English Historical Linguistics 2006: Lexical and semantic change Maurizio Gotti, Marina Dossena, Richard Dury, 2008 The papers collected in this volume were first presented at the 14th International Conference on English Historical Linguistics Bergamo 2006 Alongside studies of syntax morphology and dialectology published in two sister volumes many innovative contributions focused on semantics pragmatics and register variation A rich variety of state of the art studies and plenary lectures by acknowledged world experts in the field bears witness to the quality of the scholarly interest in this field of research In all the contributions well established methods combine with new theoretical approaches in an attempt to shed more light on phenomena that have hitherto remained unexplored or have only just begun to be investigated The accurate peer reviewed selection ensures the methodological homogeneity of the papers

Morphology 2000 Sabrina Bendjaballah, 2002 This volume focuses on two main topics comparative morphology i e cross linguistic analysis including typology dialectology and diachrony and psycholinguistics i e on line processing off line experiments child language Since the psycholinguistic papers of this volume consistently refer to issues of grammatical theory and many of the contributions on morphological theory consider psycholinguistic questions the topics are interconnected Both inflectional and derivational morphology are dealt with The volume spans a broad set of languages of the world such as African Amerindian Arabic and Chukotko Kamchatkan in addition to the Indo European languages This volume differs from the other collective volumes on morphology both by the breadth of topics and by great integration of theoretical and methodological perspectives

Frank, Cornelia Ilie, 2001-03-08 Together with its sister volume on Theoretical Cognitive Approaches this volume explores the contribution which cognitive linguistics can make to the identification and analysis of overt and hidden ideologies This volume shows that descriptive tools which cognitive linguistics developed for the analysis of language in use are highly efficient for the analysis of ideologies as well Amongst them are the concept of grounding and the speaker's deictic centre iconographic reference frames cultural cognitive models as a subgroup of Idealized Cognitive Models conceptual metaphors root metaphors frames as groups of metaphors mental spaces and conceptual blending The first section Political metaphor and ideology discusses topics such as Nazi Germany discrimination of Afro Americans South Africa's rainbow nation and the impeachment campaign against President Clinton The second section on cross cultural Otherness deals with cultural clashes such as those between the Basque symbolic world and the general European value systems between the Islam and the West determining its treatment of Iraq in the Gulf War and between Hong Kong Otherness and centuries of Western dominance The third section deals with Metaphors for institutional ideologies and concentrates on the globalisation of the North and South American markets on insults in un parliamentary debates and on the Internet being for sale

Word Order, Agreement and Pronominalization in Standard and Palestinian Arabic Mohammad A. Mohammad, 2000-04-15 The two related issues of word order and subject verb agreement have occupied center stage in the study of Arabic syntax since the time of Sibawayhi in the eighth century This book is a contribution to both of these areas It is grounded within the generative grammar framework in one of its most recent versions namely Minimalism as expounded in Chomsky 1995 In this volume a detailed description is given of word order options in Modern Standard Arabic MSA and Palestinian Arabic PA It is shown that perhaps surprisingly the two varieties allow almost the same range of word orders The important question of whether Arabic has a VP is addressed the author argues extensively that Arabic has a VP category The evidence derives from examining superiority effects ECP effects binding variable interpretations etc Also discussed is the content of Spec TP in VSO sentences It is argued that the position is occupied by an expletive pronoun The author defends the Expletive Hypothesis which states that in VSO sentences the expletive may take part in checking some features of the verb A typology of the expletive pronoun in Modern Standard Arabic Palestinian Arabic Lebanese Arabic and Moroccan Arabic is provided A particularly interesting problem involving pronominal co reference is the following if the subject is the antecedent of a pronominal clitic word order is free if a pronominal is cliticized onto the subject then the antecedent must precede An account that derives these restrictions without recourse to linear order is proposed Sounds, Words, Texts and Change

Teresa Fanego, Belén Méndez-Naya, Elena Seoane, 2002-07-18 This volume and its companion one English Historical Syntax and Morphology CILT 223 offer a selection of papers from the Eleventh International Conference on English Historical Linguistics held at the University of Santiago de Compostela From the rich programme over 130 papers were given during the conference the present thirteen papers were carefully selected to reflect the state of current research in the field of English historical linguistics The areas represented in the volume are lexis and semantics text types historical sociolinguistics and dialectology and phonology Many of the articles tackle questions of change and linguistic periodization through the use of methodological tools like corpora linguistic atlases thesauri and historical dictionaries The theoretical frameworks adopted include among others multi dimensional analysis systemic functional grammar Communication Accommodation Theory historical discourse analysis and Optimality Theory Comparative Historical Dialectology Thomas D. Cravens, 2002 This brief monograph explores the historical motivations for two sets of phonological changes in some varieties of Romance restructured voicing of intervocalic p t k and palatalization of initial l and n These developments have been treated repeatedly over the decades yet neither has enjoyed a satisfactory solution This book attempts to demonstrate that both outcomes are ultimately attributable to the loss of early pan Romance consonant gemination This study is of interest not only to the language specific field of historical Romance linguistics but also to general historical linguistics The central problems examined here constitute classic cases of questions that cannot be answered by confining analysis solely to the individual languages under investigation The passage of time the indirect nature of fragmentary and accidental documentation and the nature of the changes themselves conspire to deny access to the most essential facts However comparison of closely cognate languages now undergoing change supplies a perspective for discerning conditions that may ultimately lead to states achieved in the distant past by the languages under investigation

Lexicology, Semantics and Lexicography Julie Coleman, Christian J. Kay, 2000-07-15 The papers in this volume show the range and direction of current work in historical semantics and word studies There is a strong focus throughout on semantic change and lexical innovation interpreted within a sociolinguistic cultural or textual context Many of the papers draw on the remarkable range of electronic resources now available to historical linguists notably corpora dictionaries bibliographies and thesauruses and show the effects that these have had in stimulating new lines of research or the re interpretation of previous conclusions Cognitive semantics and especially prototype theory emerges as a challenging theoretical framework for much current research The volume contains a selection from papers presented at the 10th International Conference on English Historical Linguistics 10ICEHL They include work on historical lexicography and an account of the workshop on electronic dictionary resources such as the Revised Oxford English Dictionary which formed the centrepiece of the Fourth G L Brook Symposium

Grammaticalization Jürgen Klausenburger, 2000-01-01 In this monograph various aspects of the morphosyntactic evolution of the Romance languages are shown to interact in a theory of grammaticalization The study argues for the incorporation and subordination of inflectional morphology within a grammaticalization continuum constituting but a portion of the latter Parameters of natural morphology are seen as principles of grammaticalization but the reverse is also true rendering grammaticalization and natural morphology indistinguishable In the context of this theoretical framework Chapter 2 deals with Latin French and Italian verbal inflection focusing on universal and system dependent parameters of natural morphology In Chapter 3 a theory of grammaticalization is built on divergent elements including not only grammaticalization studies proper but also the perception production line of inquiry and typology and branching issues permitting the phasing out of the traditional synthesis analysis cycle Chapter 4 touches on nominal inflection in particular that of Old French and Rumanian the most revealing histories in the Romance domain Chapter 5 finally thoroughly discusses extant theoretical questions in grammaticalization prominently featuring the relevance of invisible hand explanations and the crucial role played by unidirectionality This study will be of interest to specialists in Romance and historical linguistics as well as morphological theory

The Laws of Indo-European N. E. Morphological Analysis in Comparison Wolfgang U. Dressler, 2000-01-01 This volume consists of selected and revised papers from the Seventh International Morphology Meeting held in 1996 in Vienna It presents advances in morphological theorizing such as the foundations of sign based morphology the morphology syntax interface the boundaries between compounding and derivation derivation and inflection and the emergence of morphology from premorphological precursors in early first language acquisition The contributions deal with morphological analyses in various fields of the ever widening domain of morphology and its relevance to the lexicon The comparative aspect is reflected in the above mentioned areas and through the variety of languages investigated Indo European and non Indo European languages of Europe and Asian African and American languages This breadth allows valuable insights into current problems of morphological research in America Western and Eastern Europe History and Perspectives of Language Study Olga Mičeska Tomić, Milorad Radovanović, 2000 Each of the contributions in this volume expresses in some way the hope that it is possible to achieve an integrity of linguistics understood as a science of man in its psychological sociological pragmatic and cultural context The first section focuses on the history of language study the second section on the integrative description of facets of language and the last section on the need for the study of language in context Event Structure Jan Voorst, 1988-01-01 This study establishes a relation between the semantics of the subject and the direct object NP and aspect The notion of event is central Events have a beginning and an end This means in temporal terms that events have a point in time at which they begin and a point in time at which they end However events are not defined in temporal terms but in spatial terms This means that they are defined in terms of the entity that can be used to identify their beginning and the entity that can be used to identify their end These two entities are denoted by the subject and the direct object NP respectively The name of the event is provided by the verb It is these three notions that make up Event Structure the entity denoting the beginning i.e. the object of origin the entity denoting the end i.e. the object of termination and the event itself The three primitives are independently motivated in the domain of tense interpretations of sentences Their presence or absence affects these interpretations in a systematic way

The Numeral Systems of Nigerian Languages Ozo-mekuri Ndimele, S.L. Chan, 2016-04-30 The papers in this collection present the numeral systems of more than twenty Nigerian languages The papers mainly emanate from a workshop on the numeral systems of Nigerian languages organised by the Linguistic Association of Nigeria during its 23rd Annual Conference which was held at the University of Port Harcourt Nigeria The workshop arose from awareness created by Dr Eugene S L Chan on the need for Nigerian linguists to document this severely endangered but very important aspect of natural languages The quantum of mathematical computations addition multiplication subtraction or a combination of two or all of these involved in the numeral systems of Nigerian languages is remarkable The papers reveal that a variety of numeral systems do exist such as binary decimal incomplete decimal duodecimal quinary quaternary ternary mixed body part tally systems and much more The book is a resource about how different languages manipulate their numeral systems
