ca 1000 residents in winter increasing to 2000 in summer Its counterpart was a Norwegian state whose authority declined after 1319 The resulting military administrative and judicial relations are unique in Northern Europe The great expansion in the Bergen stockfish trade took place 1250 1320 and declined after the Black Death Norwegian merchants and state officials found the Kontor presence problematic but stockfish producing households between Bergen and the Barents Sea saw the trade as a source of economic welfare and better food security

The Sovereign State and Its Competitors Hendrik Spruyt, 2020-05-05 The present international system composed for the most part of sovereign territorial states is often viewed as the inevitable outcome of historical development Hendrik Spruyt argues that there was nothing inevitable about the rise of the state system however Examining the competing institutions that arose during the decline of feudalism among them urban leagues independent communes city states and sovereign monarchies Spruyt disposes of the familiar claim that the superior size and war making ability of the sovereign nation state made it the natural successor to the feudal system The author argues that feudalism did not give way to any single successor institution in simple linear fashion Instead individuals created a variety of institutional forms such as the sovereign territorial state in France the Hanseatic League and the Italian city states in reaction to a dramatic change in the medieval economic environment Only in a subsequent selective phase of institutional evolution did sovereign territorial authority prove to have significant institutional advantages over its rivals Sovereign authority proved to be more successful in organizing domestic society and structuring external affairs Spruyt s interdisciplinary approach not only has important implications for change in the state system in our time but also presents a novel analysis of the general dynamics of institutional change

Reproduction of the original The Hansa Towns Helen Zimmern,1889 The ^ABoundless Sea David Abulafia,2019-09-16 A sweeping history of the world through its oceans and seas and their interconnections Germany's Northern Challenge Jason Lavery,2021-10-25 Shortly after the Augsburg peace settlement of 1555 from 1563 to 1576 the Holy Roman Empire was threatened by the rivalry between Denmark and Sweden This book examines the empire s reaction to a foreign crisis the Seven Years War of the North and the connections between foreign policy and internal imperial politics As this study will show and contrary to most assumptions the empire through its confederal structure was able to provide effective means for defending the domestic order against external dangers Further the empire could conduct a common foreign policy to protect common interests This study highlights the empire s internal organization and politics by introducing two new concepts initiative and consensus Initiative was possible on the basis of consensus but as this study reveals there were two specific limits on building consensus First the empire s polities could only support a common approach if they had common aims Second a united approach to an outside crisis had to foster the preservation of internal stability Motivated by German commerce in the Baltic the empire was persistent in trying to achieve peace in that region The empire was not alone in its interest in the Scandinavian conflict which threatened no less than the economic well being of western Europe Hanseatic League: Oxford Bibliographies Online Research Guide Oxford University
